AS A result of the Baltimore County Board of Education closing two of the county's remaining "three all-colored elementary schools, Mrs. Catherine S. Madden, principal of Banneker, was transferred to the vice-principalship of Perry Hall Elementary.

Mrs. Frances B. Bruce, principal of Turner, was named vice-principal of Arbutus Elementary.

The Board of Education said that Banneker and Turner buildings would not be used as an annex for a neighboring school. The board authorized Banneker to be temporarily used by Catonsville Community College to provide space for electronics classes.

The board also voted to allow first graders to be dismissed at 2:30 p. m., one hour earlier than others, from school opening day until after Thanksgiving.

The Candlelight Lodge was the scene last week of the final gathering of the faculty of Banneker School.

"May the Good Lord bless and Keep You", sung by Herbert Brown caused many to pull out hankerchiefs and wipe away tears.

Mrs. Madden, the principal was surprised when an antique lamp was presented to her by Mrs. Palestine Welch on behalf of the PTA.

Each faculty member and employee received gifts. Mrs. Gertrude Smith, PTA president, surprised the executive board with gifts. She ended the evening by reading Banneker's alma mater.

Mrs. Welsh was chairman and mistress of ceremonies. She was assisted by Mr. Brown, heads the Music Department at Rosewood State Hospital, who erased some of tears with his group singing and witty humor.

FROM DOWN North Carolina-way motored talented Mrs. Effie Mae Thomas last weekend. A school teacher, visited the Bakers on Reisterstown Rd. She came mainly to witness a preview of the fall fashions which was held in the Baltimore County area.

Sympathy is sent to Mrs. Majorie Dorsey of Old Fredderick Rd. for the loss of her husband Ringold Dorsey Sr. and to Mrs. Genevie Brown for the loss of her mother, Mrs. Mary Brodex.

Thought for today: I hate to see a thing done by halves; if it be right, do it boldly; if it be wrong, leave it undone.

A COUPLE of hundred guests had high fun, fine food, games, music and good comradarie when Dorothy Evans, wh- heads the Wingoes Club, herded her flock down the Ritchie Highway to Rice's Cashah, Sunday ago. Only, 'twas the Rices' cottage and private grounds on which Dorothy and a co - host, William B. McConkey garnered as a beautiful background for the affair.

The Wingoes (Mary Miller, Thelma Gamby, Betty Lindsay, Ethel Pierce, Lillian Maith, Doris Rheubottom, Theresa Cley, Thelma Dixon, Lelia Powell, Pauline Weston, Alfreda Pinkney, Cecelia Fitzgerald, Georgia Thomas, Edna White, Mabel Fletcher, and Mrs. Evans) garnered the guests chiefly from Baltimore, but there was a goodly sprinkling from Washington and New York.

The D.C. aggregation included the five Martin brothers: Murrick, Walter, David, Harry and Henry; the handsome George Whickham, who has made a bundle out of apartments; Mrs. Duke Ellington and Henry Jackson, the attorney, who often escorts her;

Also Alice Lee, Alice Butler, who come the first, will be off to California and a visit with her daughter; Dr. and Mrs. Calvin Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. Roland Brown, the Alonzo Collinses, one time owner of the Crystal Caverns in Washington.

And from New York, Victor Lloyd of the movies and Dr. Walter Harris.

Ethel Johnson, of the Wingoes Club, was in the hospital at that time, hence was not on hand.

This week, however, she is recuperating at the home (just a little $45,000 manse) which she and husband, Leon, recently had built on Kennison Avenue.

Engineering training now at Morgan

Morgan State College has a standing aggrement with the College of Engineering, New York University, to provide a program in engineering, Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president announced.

This plan provides for three years of study where liberal arts subjects are taken along with pre-engineering courses in mathematics and science.

Two additional years will be required at N. Y. University where the engineering requirements will be completed.

At the end of this five - year period of study graduates will receive both a bachelor's degree from Morgan and an engineering degree from New York University College of Engineering the president added.

Dr. Julius Taylor is advisor.
