P. O. EMPLOYEE 19 YEARS

Monday funeral set for J. A. Marshall

James Addison Marshall, 52, 3814 Edgerton Rd., died suddenly Wednesday, while attending a postal meeting. He suffered a heart attack.

Funeral services will be held Monday at Walbrook Presbyterian Church, where he was a member.

Burial will be in Baltimore National Cemetery.

A 19-year employee, Mr. Marshall began with the Post Office as a temporary substitute automobile mechanic in March, 1946.

HE WAS promoted as chief automobile mechanic in July, 1963, a post he held at the time of his death.

The office of Postmaster William Laukaitis told the AFRO Tuesday Mr. Marshall was, "well liked and respected by all who knew him."

The World War II veteran was a member of the National Association of Postal Supervisors, Branch 63. He participated in numerous educational programs for automotive mechanics work.

A NATIVE of Howard County, Mr. Marshall was the son of Samuel and Anna Marshall.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Muriel Marshall; and four daughters, Beverly, Carolyn, Lynn and Kim.

Four brothers and three sisters, Bernard, Howard, Charles and Robert Marshall, Mrs. Susie Johnson, Mrs. Marie Brown, Mrs. Anna Nichols; and an aunt, Mrs. Emma Marshall, all of Baltimore, also survive.

such as illness of the wife.

Cute little Marie added, "If they don't have any children, then he has to do them."

CURIOUS TO find the male's reaction to this same question, inquiring reporters hit the jackpot at 1807 Baker St.

Strange enough, all of the men agreed with the one female sitter, Mrs. Joyce Quille, "If the wife works, share the housework."

James Phillip Jackson added a touch of humor. "Yes, undoubtedly so, and the wife should share in buying the beer."

Probably one of the best authorities on the question was Ernest Gaylor. He had just finished washing his dishes.

"Sure, especially if she prepares macaroni and cheese." He proudly told reporters, "I wash dishes," adding to friends, "You know I do."

Two bachelors, Bob Jackson and Peter Turner both think that husbands should help. Real authorities, huh?

Mr. Jackson who has to do his own dishes answered, "If his wife is out working like he is, he should." Mr. Turner said "I guess so. I don't know too much about that kitchen work."

THE REAL clincher came from a neighbor across the street who joined the step-sitters, Danny "Buddy" Johnson!

"Yes, he should help with the dishes just in case his wife leaves him; he'll know how to do them. You know how the little lady gets disagreeable sometimes.

"Think I don't do the dishes? See my dishpan hands?" REDDITT

STILL WAITING — Bishop and Mrs. Harrison J. Bryant waiting for visas to enter the South African Republic where he is assigned, look over a photo album. Mrs. Bryant, as wife of the presiding bishop is automatically the Missionary Supervisor of the African district's 30,000 AM Emembers.

—Bishop waiting

Enclosed.

Deeply distressed by the delay, Bishop Bryant said: "wish they would see things my way.

BISHOP BRYANT was elected in 1964 by his church general conference.

He pastored Bethel AME in Baltimore 15 years. In 1926, he was ordained to preach, and said he had "never missed a Sunday until the long wait to go to South Africa.

Meanwhile Bishop Bryant accepts Sunday guest-speaker engagements in AME churches.

The 15th Episcopal District, established in the late 1800's, has seven conferences: East and West Transvaal, Cape, Cape Midland, Nata, Orangia, Southwest Africa Conferences. Each has a presiding elder and pastors and church officials. The delay is not without precedent.

The largest AME foreign Conference had Bishop L. J. Coppin assigned there in 1900 but was recalled by the government until 1901.

Bishop William Wesley Beckett went in 1916, served one year, returned to the United States only to be refused readmittance.

Bishop Frederick Jordan, elected in 1952, was admitted in 1953 (and served until 1956).

Bishop Francis Gow, born in Cape Town, served eight years, from 1956 to 1964, and is now in West African Episcopal District.

Bishop Bryant told the AFRO that "The South African officials have never said I could not come. They just haven't listened to my plea for a visa. The U. S. government gave me a passport a year ago."

In addition to having intervention by U. S. Secretary of State Rusk, Bishop Bryant has had the aid of Pierson Hall, State Department official, who contacted the S. A. Embassy. And, he's gone through the United Nations; all to no avail, the "Bishop in waiting" said.

proach to setting up a policy format by state Republicans, and neither Mr. Steers nor Mr. Dukert have any idea of to what degree it will be successful.

Mr. Dukert said simply: "We hope that fresh ideas and discussion will produce positive plans for the future."

The future be loosely referred to is, of course, next year's state-wide elections for congressmen, governor, attorney general, comptroller and state legislature members, among others.

With Gov. J. Millard Tawes leaving office, GOP brass is looking particularly hopeful toward his seat.

Economist envisions big increases in insurance business in next decade

NEW YORK — Dr. Israel Unterman, New York economist, told delegates to the 45th annual convention of the National Insurance Association here Monday that the next decade should bring annual increases of 10 to 20 per cent insurance business.

If you do not get this new business, it will be because you do not go after it," Dr. Unterman said. He is president of Unterman Associates, a university professor and a specialist in "creative money management."

I MOVE TO DOUBLE

DR. UNTERMAN said that the average income for the colored family will double in the decade ahead; and he added that it was from this larger "personal disposable income" that he saw the possibility for increased insurance business.

Exploring the fact that billions of dollars are now being pumped into the colored market by the nation - wide anti poverty drive, Dr. Unterman said that this new circulation, together with growing employment opportunities in government and big business and with increased collegiate enrollment, will produce the economic upsurge which he predicted.

400 DELEGATES

THE CONVENTION, which opened at the Roosevelt Hotel, was attended by nearly 400 delegates, consultants and friends for four days of intense inquiry into the performance standards and practices of the insurance field.

It was realized generally that heightened competition for the colored market was a major challenge of the insurance industry, one of the largest areas for colored investment in the nation.

$ BILLION INSURANCE

BENJAMIN J. JOHNSON of New Orleans, president of the association of 45 member insurance companies, admitted the effects of the competitive forces at work in the insurance economy.

"NEVERTHELESS, he said, "despite this development, colored insurance companies in the nation at large registered an increase in business from $360 million in 1963 to $374 million in 1964, while insurance in force increased from $1.9 billion to $2 billion in the same period."

However, Johnson, who is vice president - secretary of the Peoples Life Insurance Co., at New Orleans, said in his keynote address Tuesday morning that since 1954 there had been a net loss of 11 member companies in the association.

He recommended the establishment of a "hot line" among the member companies of the association, and explained "that unless we are able to communicate more effectively, both within our own state and among sister companies, we are going to see some regrettable failures."

Witness convention at Yankee Stadium tops all

The District Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses will be held Aug. 26 - 29 in New York's Yankee Stadium. Some 50,000 persons are expected to attend from 37 states and seven countries.

More than 5,000 Baltimore members will be among those attending the convention, the largest scheduled for the August season.

Robert G. Holmes, Circuit Superior, said over 1,000 local Witnesses are among 10,000 volunteer workers that will operate more than 20 departments of the giant assembly.

MOST WILL serve as attendants, ushers, cafeteria workers, cleaning personnel, as well as professional workers, carpenters, welders, plumbers and electricians are already at work in New York preparing for the gathering.

When the convention opens, doctors, nurses, musicians, sound technicians and others with professional background will fulfill volunteer assignments.

"All these skilled and unskilled workers are unsolicited" Holmes said. "They write convention headquarters in advance of the convention and offer their services.

"A special volunteer service department assigns each person according to his abilities or skills and then notifies him by mail."

The six - day assembly is the last and largest in a series of 40 "Word of Truth" conventions held by Jehovah's Witnesses this summer throughout the nation, Canada, and Europe.

Sponsors of the assembly is the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of Brooklyn, N. Y. Nathan H. Knorr, president of the society, will be the principal speaker.

Fashion designers put emphasis on youth at clinics

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (NPA) — Emphasis on Youth in the field of designing had the combined efforts of the 28 chapters that comprise National Association of Fashion Designers Inc. during its 16th national meeting July 15-19 at the Ambassador Hotel.

Top designers from Boston to the hosiery city were led through workshops, fashion shows and buyers clinics, with Mrs. Henerene Vincent, national president (St. Louis, Mo.) stressing convention theme, "Changing Role of NAFAD in Changing Times", during each session.

Staid Ambassador Hotel on the Mircle Mile (Wilshire Blvd.) was scene of the convention and buyers clinic and breakfast meetings that banquets, cocktail parties and breakfast meetings that were part of the convention program.

SERIOUS SIDE of the designers meeting was the stress on finding talent and reaching school drop outs by contributing efforts of trained teachers from the group, through the current Manpower Development program.

Mrs. Vincent, stated that for the first time NAFAD had contributed $1,000 (one thousand dollars) in scholarships for young students interested in the field of designing.

NAFAD Inc. also placed combined efforts on each chapter in taking definite steps to strive toward more emphasis on the "Open Market", actually using work and labels of colored designers, who until the present time have worked behind the scenes receiving the weekly pay check, while others receive all the recognition and money.

Mrs. Nadine Knight, national fashion coordinator of NAFAD and president of the Chicago chapter, stated that the dream of founders of the organization will be a reality, when talented colored designers will no longer give their best for a mere pay check but will be taken on merit and placed among all leading designers of America.

Morgan makes room for frosh overflow

Morgan State College, which closed enrollment last week announced today a special evening program for care of the overflow.

Dr. Martin Jenkins, president, said he felt Morgan had a "moral obligation" to take care of all qualified candidates who wanted to go to college.

The new program will allow freshmen who applied after July 21 to take up to nine credits in the evening school at the regular evening school rate plus ROTC in the regular day school without charge. These special students will be expected to participate in the freshman orientation week Sept. 12 - 15.

Applicants for this program must meet the regular admission requirements, including the health certificate and the ACT test. Freshmen evening courses in English, social science, physical science, physical education and health education will be available.

STUDENTS in the program will not be guaranteed admittance to the day school in the second semester, the president said.

The number of new students already admitted or in process of being admitted for September is already more than Morgan can accommodate with its facilities new applications total 1,076 1,025, Dr. Jenkins reported.

Although no financial aid will be available to these students, a deferred payment plan will be instituted allowing a student to pay one-half of registration and one-half in 30 days. Dormitories are now full, meal tickets are available for those who want them, he added.

Man pleads own case, but still gets the chair

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)— A 20-year-old man who pleaded his own case was found guilty of murder last week and sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Van Allen Beaver had been charged with the hammer slaying of hardware merchant Arthur C. Woods during a robbery on Oct. 19.

"I did not kill him," said Beaver in his closing argument. He had fired his public defender half-way through the trial.
