Mother's march in annual drive door-to-door

CRITICAL — Paul S. Henderson, time AFRO photographer is reported critically ill at Hopkins Hospital. His sisters, Miss Leslye Henderson of Indianapolis; and Mrs. Henri Greene, of Tennessee, and his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Henderson, Baltimore school principal, are at his bedside.

Baltimoreans in the metropolitan area may expect a call from a "Mother's March volunteer any time between now and January 25, according to Mrs. Helen Cann Janne, chairman of the annual door - to - door appeal for the Greater Baltimore chapter of the March of dimes.

"In past years,' Mrs. Janne said, "Mother's Marchers have visited homes on one night only, but this year for the first time, some 10,000 volunteers will be calling on their neighbors during the daylight hours if they choose to do so."

Mrs. Janne who is also Maryland State Advisor for Women's Activities for the March of Dimes, stressed the fact that Baltimoreans need to be aware of the expanded home visit schedule so that there will be no confusion when a volunteer makes her appeal to aid in the fight against all birth defects.

"Many of us know mothers who had to ask why their babies were not born perfect," concluded Mrs. Janne. "We can help spare future mothers that question by giving generously to the Marching Mothers."

1,000 attend Pendleton-Norwood wedding

With Lula Jones Garrett

(By Elizabeth M. Oliver, substituting for Mrs. Garrett who is attending the American Fashion Designers spring show at the Astor Hotel in New York.)

The Pendleton-Norwood wedding Sunday was without a doubt the most splendid occasion of the mid-winter season. Attending the high-fashion event was a brilliant array of nearly 1,000 invited guests from 10 states including the Eastern Seaboard from New York to Florida, the District of Columbia, the Middlewest and even Vietnam.

According to the Rev. Walter E. Paige, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, who read the double-ring vows, no nuptual rites in recent times have been accompanied by such magnificence. The stillness of the crisp January day added to the grandeur as the entire city seemed to wend its way to the affair. Followed by two receptions, the last one a fabulous banquet, the celebration extended far into the evening.

MR. AND MRS. CARL NORWOOD JR.
Wed in double-ring ceremonies Sunday at Faith Baptist Church

THE RITES began at 1:30 p.m. but long before then, the main auditorium was filled with over 800 guests while more than 100 were seated in the balcony. Many persons stood, unable to be seated.

A sight to behold was the flower - garden setting for the marriage that joined the young couple from the two well - known families.

The bride, the former Miss Shirley Winifred Pendleton, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. (Jurina Amie Hyman) Pendleton and maternal granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Jefferson and Charles Hyman; paternal granddaughter of Mrs. Katie Jones and Andrew Pendleton.

The bridegroom, Carl Hurtt Norwood Jr., manager of Norwoods Sinclair Station, Cherry Hill, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Norwood Sr. (owner of the Summers Norwood Florists firm) and grandson of (maternal) Mr. and Mrs. Spy Jackson of Victoria, Va. and (paternal) Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Scott (Alice) and great-grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Norwood Sr. of Green Bay, Va.

MISS PENDLETON, given in marriage by her father, was a vision indeed as her fantastically lovely gown floated as a cloud and sparkled in the light of the tall, tall candles.

The dress was a creation of lace, organza, net and sequins, her veil trailing from a crown of brilliants and the long cathedral train ending in a floral design.

As she and Mr. Pendleton left the bride's limousine, they walked upon a white linen runner that extended from the Road St. sidewalk into the church and up the center aisle to the altar of the upper auditorium.

The bride's colors reflected from the windows, pews, the choir loft and altar decorated with palms, fern, roses, crysamthemums and satin ribbons of white, gold and green. Hr bouquet was myriads of yellow roses and lilies of the valley so designed that when detached it left a sash of matching blossoms from her shoulder to her waist.

MISS PENDLETON chose her best friend, Miss Delores Harris, as maid of honor. Senior maids were Miss Edith Booker, a Baltimore teacher, Miss Jean Booker, both cousins of the groom.

Both wore floor - length sheaths of emerald green and pillbox hats crowned with sequin fleeced veils. Also bridemalds were Miss Faye Scott, aunt of the groom, Mrs. Carolyn Belle and Miss Linda Fauntleroy. Jumer maids were Miss Martha Jefferson, aunt of the bride, Miss Mary Walker, guardian sister of the groom.

Miss Jefferson wore emerald green, Miss Walker, gold. All gowns were designed by Miss Scott and all bouquets designed by Norwoods Florists, were spiderweb pom poms with net foliage and streamers.

Flower girl, little Miss Karen Joseph, was in a white princess frock to the floor, with a floral headpiece and tiny bouquet of spiderweb pom poms. Ringbearer, Master Kevin Booker, small cousin of the groom, was also in white.

Mother of the bride, Mrs. Pendleton, in gold, head to toe, wore a white orchid. Mrs. Norwood, mother of the groom, wore a delicate yellow sheath to the floor, and its train attached at the waist, a mink stole and white orchid.

BEST MAN was Calvin Scott Bailey and ushers, senior, Curtis Belle, Ronald Williams, Michael Valentine, Charles Pendleton, Charles Harris; junior, Gregory Pendleton and Michael Andrew Norwood.

There were 1,000 or more attending the wedding reception at the church as the newly wedded couple greeted them under an archway entirely of white roses. Each of the cake's six tiers was lighted in tiny bulbs.

The reception setting was also a bower of flowers, tall, lighted candelabra and palms indescribably beautiful, with the bridal tables centered in archways of blossoms. The full menu was served from dishes made of flowers and each table flanked with huge burning candles, as were exits and entrances of the hall.

The rear of the huge room was reserved for the hundreds of gifts including living and dining room suites, refrigerator, lamps, tables, two TV sets, silverware, china, antique clocks, linens, complete bedroom, kitchen, cooking and dining items, gift certificates and presents of silver.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Norwood also received as a gift, a spacious residence located in the plush area of the city.

Mr. Norwood Sr., and his associate designer and manager, the Rev. William E. Hamilton, also did the setting for the elegant party that followed the reception.

THE SECOND affair was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, and a procession of nearly 40 cars followed the couple's limousine from the church to the residence.

Young Mr. and Mrs. Norwood were hosts at the dinner, a fair banquet, complete with turkey and all the trimmings.

Noteworthy was the presence of the internationally known singer, Mrs. Thelma Jackson Bailey, soloist at the church, who is one of the world's best Clara Ward Singers of Philadelphia. She was accompanied by Mrs. Cecelia McCloud, Faith Baptist organist, and Kenneth Dean, Mrs. Jackson's personal pianist, of Shiloh Christian Community Church.

Simply fabulous was the bride's floor - length green satin cape thrown over her gown and her single string of real pearls.

Out of town guests were Mrs. Lillian Norwood, Green Bay, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parker, Elmira, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayman, Raleigh, N.C.; Mr. and Mrs. Evelyn Chisley and Mrs. Kate Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Pendleton, Washington; Miss Catherine Malloy, Tampa, Florida; PFC. James DuSouris, Vietnam; Dr. and Mrs. Hamilton Dorchester, Boston, Mass.;

Also, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. James D. Alexander, New York City; Leon Spears, Buffalo, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Savage, Donald McGray, Miss Joan Maddox, Mr. and Mrs. James McGray and family, all of Richmond, Va.;

The Rev. and Mrs. O. D. Strong, Cleveland, Ohio; Lacarmly Woods, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cook, Chester, Pa.; Miss Lorraine Green, Wilmington, Dela.

wedding anniversary for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilkins (Frances), of 148 Reedbird Ave., Cherry Hill.

Trey are parents of two boys, Kenneth, 16, a 10th grader at Poly and Robert, Jr., a 6th grader at School No. 160.

The family is a member of Hemingway Temple A M E Church. Mr. Wilkins is a Prince Hall Mason and a member of Shriners Jerusalem Temple No. 4 while Mrs. Wilkins is a member of Rebecca Chapter, No. 5, O.E.S. She states, 'there are so many other happy things about our life, it would take too much space and time to write it."

An auspicious occasion Sunday was the Family Reunion of members of the oldest Baltimore families, the Letts, Calimans, Guys, Browns, Earl

MISS SHELIA ANN THOMAS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Thomas of Baltimore, was married to Cornelius S. Fenwick, Sunday. The wedding took place at St. Peter Clavers Catholic Church.

BEST BUYS

Best looking good; pork and fowl tops for budget-minded

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Weekend shoppers for the New Year will find a varied supply of meats and vegetables.

Beef in many areas will be attractively priced this weekend. Roast and steak cuts are the best priced. In pork, roasts again are the best buy. Broiler-fryers and turkey continue to be the best buys for the budget - minded.

Winter harvests in warm areas are bringing in a cornucopia of fruits and vegetables. Green beans, cabbage, carrots, cauliflower, celery, and corn lead the list. Cucumbers, endive, onions, potatoes, radishes, squash, sweet potatoes, and tomatoes are runners - up in the vegetable plentifuls.

Apples lead the list of abundant foods in the fruit section: Avocados, bananas, grapefruit, oranges, tangerines, and pecans also are plentiful.

The larder should be full and the range of choice is good. Remember the national fish plentifuls are canned red salmon, canned tuna, and fish sticks and portions.

NOW FOR the report for this area:

Northeast (Delaware, District of Columbia, New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia):

Northeast weekend food shoppers can look to outstanding supplies of chuck roasts and steaks and round roasts and steaks at the meat counters. Pork roasts and chops also will be prominent. In poultry, the best buys will be in broiler-fryers.

At the vegetable counters, top buys will be cabbage, carrots, green onions, endive-escarole, parsley, radishes, potatoes, onions, spinish, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, watercress, and miscellaneous greens. Also recommended are beans, beets, brussel sprouts, cauliflower, Florida celery, corn, cucumbers, eggplant, romaine lettuce, mushrooms, and rhubarb.

In fruit, look for best buys in apples, grapes, tangerines, oranges and bananas. Also good values are avocados, strawberries, and rhubarb.

NORTHEAST shoppers looking for varied supplies of fish should check for king crab, oysters, scallops, shrimp, fillets, and clams.

SOUTHEAST (Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia):

Various cuts of beef steak and roasts lead the list of red meats that are plentiful at Southeastern foodstores this week.

Meat counters also have generous supplies of broiler - fryers.

Vegetables in good supply include potatoes, sweet potatoes, cabbage, tomatoes, dry onions, yellow sweet corn, and pole beans.

Oranges, apples, and grapes are plentiful. Pecans and frozen orange juice continue wise buys.

In the southeast, there are plenty of oysters, claims, shrimp, mullet, scallops, fillets, and red snapper.

Correction!

Melvin Evans, who married Mrs. Edith J. Henry on New Years Day, was described in last week's AFRO as a "mortician." That was an error.

Mr. Evans, is not a funeral director, but works as an assistant for a number of undertakers in the city, the AFRO was informed.
