61 youth corpsmen working at BURHA

(Photos on Back Page)

A group of 61 young people who have joined the Neighborhood Youth Corps have been placed with the Baltimore Urban Renewal and Housing Agency, announces Richard L. Steiner, BURHA director.

BURHA is one of several city agencies — such as the Enoch Pratt Library, the Department of Public Welfare, and the Bureau of Recreation — which are cooperating in carrying out the program.

Forty - three boys and 13 girls, who have already been placed at BURHA, are working in the maintenance crews and offices of the Housing Management Division, and five others are working in the Relocation program. It is expected that the total will increase considerably during the coming months.

• • •

THE NEIGHBORHOOD Youth Corps places young people between 16 and 21 years of age who have dropped out of school and have been unable to find work. Some 200 youths have already joined the Corps, and plans are being made to handle a much larger number by the end of 1965.

Members of the Corps are paid $1.25 an hour by the City for a 32 - hour work week of four days. Attendance is also required on a fifth day for instruction and recreation.

• • •

EDGAR L. EWING, BURHA's Assistant Director for Neighborhood Rehabilitation and chairman of the Agency's Anti - Poverty Committee, is enthusiastic about the possibilities of the Youth Corps. "This program gives young people an opportunity to do something meaningful for the city," he said, "and at the same time they are getting work experience and beginning to learn skills that will help them when they try to enter the regular labor market."

Although four years of training are required for a full - fledged apprentice, the two years of training the young people receive should qualify them as experienced helpers and enable them to become candidates for apprenticeship in the various trades.

In the group now working at BURHA, 10 girls and three boys are doing office work. Of the remaining 45 boys and three girls, 29 are working with the central maintenance crews, 18 are assigned to individual projects, and five are working in the Relocation program. The maintenance crews handle such work as carpentry, plastering, tuck pointing, roofing, termite extermination, and heating plants.

The carpentry crew has been the most popular thus far, for it has been chosen by five boys and one girl, in whatever kind of work they choose, the boys and girls are given careful instruction in procedures and methods. At first they are assigned the very simplest tasks and are closely supervised. As they gain more experience and skill, they are progressively given more and more responsibility.

William Knop, supervisor of maintenance, is in charge of the Youth Corps workers at BURHA.

Also participating in the program was Mrs. Geraldine Reynold's fifth grade class.

NW Association closes by giving to community

There was not a dissenting voice at the closing meeting of the Northwestern United Protective Association when the group authorized three projects to aid the community.

To make their neighbors mindful of their duty, they printed 500 flyers urging them to cooperate with a list of ten "Do and Don't" items.

A week later members, Mrs. Beatrice Garrett, Charles Hobb and Miss Sarar Sampson, presented a check for $100 to the Provident Hospital Building Fund to Henry J. White, administrator.

Then on July 7, Mrs. Susie Hilburn, president of the association, presented a slide projector and screen to the Senior Citizen Unit of the George Murphy Homes.

Accompanying Mrs. Hilburn for the presentation were Mrs. Bessie Butler, Mrs. Garrett, Miss Sampson and Mis Eulalia Mallory.

Dr. Jenkins to speak at Morticians' meet

By
ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

Dr. Martin David Jenkins, president of Morgan State College, will be among prominent speakers addressing the National Funeral Directors and Morticians Convention at the Hilton Hotel, Aug. 8-13 in New York City.

Dr. Jenkins will give the address at the Tuesday, Aug. 10 black-tie, annual awards banquet, a plush, gay affair, where presentations will be made to the funeral director and directress of the year.

Noted for wit and humor, Dr. Jenkins will set the pace for the convention scheduled to usher in a new era in burials that are "in keeping with the times"

According to Marshall W. Jones Jr., secretary of Baltimore's morticians organization, the trend today is toward "less gloomy last rites"; "happier - looking hearses"; "more glamour for those taking the glory road home".

(Come to think of it, with the arrival of the new, vitalized church, the choir jazzing up the hymns, who wants a solemn funeral going on?)

• • •

HIGHLIGHTING the convention, therefore, will be merchants on hand to exhibit the "happier hearses" in hues of the rainbow, even red and white, while burial garment makers will show "latest fashions" in shrouds now in pastel colors "more pleasant" sheer fabrics, silks and "more fashionable" designs and styles.

The Education Division's sessions throughout the week will hear authorities and specialists giving the latest word on how to "sell" the "livelier, gayer" funeral to the public.

The annual ball, also black-tie, is Aug. 12 in the Hilton ballroom from 10 until.

Friday, Aug. 13, the final day, is Morticians' Day at the World's Fair. (Now, that figures.)

C. W. Lee of Montgomery, Ala. is the national president.

Among Baltimoreans attending will be delegates, Mrs. Alethia McCrimmon, James Morton and George Tittle and alternates, Purnell Oden and Marshall W. Jones, Jr.

Officers of the local organization are Herbert Nutter, president; Arlington S. Phillips, Joseph Brown and Joseph Russ vice-president; Marshall W. Jones Jr., secretary; Vernon Bailey, treasurer; Joseph G. Locks, Jr. business manager; Purnell B. Oden, chaplain and William I. Chatman, board chairman.

WOMAN'S WORLD

3.4 million women hold jobs in USA

WASHINGTON (NNPA)— There were 3.4 million nonwhite women workers in the United States in April 1965, the Labor Department reveals in a special report issued last month.

The report said they represented 45 percent of nonwhite women in the population and 13 percent of all women workers. More than 4 million non - white women were not in the labor force; about 3 million of them were keeping house, 902,000 were in school, and 247,000 were not working for other reasons.

• • •

IN EACH age group except the teenager group, non-white women had a higher labor - force participation than white women. Similarly, among married women with or without children, there were proportionately more non-white than white working wives.

In April 1965, 307,000 colored women workers were seeking employment. The unemployment rate was 9.1 per cent, compared to 5.1 percent for white women.

Unemployment rates of non-white women in 1964 were higher than those of a white women in each age group except 6 years and over, with the most striking difference occuring among teenagers. About every third non-white girl 14 - 19 years old was looking for a job as compared to every seventh white girl.

• • •

NON-WHITE women were employed in all major occupational groups in April 1965, with the largest number in private — household and other service work. In contrast, the largest number of white women were clerical workers.

Among both nonwhite and white women there were fairly similar proportions of operatives. The proportions of nonwhite women teachers and white women teachers were about the same; all other white - collar categories accounted for relatively fewer nonwhite women than white women.

SIXTY-ONE YEARS later, on their anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Deaver of Baltimore simulated their wedding day... but with the assistance of 85 descendants.

Respect for rights of each has welded Deavers 61 years

Respect for each other's rights is the foundation of a happy marriage, Lawrence Deaver said, this week.

Add to this love and the following of Christian precepts and you have an unfailing combinations he adds.

The formula has certainly worked for Mr. Deaver and his wife, Mrs. Nettie Deaver, who celebrated the 61st anniversary of their marriage on July 11.

• • •

THE YEARS for the Deavers have been filled with companionship and love. They are just as much in love on their anniversary as they were on their wed ding day, they say.

In fact the wedding day and the 41st anniversary day simulated each other in many ways.

• • •

IT WAS JUST such a rainy, cool and dreary day in 1904 as was the 11th, when they exchanged vows at the altar of St. Peter Claver's Catholic Church.

The anniversary day was culminated in the same manner, with the assistant pastor of St. Francis Xaveria's Catholic Church offering Mass at 5 p.m. in this honor. At 10:30 that morning, Fr. Malloy of St. Francis Xaveia had administered Holy Communion to the couple at their home, 4313 Dewey Ave.

DURING THE afternoon their children, relatives and friends had called to wish them continued happiness.

Parents of eight children, Mr. and Mrs. Deaver have 38 living grandchildren and 37 great - grandchildren.

All eight of the children were with them at dinner to celebrate the occasion. They included Mrs. Agnada Diggs, Mrs. Gladys Williams, Mrs. Hilda Diggs, Mrs. Wilbur Pulliam and Mr. Pullian, George Deaver, James E. Deaver, Lawrence Deaver, Jr., and Garfield Deaver.

• • •

ALSO PRESENT were his sister, Mrs. Charles Lightfood, and grandchildren, including:

Mr. and Mrs. George Diggs, Lawrence Diggs, Milton Langley, Irving Williams Jr., Vernon Williams, Thomas Williams, Edward Williams,

Edward Williams, Michael Williams, Richard Ennis, Arthur Darby, Lawrence Deaver 3rd., Mark Deaver, Kenneth Plunkett,

Garfield Deaver Jr., Garfield Williams, Eric Pulliam, Wilbur Pulliam Jr.,

Misses Peggie Diggs, Denise Deaver, Melina Pulliam, Linda Deaver, Sharon Deaver; Mrs. Paul Williams, Odell McClain and Prentiss Diggs.

Next high day on the couple's calendar will come in November, when he celebrates his 85th birthday, and she her 80th natal day.

MISS JANIE YOUNG

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Young of 4408 the Alameda, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Janie Young, to Raymond E. McClellan, II, of Lexington, Ky.

A July wedding is planned.

Miss Young, a graduate of Eastern High School, is employed by the U.S. Public Service Hospital. Mr. McClellan is a graduate of Dunbar High School in Lexington; and received a bachelor of science degree from Morehead College, Lexington. He is employed by the Food and Drugs Commission.

Mrs. Thompson dinner guest

Mrs. Pernetha Thompson of Jersey City, N.J. was honoree at a dinner party given by her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Thompson, here, recently.

Guests also included Mesdames Susie Wise, Ida Mae Chappell, Charlotte Burnett and Irene Jackson of this city.

MR. AND MRS. ALFRED DIXON exuded happiness at the testimonial given in honor of the retirement of Mrs. Dixon from the Baltimore School system. Mr. Dixon had been recently honored upon his retirement, the week before.
