Bar NAACP, CORE from Resaturant

The State Interracial Commission has asked the Montgomery County state's attorney to file a petition in court against a Silver Spring restaurant that persists in discriminating against colored citizens.

Refusing to serve colored patrons although served notice to cease and desist under the Civil Rights Law is Sam Crivella, owner of Crivella's Wayside Inn, a plush restaurant at 1806 East West Highway, Silver Spring.

At a public hearing in April, it was testified Mr. Crivella said he would serve "good colored people but not bad colored people."

Parren Mitchell, Commission head, said Mr. Crivella asked colored patrons to sign statements that they were not members of the NAACP or CORE.

FIRST complaints against the restaurant were filed in April. Final notice went to Mr. Crivella on May 14 to comply with the state's public accommodations law.

The Commission announced Wednesday that it had certified to the Montgomery County State's Attorney that Crivella still persists in violation of the law.

Hearings set on Long's Older Workers Bureau

Congressional hearings will be held next month on a bill introduced by Maryland's Rep. Clarence D. Long, to establish an Older Workers Bureau within the Labor Department.

The hearings are scheduled by a subcommittee of the House Committee on Education and Labor.

Rep. Long said the Bureau would:

1. Visit and hold conferences with employees, union leaders and other groups to promote jobs for older workers.

2. Investigate and report on ways in which tax policies, pension programs, wage systems, collective bargaining agreements and about the efficiency of workers over 40 may discourage their employment.

3. Assist in the re-employment of older workers whenever a major dislocation occurs through plant shut-down, prepare tests for older workers to determine their skills and aptitudes, and develop re-training programs for such workers to increase their employability.

4. Stimulate local communities to develop voluntary, non-profit, employment counseling and assistance for workers over 40.

5. Coordinate the activities of all federal agencies to prevent discrimination in employment of older workers, and encourage hiring of such workers at all levels.

Charlie Grimm accepts 'Immortals' Night invite

Venerable Charlie Grimm, who led the Chicago Cubs to three National League pennants, will fill a pinch-hitting role at the Shrine of Immortals Night program at Memorial Stadium next Saturday night (July 24).

Grimm, who spent 25 years in professional baseball as a first baseman and is now a vice-president with the Cub's organization, has agreed to take over direction of the 1965 National League All-Stars at the Stadium for the ailing Billy Southworth.

* * *

ORIGINALLY, the '45 All-Star Game was cancelled because of wartime restrictions on travel. Officials of the Orioles and Maryland Professional Baseball Players Association, who sponsor Shrine of Immortals Night, decided to invite stars of that season to appear here in their program before Baltimore's game with the Minnesota Twins.

Because this was two years before baseball lowered its racial bars, there will be no colored players in this affair.

As manager of the 1944 world champion St. Louis Cardinals, Southworth would have been the pilot of the 45-All-Stars. Confined to his Sunbury, O., home because of illness, Billy sent his regrets that he could not attend the program. Grimm, then became the logical choice to pinch hit for Southworth, since his Cubs of 1945 won the NL pennant.

Girl Scouts from around the world meeting in Idaho

One hundred and fifty Girl Guides and Girl Scouts from 45 countries will meet on July 15-28 at the "1965 Roundup" in Farragut, Idaho

In preparation for the event, girls from every part of the globe will begin arriving in this country four weeks in advance to live among their American counterparts and work out details for the Roundup activities.

According to Mrs. Joan B. Bereska, of the Maryland Girl Scout Council, hostesses will come from 75 Girl Scout Councils from throughout the United States.

Among the countries to be represented at the affair are, Bahamas, British Guiana, Ceylon, Colombia, Denmark, Guatemala, Haiti, India, Japan, Korea, Lebanon Luxembourg, Philippines, Portugal and South Africa.

* * *

MRS. BERESKA said that the aim of the Roundup, which is joint effort of the U.S. State Department and the Girl Scouts of America, is to:

". . . Help the girl become better acquainted with the cultural patterns of many countries and to understand the attitudes and opinions of girls and women around the world."
