Mt. Winans News

By GERTRUDE M. PARKER

This is a special appeal to the parents and children in the Mt. Winans Area: Keep your children off the streets; send them to Mt. Winans Recreation Center, School No. 156.

There they can participate in a program of activities and games for all school age children. Mrs. Helen Hayes is director of the center, James Parker, recreation assistant.

Vacation Bible School will open at Bethany Baptist Church on Monday, July 26. Registration is open to children 4 to 15 years. Classes are scheduled from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Miss Dorothy Savage is in charge of the school. Teachers are Patricia Hopkins, Priscilla Johnson, Geneva Hopkins, Robert Gladding, Leroy Johnson, Richard Kinchin, Walter Hill Jr., and the Rev. Roland Johnson.

Attending the School of Christian Mission Wesleyan Service Guild Weekend and the Woman's Society of Christian Service held at Western Maryland College, Westminster on July 16 to 25, were Mrs. Blanche Powell and Mrs. Sadie Hooker of Mt. Winans Methodist Church.

Mt. Winans Methodist Church will close its Vacation Bible School this Friday with a special program at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. Gladys Wallace of Hilton St. and her grandchildren, Cordelia Johnson and Amos Bowie left on Saturday for a visit with relatives in Philadelphia Pa. and New York City.

EAT BEEF NOT HOG — Mrs. Marlene Karriem, right, looks at choice samples of kosher meats displayed at a food demonstration of "How and What to Eat to Live" at the Muhammad's Mosque No. 6, 514 Wilson St. Mrs. Elsie X. Thornton and Mrs. Lela X. Wood show meats which Muslims eat instead of eating any part of the hog — which they strongly condemn. Mrs. Karriem, wife of the Rev. Isaiah Karriem, was speaker for the demonstration. She and other Muslim women prepared the sample meat which followed the talk.

Muslims discuss 'how, what to eat to live'

Eat one meal a day—and let it be without swine flesh and you will live longer. That was the message preached at the food demonstration on "How and What to Eat to Live" at the Islam Temple, 514 Wilson St. on Wednesday evening.

The Rev. Isaiah Karriem, acting as master of ceremonies, told the adience of 50, "eat once every 24 hours. You will get all you need if you eat properly — no matter what kind of work you do. It's not how much you eat but when you eat."

Teaching how to eliminate illness was the purpose of the meeting given by the followers of Elijah Muhammad.

Preaching that the hog is filthy, lazy, never gets enough to eat and eats any thing, the Rev. Mr. Karriem stated that "no righteous people eat hog."

"Anything you can get from the hog, you can get from beef".

AND TO prove this, his wife, Mrs. Marlene Karriem told the listeners what they could eat and why.

She urged the congregation to eat only those foods raised in a kosher place. Muslims can eat kosher steaks, veal chops, kosher bacon, kosher bologna, corn beef and salami and kosher beef hot dogs.

Muslims look down on foods that are rich in sugar and starches. According to the Rev. Karriem five years are deducted from a person's life if he eats meats in any form corn bread, okra, string beans and white potatoes.

Even chicken, a favorite meat, is condemned if it is not raised in a kosher place.

MUSLIM PRACTICE is not to keep meat for more than three days and not to freeze it. According to the Rev. Karriem, this is because the Orthodox Rabbis inspect the animals while they are being killed and inspect the meat before selling.

Because the food must be prepared in a certain way, girls are taught how to cook in a Muslim Girls' Training School and General Civilization Class at the temple. Mrs. Mabel Winborne is captain of this class.

She and members of her class prepared the night's meal which consisted of Famous Muslim Bean Soup, white wheat rolls, Muslim special ground beef, Egyptian style white cabbage roast lamb Arabian style, brown rice, punch and dessert, bean pie known as freedom pie.

Most of the Muslim members are low incomers and kosher meats are expensive, but the Rev. Karriem said that the solution to the problem lies in unity. If the members stick together, meat can be purchased wholesale and sold at reduced rates.

Drop unruly charge; pills hyped whiskey

CHICAGO (NPI) — Disorderly conduct charges against NAACP executive secretary, were dropped recently when the defendant testified that he was using medication for a heart ailment.

Rev. Fuqua, 30, arrested last of a downtown hotel, said he April 30 in a cocktail lounge of a downtown hotel, said he didn't know "the medicine, when taken with a glass of whisky, would cause such a reaction."

He was charged with being drunk, becoming abusive and creating a disturbance when he was refused another drink. He still faces charges of resisting arrest.

Carey impressive in Bronco workout

Pushing to get his Bronco team ready for the Aug. 7 exhibition game at Annapolis High School Coach Doc Bardinski put his horses through a perspiring workout in 90 degree heat.

Down at one end of the Glen Burnie High School field, Line Coach Sisto Averno had his herd of beef banging each other with midseason form.

Averno was especially pleased with the ability and zeal of 255 pound offense guard Sterling Parking, a former draft choice of the Green Bay Packers; Jim "Tiger" Pusaitis's, 255 pound offense guard from the University of Buffalo, and Hugh Carey, 242 pound guard from Morgan State.

PARREN J. MITCHELL, Executive secretary, Maryland Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations, is rumored to be named soon as director of the city's Community Action Agency, replacing Dr. Melvin Humphey who resigned.

—Jim Brown

the seven - woman, five-man jury to judge Brown as just another man and not as a football hero.

During his cross-examination, the 230 - pound Brown denied any intimate relationship with the 108 - pound girl. During the night in question, Brown said he "never laid a finger on her" although he admitted giving her money to take a cab home.

Assistant police prosecutor Albert Corsi asked Brown, "do you normally give money to girls you've known only that length of time?"

Brown answered, "I'm some — on occasions."

BROWN denied all of 10-year - old Brenda's accusations that he slapped and beat her during an all-night date at a motel June 20.

Assistant Police Prosecutor Albert Corsi asked the football star, "Did you say a finger on her?" as the testimony ended.

"No," Brown replied to him and a jury of seven women and five men. Three rebuttal witnesses were recalled briefly before the woman judge began discussions with lawyers about closing arguments.

Defense Counsel Norman Minor, who concluded his direct questioning of Brown Wednesday, returned for a few more short queries of the football player on Thursday.

BROWN DRAMATICALLY stepped down from the witness chair as Minor had him move slowly along in front of the jurors, his hands outstretched.

"Hold them up so they can see your nails," Minor said. And move slowly."

Stepping back on the stand, Brown was asked, "Is the condition of your hands today the same as it was on June 20?" Minor asked.

Brown said yes, and Minor asked him why. Brown smiled and replied, "I guess I handle the football more than anybody else in the National Football League. And I find short nails better — more sensitive. That goes for pass, too — and I don't want to drop too many passes."

BUT BROWN was firm when the prosecutor asked him about his relationship with his accuser. He occasionally glanced at the ceiling in thought before answering and from time to time wet his lips.

The assault and battery trial tied a nine-day record for a police court criminal trial. Brown's attendance at the trial prevented him from joining his teammates practicing at nearby Hiram for the College All - Star game in Chicago next month.

He said he had tried to be helpful to Brenda Ayres at her mother's request, but said he terminated their two months of friendship.

He said she still pursued him until the fateful morning she came to his motel where she claims he beat her.

BROWN, 29, said he had the motel room for the past few months as a retreat to which he, and sometimes his wife, Sue, escape two or three times a week to get away from the pressure of his varied business activities and frequent telephone calls from fans and others that are made to his home here.

He told the jury of seven women and five men Miss Ayres came to the motel about 3 a.m. June 20 while he was sleeping and told him through the locked door she wanted to talk to him about their five - week acquaintance.

JIM BROWN Denies girl's charges

The big Cleveland Brown's star said Miss Ayres refused to leave when he told her it was late and her mother would be worried, and he finally allowed her to enter the motel room after he put on a robe.

IN RESPONSE to Chief Defense Counsel Norman Minor's questioning, Brown said he and Miss Ayres talked for perhaps an hour and the girl repeatedly refused to go home, even when he offered to drive her home and threatened to call her mother.

Brown said he finally dressed and left the motel for a 5 a.m. golf date that Sunday. He said he left $5 on the dresser in his room, telling Miss Ayre to go home in a taxi when she decided to leave. He said she was standing in the room when he left.

BROWN SAID Miss Ayres's testimony that she and Brown had been sexually intimate on about eight occasions during the brief time they had known each other was "completely false," that her assault charges was "false," and that her claim that she and Brown had participated in sexual acts the night of June 19-20 in the motel room were "false."

Minor completed his direct examination of Brown with only 20 minutes of testimony by the defendant.

BROWN, nattily dressed in a navy blue suit and a dark, striped tie, was relaxed on the witness stand, responding to questions in a full, even voice.

Brown said he first met Miss Ayres about May 12, the date referred to in previous testimony, although he personally did not recall the exact date. He said Miss Ayres was introduced to him at the home of Mrs. Audrey White, who handes fan mail for him on a part-time basis.

He said the evening of June 19 he had gone to Mrs. White's home to pay her, and then agreed to take Mrs. White's children and Brenda, who was there when he arrived, to a restaurant where the girls got some food to take out.

He left the White children off at their home and then reluctantly agreed to drop Brenda at an East Side intersection at her request. Brown said he did so and then went alone to his motel room and went to bed, and slept until Brenda appeared at 3 a.m.

Petties, Lyles in Colt corral

BALTIMORE — It was announced today, Tuesday, by the Baltimore Colts that John Diehl and Neal Petties, a pair of highly regarded rookies, had signed for duty. It will be the fifth pro season for Diehl, a defensive tackle, and the second for Pettien, a split end.

Selected 14th as a future in 1963, the 6 - 2, 196 - pound Pettien earned his keep last season by performing capably on the "special" teams and showing pass - catching potential in the practice sessions. The Colts currently have him listed to back up Raymond Berry at left end.

A second - team Little All-American at San Diego State which is also his hometown, Neal figures to get in considerable playing time in this summer's pre - season contests.

LATE LAST WEEK, the Steeds announced that defensive ace Leamy Lyles had come to terms.

After four years as a kick-off return specialist, the 6-2, 202-pound Lyles was given an opportunity to fill in as a reserve at right halfback in 1962. He's been a regular at the position the past two seasons with the Colts intercepting two passes each season and returning them for a total of 76 yards.

Rips by-passing of Satch Paige

CHICAGO (NPI) — Declaring "there can be no Hall of Fame without Leroy (Satchel) Paige," ex-baseball mogul Bill Veeck last week ripped the selectors of baseball's hallowed Hall of Fame for their failure to enshrine the indestructible Paige, along with the game's other immortals.

Calling the snubbing of Paige a constant source of irritation to him, the retired ex-White Sox owner said it was no fault of the 60-year-old Paige that he entered the major league during "the waning years of his career."

Satch was bypassed this year for James F. Galvin, a pitcher at "the turn of the century," who will be enshrined at Cooperstown, N. Y. July 26.
