RECEIVING GIFTS — Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Blount receive gift certificates from WEBB program director Bob White and deejay Rockin' Robin, right.

First baby at Provident wins $500 in gifts

A surprised mother of four found herself five hundred dollars richer in prizes last week.

Mrs. Melvin Blount, who lives with her husband and children at 915 Rosedale St., was told by her daughter at 2 o'clock last Monday that she had visitors.

The visitors were Rockin' Robin of WEBB Radio and other members of the station staff.

They had come to the Blount home to award Mr. and Mrs. Blount over five hundred dollars in prizes as mother of the first baby born at Provident Hospital in 1966.

Dana Rennee Blount came into the world at 9:17 p.m.

The couple, almost in a daze, seemed not to believe WEBB program director Bob White when he listed the

May till Methodist vacant post soon

The Rt. Rev. John Wesley Lord, resident bishop of the Methodist Church, told the AFRO this week that he has no immediate announcement as to who will succeed the Rev. Dr. Richard H. Johnson as superintendent of the Northwest Baltimore District of the church.

He stated at to will soon call a meeting of the Bishop's Cabinet to consider the replacement. The minister who died Jan. 2, had served since June, 1965 when Bishop Lord named him to the post for a term of six years.

The highly important position and its extensive responsibilities demand early appointment of a successor.

The remaining seven District superintendents, who also form the Bishop's Cabinet, are the Revs. Edward H. Porter, Baltimore Northeast; Merrill W. Drennan, Baltimore Southeast; William E. Firth, Baltimore Southwest; Raymond L. Roderick, Hagerstown; Edward A. Carroll, Washington Northwest; Lewis F. Ransom, Washington Northeast; Marion Michael, Washington South.

CHURCH AND lay spokesmen, in Baltimore Wednesday for the Rev. Dr. Johnson's funeral, said general ship favors a second longtime pastor's funeral, said general sentiment of the membership favors several longtime pastor of the old Washington Annual Conference.

Although the formerly all-colored Washington Conference and the all-white Baltimore Conferenceswere integrated at its historic mrg. in June, 1965 ,many openly expressed hope that the appointee to complete the deceased pastor's unfinished term would be a colored minister.

Noteworthy was frequent mention of the Rev. Frank R. Williams, pastor of Metropolitan Metnodist Church in Baltimore, for the post. The Rev. Mr. Williams is prominent in civic, civil rights and community affairs.

Also mentioned was the Rev. Julius Carroll, recently returned from Liberia, Africa, where he pastored Mt. Scott Methodist Church at Cape Palmos. The Rev. Mr. Carroll resides in Washington. He was former pastor of Randall's Chapel Methodist Church there.

Others mentioned include the Revs. Ernest Clark, pastor of Ames Methodist; the Rev. J. Lloyd Garrison, pastor of John Wesley Methodist; the Rev. Austin Bennett, pastor of St. Paul Methodist; Roscoe Williams, pastor of Orchard Street Methodist, all of Baltimore.

Also, the Rev. Hilton Parker, pastor of Asbury Methodist, Annapolis; Rev. James D. Foy, pastor of Asbury Methodist, Washington.

However, many ministers of both races stated that the clerical excommunication by the Orthodox Church and the Home was the first, and sharing of common prayer with non-Catholics was the second.

Protestants and Catholics will meet in Baltimore to "pray for unity," Cardinal Shehan said, at a special service to be held at the Lyric Theatre on Jan. 23.

Governor J. Millard Tawes made the presentation of the award and plaque while guests such as Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin and Senator Joseph D. Tydings looked on.

Mrs. Fannie Gilles, church worker, dies

Mrs. Fannie E. Gilles, age 84, died Tuesday in her home 1306 N. Mount St., following a short illness. She was a former Baltimore school teacher and life-long church worker at Macedonia Baptist Church.

Mrs. Gilles married her husband, Charles, in 1919 and ended 13 years as a public school teacher to work in her church. In 1953 she was feted at a testimonial for her 50 years of church service.

Joining Macedonia in 1893, Mrs. Gilles served in several organizations such as the Ladies Missionary Society, Baptit Training Union, Auxiliry chairman of the Ways Baptist Training Union, Auditing Committee, and was first chairman of the Ways and Means Committee of the church. In 1953 she served as treasurer of the Baptist Temperance Union chapter.

SHE WAS also active in fraternal affairs. Cardinal Shehan speaks on work of Vatican II

His Eminence, Lawrence Cardinal Shehan was named "Man of the Year for 1965" by the Advertising Club of Baltimore at their Wednesday luncheon held in the Emerson Hotel.

His speech at the Emerson dealt with the major events of the Second Vatican Council.

While the major portion of the text of Cardinal Shehan's speech was serious in tone, he began by solving the issue that many would be curious of the mandatory fish on Fridays for Catholics.

"I am ready to defend the right of the tasty crab, the luscious oyster, the noble rockfish and the incomparable terrapin to continue to play their part in the penential practice of Friday," the Cardinal said as his audience laughed and applauded.

The Cardinal reviewed major happenings at Vatican Council and de - emphasized any of the church's doctrine."

Thursday night and told her I would let Marsha and Lorna stay another night.

"After the children were brought to my house their headaches went away and they felt fine.

"We had no idea a tragedy was in the making," Mrs. Collins went on. "If I had taken them back to Carrollton Ave. Thursday, they all would have died."

IT WAS Friday afternoon when a neighbor of Mrs. Green went to the apartment to pick her up for a pre-arranged shopping trip.

Failing to get any response, the worried neighbor called Mrs. Collins.

Later, Mrs. Collins and her husband, Vernon, went to the Green apartment and they too received no response, however the sound of a radio and washing machine was audible.

Mr. Collins attempted to force open the door with a knife but met with no success. After calling for help from police, Mr. and Mrs. Collins gave permission for the door to be forced.

It was then the bodies were found in the gas filled apartment.

Police and Mr. Collins retreated and firemen were called with gas masks to permit further search. The body of the older child was found in the bedroom.

"The whole time we were in the hall we could smell no gas," Mr. Collins told the AFRO.

Mrs. Collins said her mother only last week reported to her landlord that the side-arm hot water heater was not functioning properly and received assurance that the matter would be corrected.

AN AFRO reporter visited the apartment house Tuesday and was told by other residents there that since the Friday night tragedy, the place has been the scene of a bee-hive of activity as various inspectors swooped down on the house for a broad check of gas - heating and other equipment.

"They came out here New Year's Day," said one resident, "and taped the heater, and tagged the heater in my apartment and condemned its further use. The same has been done all the way through.

"Too bad," said he, "that a tragedy had to happen before action was taken. Inspectors were in here almost six months ago and said the heaters were bad and that a report would be made. Nothing had been heard since that time."

Police and fire department investigators termed the heater in the Green apartment "faulty" and noted the jets were unable to burn properly because of clogged flue conditions.

Other defects were noted and recorded on the heater which was the gas range as well as on the gas range Mrs. Green had been using.

The tragedy occurred only a few blocks from the Lexington Park Urban Renewal Area, where inspectors had constantly prodded property owners to correct conditions immediately or be taken into court.

MARCH 24

The fourth annual Maryland Junior Science and Humanities Symposium will be held through March 26 at the Lord Baltimore Hotel. About 250 11th grade students from all high schools in Maryland will be invited to attend.

Sunday nights at 11:30.

"I have never given out any numbers like that over the air," Bishop Lee told the AFRO.

"If he hears me say something on the air and wants to use it as a number, I have nothing to do with it," the religious leader added.

Bishop Lee, who recently returned to town after a two-week vacation, said that he received numerous calls from members of his congregation on the matter and wanted to clear up the misunderstanding.

He heads the New United Baptist Church in the 100 block of Pennsylvania Ave.

JUDGE FOSTER handed down fines to ten other lottery offenders in quick trials Wednesday.

Fine were:

HE INDICATED, but would not say so flatly, that there were some maneuverings under way which gave him reason for optimism.

Meanwhile, the Council resumes sessions Jan. 17, ending the holiday vacation period.

The housing ordinance is expected to be one of the hottest issue to be resolved.

Another controversial ordinance facing action, probably after it's seen what the General Assembly does with the Hooper Commission recommendations, is Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin's earnings tax proposal.

he would drop "a couple of the boys off," drive around the corner and give them the necessary speedy getaway.

THE POLICE testified they "became aware of Mr. Howell's involvement" after the arrests of four youths for unrelated crimes.

In their confessions, the boys, ranging in age from 16 to 19, had linked the government employee to a series of robberies, it was testified.

George L. Russell Jr., Mr. Howell's attorney, called on the Court to condemn the activities of the Chief Inspector's Office, citing the irregularities and the "police state" tactics which had been employed against his client.

He said he could see no reason why the officers involved had not secured a warrant for Mr. Howell's arrest if they thought that they had probable cause.

Judge Skelar, refusing to believe the State's case, found Mr. Howell not guilty after a brief trial.

Mr. Russell had told the Judge that the actions of the Chief Inspector's Office was the kind of "police conduct which must be struck down by the courts, or we will have a police state."

future.

"It is my sincere hope that we can have a unity ticket in the district, and that personal feelings will not interfere with the political progress and the best interest of the people in the 4th District."

HOWEVER, Mr. Mitchell has said he is determined to remain in the District's Senate race.

"It is my sincere belief," he said in his announcement, "I can better serve the people of my district as one of their senators."

In support of this contention, he said he pledges his efforts toward accomplishing the following:

"1. Lowering of the voting age to 18.

"2. Proportionate increases of welfare benefits, which at present do not begin to meet minimum living standards.

"3. Increase state - aid to education, so that our inner city schools can be improved.

"4. EXPANSION OF the Fair Employment Law, which I introduced in the 1965 session, to include those businesses not included and elimination of pockets of discrimination in state agencies.

"5. Passage of a state-wide fair housing law, which would help provide decent housing for colored citizens.

"6. Expansion of our public accommodations ordinance to include all facilities that serve the public.

"7. Passage of legislation which will tighten the usury laws, to protect our citizens from unscrupulous real-estate, home improvement and small loan men.

"8. Keeping pressure on the Bureau of Building Inspection, so that absentee landlords will be required to keep up their property."

Mr. Mitchell, the 4th District's only announced candidate to date, said he would "attempt to find out from the people of other areas which need attention."
