because it seemed like a friendly thing to do, she told the AFRO.

Both Mr. Gee and Mrs. Dorothy Gray, 2732 Giles Rd., a cousin, served as chaperones along with the oldest daughter, Emily, 18, who was home on vacation from a hospital where she works in New Jersey.

MRS. GRAY said the party was a small one, with about 20 persons in attendance.

"We thought we could help keep the children out of trouble by having it here and well chaperoned," she told the AFRO.

"The party was over at 11:30 and we were going to have everyone out by midnight," she related.

"And then this terrible thing . . . I don't think it was anyone who was at the party."

The sisters told police that they did not know all of the people at the party, as anyone could attend by paying a 35 —cent admission.

They also said that during the evening different groups of boys had attempted to crash the party, but were put out by their father.

FROM WITNESSES at the party, police pieced together this account of the shooting:

Mr. Gee was on the stairs as the crowd was leaving and a boy in a light trench coat grabbed something from the living room and ran out the front door.

The father yelled to stop the boy and ran after him to Ruxton Ave. The boy stood in the alley with Mr. Gee facing him. Then the shots came.

Neighbors said there was a brief argument with the boy in the light trench coat, watched by a large crowd, followed by five shots.

Mr. Gee staggered and fell two doors from his own home.

WHEN POLICE arrived, the victim was lying on the sidewalk and bleeding from a head wound. Taken by ambulance to Lutheran, he never regained consciousness.

Police reported that the three sisters, Emily, Josie and Helen, were in the kitchen and did not witness the events leading up to the shooting.

Most of the party - goers had left the house, but police were able to piece together the episode from a large group which had gone to Lutheran Hospital.

At the hospital, officers also learned that 17 - year - old Harold Crawley had been wounded at the same time and was being treated.

Crawley reported that as he was leaving the party, he walked to join a friend at North and Ruxton Aves., when he heard several shots fired.

He began to run and at Bentalou St. realized that he had been shot in the stomach. A friend, passing by in an auto, picked him up and transported him to Lutheran.

Crawley, likewise, could not give a description of the assailant.

Police are continuing their search for the youthful gunman, described as being 17 or 18 years old, about five feet, six inches tall, 130 pounds, of light complexion and last seen wearing a light trench coat.

MEANWHILE EFFORTS were being made for the return of Gee's son, 20 - year-old John, who has spent the Christmas vacation as a CORE field worker in Louisiana for voter registration.

A junior at Coppin State College, John's trip was financed partially by the local CORE unit, which got him back to Baltimore the next day.

Born in Baltimore, Mr. Gee attended school in the city and finished his education in Virginia.

He was employed for 17 years by the Armco Steel Co. His wife Carolyn died four years ago and since then he had raised the small family by himself.

Funeral arrangements, incomplete at presstime, are being handled by Kelson's Funeral Home.

Mr. Gee is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Gee, and by his children: John, Emily, Josie and Helen.

deep down in their pockets to keep the local movement going."

ALTHOUGH Griffin explained he is not "envious of the support given other organizations," he in particular was concerned about the "very minimal support from the colored community in comparison to contributions given to less active organizations."

He did not name any other organizations.

Griffin cited CORE's efforts in the desegregation fight on Route 40, Ocean City, Gwynn Oak, Dunbar High School, the housing march, bank employment and the department stores.

"It is a plain fact," Mr. Griffin stated, "that CORE in Maryland now characterizes the essential methods to bring about freedom and equality."

He warned that unless the chapter gets "more than the token financial help from high-salaried persons . . . we will have to settle for only token freedom and gross inequities."

the objective of maximum employment production and purchasing power.

Automation or cybernation indicates that 20 to 410 percent of the population will constitute the work force possibly in another decade.

LABOR MUST therefore call upon President Johnson to recommend, and the Congress to enact, legislation to amend the Fair Labor Standard Act to provide for a standard 35-hour work week, without reduction in take-home pay, and provide for the payment of double time for overtime hours to help create jobs.

There must be an elimination of racial discrimination from unions, industry and government and, especially from all apprenticeship training programs.

By denying an equal and adequate measure of job opportunities to colored workers, the general standard of living for all workers is lowered and society as a whole suffers.

If colored and white workers are divided by color bias, both will be the victims of economic oppression since both will be weak. This is a basic lesson the American trade union movement has yet to fully learn.

To these ends, church, community and civil rights leaders must join hands with labor to achieve its goals.

YOUNG JENNINGS were pronounced dead on arrival at the North Arundel Hospital near Glen Burnie.

Mrs. Hare was held over night in the Anne Arundel County Jail at Annapolis and then released the following day, December 29, under $2,000 bail.

At AFRO presstime, Anne Arundel County police officers, Gilbert Majerowicz and Jerome Bozek, were in charge of the investigation.

Both States Attorney Mavin Anderson and Police Chief Elmer Hagner said the details of the shooting had not reached their desks and a full report was not available.

looking down on the train tracks, unable to solve problems that baffled her family of three youngsters.

Gone is the hopelessness that came mainly from no money to pay rent; nothing for food for the two junior high school children nor the youngest child in elementary school.

Adding to the feeling "this is the end," there was a final notice saying gas and electricity would be turned off Christmas Eve. The Welfare case worker had told her there would be no emergency funds available to her. Welfare later provided funds.

THAT WAS Monday before the Christian High Holiday that marked the birth of Christ and Mrs. Hopewell standing at the bridge held a rosary in her hand and prayed. She fell down just as a policeman and her 13 - year - old son arrived to save her.

Almost immediately after the AFRO published the heartbreaking story of the distraught mother, citizens around town said, "It's Christmas. We'll help."

lated as "The Essentials."

Legend holds "The Essentials" were inscribed on a plaque installed in St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Baltimore, Md., when it was built in 1692. The present rector of St. Paul's says he has no proof of this story. The plaque, if it existed, was lost in one of the many remodelings and rebuildings which the old church has gone through over the centuries.

LITERARY detectives have established that "Desiderata" appeared in print in 1927 in a book of verses by Hoosier poet Max Ehrmann. ("Poems by Max Ehrmann," copyright by Bruce Humphries Publishers, Boston). It is not clear whether Ehrmann was passing along a literary treasure he had discovered in St. Paul's church or whether he composed the lines himself. The poet died in 1945.

In any case, it is to Max Ehrmann that we are indebted either as author or preserver of "Desiderata."

HERE, THEN, is one wise man's advice on how to get the most out of life in the year ahead.

"Go placidly amid the noise and haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence.

"As far as possible without surrender, be on good terms with all persons. Speak your truth quietly and clearly; and listen to others, even the dull and ignorant; they too have their story.

"Avoid loud and aggressive persons, they are vexatious to the spirit.

"If you compare yourself with others you may become vain and bitter; for always there will be greater and lesser persons than yourself.

"Enjoy your achievements as well as your plans.

"Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time.

"Exercise caution in your business affairs; for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; many persons strive for high ideals; and everywhere life is full of heroism.

"BE YOURSELF. Especially do not feign affection. Neither be cynical about love; for in the face of all aridity and disenchantment it is as perennial as the grass.

"Take kindly the counsel of the years, gracefully surrendering the things of youth.

"Nurture strength of spirit to shield you in sudden misfortune. But do not distress yourself with imaginings. Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness.

"Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here. And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should.

"Therefore be at peace with God, whatever you conceive him to be, and whatever your labors and aspirations, in the noisy confusion of life keep peace with your soul.

"With all its sham, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world."

he had gone out on a pass to get dinner off the post.

"I tried to get something to eat and was refused because I was colored," the son wrote.

THE NEXT day he went back with white soldiers in uniform and the group was told that the white boys would be served but, again, Silas would not be because he was colored.

The following night he was told he would be served by a waitress and a white man slammed the door and left when Silas was allowed to stay.

"Why should I be brought from home to be insulted? If I had gotten into any kind of trouble I would have been arrested and charged with conduct unbecoming a soldier in uniform," Silas Jr. wrote home.

In planning to refuse to go to Vietnam, the young private felt that the insults he received in Louisiana were only part of the picture.

His mother told the AFRO her son's life - long dedication to the church and that his religious background was far removed from the contemplation of killing in Vietnam.

"He has a lot of courage; and he has always been close to the church," Mrs. Mack said. "Killing people is just not a part of him," the anxious mother added.

"S. J. JR." had his 22nd birthday on Dec. 8 and was not expected to be facing the army for sometime. Mrs. Mack explained that when her husband had to enter the hospital here in Baltimore, her son had decided not to write and ask for tuition money to enter his third year of pre - medical studies at UCLA.

"He was working to save the money for school when he was drafted," Mrs. Mack said.

An Edmondson high school graduate in 1962, S. J. Jr. was a good student, who had made 'A's and B's in college.

woman. However, Harold Jones, of the 1500 block N. Smallwood St., told police he had seen her before in the company of his brother.

Later James Dickey, 23, 100 block S. Hilton St., appeared at Lutheran Hospital to identify the woman as his mother, Mrs. Emma Dickey.

Mr. Dickey told police he had last seen his mother early Monday afternoon. He also stated that Mrs. Dickey and the deceased Clifton Jones had been friends for a number of years.

HOMICIDE OFFICERS are awaiting the report from the Medical Examiner's office to determine the cause of Mr. Jones' death.

Meanwhile the investigation of the case is being pursued by Detective Sgt. William Thiegnan and Det. Furrie Cousins, both of the homicide Squad.

The AFRO learned from reliable sources that it is likely that the possibility of a suicide pact will be ruled out in favor of a verdict of accidental death by asphyxiation.

Meanwhile, detectives are awaiting word from doctors as to when they will be permitted to question Mrs. Dickey, who survived because of the prompt action of police in getting emergency equipment.

Rights leaders seek new, stronger bill

The Nation's civil rights leadership has fashioned a new civil rights bill for the next session of Congress.

Built around seven major points adopted at a secret meeting of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, the bill reflects growing impatience with the "conservative" methods of the Johnson Administration in achieving "freedom now."

One of the bill's provisions strikes at discrimination in the selection of Federal jurors, while another calls for cash payments to victims of civil rights violence.

The cash payments could be recovered by the government through a civil suit in a Federal district court against the perpetrators of the racial crime.

A KEY plank of the proposed legislation would grant authority to the Attorney General to approve the "removal" of a State criminal action into a Federal court when it can be shown that colored or white civil rights workers are subjected to unequal standards of justice in State courts.

Under the new bill, local and State officials found guilty of causing "serious bodily harm or death" to colored citizens or white civil rights workers could be fired from their jobs or suspended through an administrative proceeding. Any such removal, however, would be subject to judicial review.

would make racial murder would make racial murder or assault a federal crime and give the Attorney General broad powers to bar acts of intimidation against colored citizens.

Food dispensing permits set for Balto. County

Baltimore County health officials early next year will institute a comprehensive registration system, requiring all eating and drinking establishments to obtain a special permit.

The program will affect some 2,000 places of business which under current regulations need only a traders, hucksters or restaurant

The new registration program, according to Dr. Richard J. Potter, deputy state and county health officer, will:

1. Effectively register with the Health Department responsible key personnel in food and drinking establishments.

2. Provide better supervision of food service personnel.

3. Insure better training of food service personnel.

4. Provide better assurance to the public of the wholesomeness of food and drink.

5. Generally upgrade those establishments which are found to be below standards or out-par.

An annual fee of $10 has been set for each permit, and April 1 is the deadline for registration.

Tucker R. Dearing named attorney for Local 195

Tucker R. Dearing, local attorney, has been retained by a local laundry and dry cleaners union to serve all its legal needs.

In the post, Mr. Dearing becomes a first.

The announcement was made Tuesday by Cleveland Harris, president and business manager of Local 195 AFL-CIO Laundry and Dry Cleaning International Union, 2650 Maryland Ave.

The local has 600 members and is an amalgamated union of five plants, one a laundry and dry cleaning establishmnt and four linen firms.

In making the announcement, Mr. Harris pointed out that Mr. Dearing is not only an accomplished general law practitioner but also one in possession of broad knowledge of labor law.

Probes arrest of Ala. youth

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — The district attorney's office took statements Tuesday from witnesses to the arrest of 19-year-old Tyrone Collins at his home by two bail bondsmen who returned him to Alabama.

State officials left in the hands of Dist. Atty. Richard S. Lowe the decision whether the bondsmen had violated any law in their action which brought protests from Pennsylvania authorities. Lowe said he would have no comment until his investigation is completed.

Collins, who returned home on Sunday after posting of $8,700 bond for him at Mobile, Ala., by an attorney for the NAACP, also was free in $500 bail in Pennsylvania on an offense of driving without an operator's license.

County court records showed that Collins was arrested in nearby West Norristown, Nov. 26 on charges of driving 65 miles an hour in a 40-mile zone and driving without a license. He was arrested again on Dec. 16 in Upper Merion on another charge of operating a car without a license. On Dec. 20, the day after he was whisked to Alabama, he was held "in absentia" for grand jury action here.

The Alabama charge against Collins is assault with a knife in a 1965 stabbing at Mobile High School.

Watts' $500 'lifer' honors Judge Waxter

Municipal Court Judge and Mrs. Robert B. Watts' new $500 life membership in the NAACP is a memorial to the late Judge Thomas J. S. Waxter.

Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, Baltimore chapter president, announced the new membership this week.

Morgan gets NSF grant of $77,900

Morgan State College has been granted $77,900 by the National Science Foundation to finance a Combined Summer and In - Service Institute in Science and Mathematics for Secondary School Teachers.

To set up this master's degree program has been a major aim of a Morgan Committee working for the past three years under the leadership of Dr. Thomas P. Fraser, Chairman of the College's Department of Science Education, and Director of nine NSF Institutes.

NSF funds will support the Tenth Summer Institute (1966 and the Second In - Service Institute (1966-67).

The combined programs extend over a three - year period and offer a coordinated sequence of courses so that qualified participants may return to successive Institutes to work toward a Master of Science degree.

The Summer Institute will be held June 20 - August 3, 1966. Secondary school teachers of science and mathematics are invited to apply for stipends and allowances.

The maximum stipend for the Summer Institute is $75 per week for an individual participant. An allowance of not more than $15 per week is available for each dependent, up to a maximum of four.

A travel allowance calculated at not more than four cents per mile for one round trip bbween home and institute (maximum of $80 is also available for teacher-participants. Complete applications must be postmarked by February 15.

Commenting on the upcoming Summer Institute which marks the tenth anniversary of the Morgan program, Director Fraser stated that the Morgan National Science Foundation program has evolved into "a reasonable approach to a master's degree program for secondary school teachers."

Fraser feels that the Morgan multi - discipline graduate program will do much to increase understanding of the broad conceptual schemes of science, including the concepts and principles upon which the schemes are structured.

Craft in new post at N. C. Mutual

Effective Saturday, L. Z. Craft, manager of the Goldsboro district of North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, is being promoted to assistant agency director to succeed W. L. Cook who will retire on Friday.

This announcement has been made by A. T. Spaulding, president.

A veteran employee of North Carolina Mutual, Craft began as an agent in the Durham district under Cook in 1938.

In 1943 he was appointed assistant manager of the district, and in 1951, he was transferred to the Newark district.

A native Mississippian, Craft attended Tuskegee Institute, the LIAMA management School and is a graduate of LUTC. In 1958, he became an LUTC Instructor.

Martin's spent 8 years getting ready for tonight.
