Funeral rites held for Clara Allen

COLUMBUS, Ohio. — Funeral services were held Jan. 26, at St. Paul AME Church 636, for the late Mrs. Clara Wilson Allen, Officiating during the service were the Rev. Alvia A. Shaw, pastor of the church and Bishop William R. Wilkes, presiding Bishop of the Third Episcopal District AME Church.

Mrs. Allen, 73, wife of Nimrod B. Allen, retired executive director of the Columbus Urban League, founder and president - emeritus of the Frontiers International, Inc., died on Jan. 22 after several weeks of illness.

A native of Columbus, Ga., Mrs. Allen and her husband have lived in Columbus, Ohio for the past 50 years.

* * *

IN ADDITION to assisting her husband in his pioneering work with the Urban League, the Frontiers Service Clubs and the YMCA, Mrs. Allen took an active part in Columbus health, welfare and civic endeavors over many years.

Mrs. Allen was at one time a member of the professional staff of the Columbus chapter of the American Red Cross. At the time of her death she was past president and secretary of the Entre Nous Social Club; treasure of the Fortnightly Reading Club; financial secretary of the Daughters of the Conference of the St. Paul AME Church; one of the founding members of the Women's Auxiliary of the Frontiers International, Inc.; a member of the Bibius Eolius Club and a charter member of Utopia Chapter No. 76, Order of the Eastern Star.

* * *

A GRADUATE of Atlanta University, Mrs. Allen taught in public schools of Columbus, Ga., and was a faculty member of Miles Memorial College in Birmingham, Ala., before coming to Ohio.

Mrs. Allen is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Phoebe Matthews; two grandchildren, William and Yvonne Mattison and a host of relatives and friends.

One-day business seminars to promote job opportunity

WASHINGTON —A government-industry business group announced it would hold a series of one-day seminars for executives to promote greater use of federal job training programs in 25 major cities.

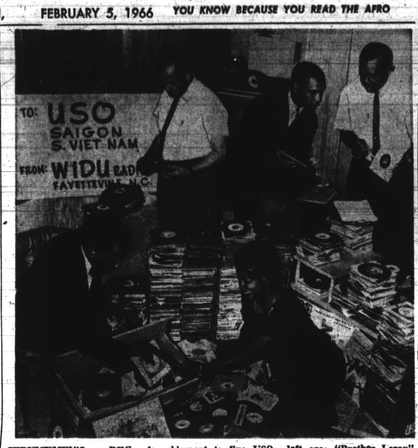
Plans for progress, a business-backed program to expand job opportunities for colored, said it hoped the sessions would provide thousands of jobs for graduates of the Job Corps, Neighborhood Youth Corps and Federal Manpower Training Programs.

Eugene G. Mattson Jr., administrative director of plans for progress, said the meetings were set up to overcome a "serious communication gap" between government and business.

David Squire, deputy director of the Job Corps, said youngsters coming out of that program are going to be "sweating down the country's neck" demanding more training or jobs. They have high motivation and want to learn, he reported.

Mattson said another aim would be to help industrial firms relieve a shortage of workers that has developed in many areas recently.

Federal officials from the Labor Department, Office of Economic Opportunity and Department of Health, Education and Welfare have agreed to participate in meetings over the next six months.



SERVICEMEN'S RECORDS—Announcers at Radio Station WIDU in Fayetteville, N.C., prepare a portion of the 4,385 records for shipment to five USO units in Saigon for use by servicemen in Viet Nam. Seated in foreground is "Nacy Q". Others in from left are: "Brother Leroy" Johnson, "Big Bad Bill" Hennessee; "Wee Willie," and "Happy Ted" Hooker.

Two hurt in Watts' brief disturbance

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Violence erupted anew early Sunday in the Watts District—scene of last August's rioting—when about 20 persons attacked two sheriffs' deputies trying to stop a street brawl.

Authorities immediately labeled it as "just another Saturday night disturbance."

"Get Whitey," chanted a few persons in the predominantly colored crowd as deputies Raymond Stewart, 25, and Ronald Dowling, 31, tried to separate several youths fighting in the street.

The two deputies were roughed up in the melee as a crowd of about 100 persons gathered around them. The crowd dispersed at the sound of sirens from additional law enforcement vehicles summoned to the scene by a colored former Sheriff's reserve officer.

Authorities said the colored bystander had used the car radio of the two besieged deputies to call for aid.

Unlike the chain reaction of violence that exploded last August, the Sunday disturbance had no after effects.

Stewart and Dowling were treated for bruises, cuts and bites before they were released from a local hospital.

Final services held for veteran attorney

CHICAGO— (NPI) —Relatives from out of town last week joined colleagues and contemporaries for funeral services for Atty. Zedrick T. Braden, 72, veteran barrister and senior partner of the Loop law firm, Braden, Hall, Barnes and Moss. He died at Wesley Memorial Hospital on Jan. 16.

Final rites were held in historic St. Mark Methodist Church where the deceased had been a member and official for some 40 years. The Rev. Macveo D. Pembroke, pastor, delivered the eulogy. Burial was in Lincoln cemetery.

Survivors include his widow, two sons, Atty. Zedrick T., Jr., and Everett A.; a daughter, Mrs. Ruth Robertson, and cousins Miss Kayola M. Williams, Chicago; Mrs. Lillian L. Blackburn, Los Angeles; Mrs. Sophronia Ellis, Cincinnati, Ohio; and Mrs. Betty Chavous, Indianapolis.

King cancels trip due to bad weather

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — A heavy snowstorm prompted Dr. Martin Luther King to cancel a scheduled trip to this southern steel city Saturday where he was to lead two voter registration marches.

But King, who was unable to get a flight out of Atlanta because of the weather, was expected to come to Birmingham this week with civil rights leaders and lead marches.

King launched a voter registration drive here earlier this month and was forced to return on several occasions to help bolster the lagging campaign.

The SCLC demonstrations resulted in violence Jan. 13 when club-swinging police waded into about 450 demonstrators who blocked busy intersections here and in nearby Bessemer.

A TEMPORARY injunction was handed down by a federal judge enjoining the Southern Conference (SCLC) from using school children in the demonstrations but King's aide Hosea Williams said he would appeal the ruling.

The demonstrations resulted in the sending of Federal Voter Examiners into Jefferson County.

In Atlanta one of the top officials of the SCLC, the Rev. Andrew Young, said in a statement: "Our demonstrations were being held to dramatize the denial of the right to vote by qualified colored citizens. Now that federal registrars have relieved this condition there is no further need to demonstrate in connection with this issue."

IN ANOTHER development, A. G. Gaston, a Birmingham colored millionaire businessman, served an eviction notice to SCLC which uses one of his buildings as its headquarters.

A SCLC spokesman said the organization received a letter from Gaston asking to vacate the premises within 10 days.

The SCLC began using Gaston's building as headquarters during recent daily demonstrations against discrimination in voter registrations.

Funeral on Saturday at 11 for Rev. T. J. Barrington

Victim of a heart attack, the Rev. Thomas G. Barrington, 67, pastor of Emory Grove Methodist Church in Gaithersburg, Md., died Monday afternoon at Suburban Hospital in Bethesda, Md.

Funeral services are schedules for 11 a.m. Saturday at the church, with the Rev. Edward G. Carroll, superintendent of the church's Northwest Washington District, officiating.

The Rev. William E. Bishop, superintendent of the Northwest Baltimore District, will give the eulogy. Burial will follow in Ash Memorial Cemetery in Sandy Springs, Md.

* * *

THE REV. Mr. Barrington was born is Alabama and reared in Gibson, N.C., where he received his early schooling.

He was a graduate of Livingstone College, studied theology at Paine Seminary and College in Atlanta, and graduated from the Union Theological Seminary of Maryland.

Prior to joining the Methodist church, The Rev. Mr. Barrington belonged to the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church.

He became a member of the Washington Annual Conference in 1953, and of the Baltimore Conference when their merger took place in 1965.

* * *

HIS FIRST assignment was Simms Memorial in D.C. where he served for one year.

These followed assignments in 1954-55 at Emory Grove - Quince Orchard Charges in Gaithersburg; 1956 - 58, Linden — Mt. Zion Quince Orchard Charges in Silver Springs and Gaithersburg; 1959 - 61, Shiloh Church in Newburg, Md.

He was returned to Emory Grove in 1961.

* * *

SURVIVORS INCLUDE wife, the former Lucille Moore of Beckley, W. Va., whom he married in Nov. 1944; a daughter, Brenda, both of Gaithersburg.

Also, two brothers, Mack, Baltimore; and Dennis, Fayetteville, N.C., and three sisters, Mrs. Fannie Watson, Baltimore; Mrs. Bertha Lee, Paterson, N.J., and Miss Janie Barrington, Fayetteville.

Fermon H. Thompson Morning Star member

A Bethlehem Steel Co. employee for 42 years, Fermon H. Thompson, 3615 Fairview Ave., died Monday at Sinai Hospital, after a short illness.

Funeral services will be held Saturday noon at Morning Star Baptist Church. The Rev. N. H. Wicks will officiate.

Burial will be in Arbutus Memorial Park.

Mr. Thompson was a member of the Flower Circle, Choir No. 2, and the Sunday School at Morning Star.

* * *

BORN IN Lumberton, N.C., his parents were William and Commieanna Thompson.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lottie Thompson; a brother, Nello Thompson, Durham, N.C.; and an aunt, Mrs. Mahalia Manning, Boston, Mass.

St. Luke's Guild honors Mrs. White's sister, daughter

The Margaret E. White Guild of Saint Luke's Methodist Church held a memorial service last Sunday for the late Mrs. Margaret E. White, for whom the guild was named.

She was an ardent civic and church worker and participated actively during her time as a Saint Luke's member.

The group presented a tribute to Mrs. White's daughter and sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Walter of Cherry Hill and Mrs. Sarah Wilson of Howard County, Md.

Grandchildren and other relatives and friends were also in attendance.

Mrs. Lillian R. Cornish is guild president and the Rev. Charles A. Green is pastor.

About snow, people, things

Burial note: Snow did not prevent burial at Arlington National Cemetery. It was there on Tuesday that final rites were given Lorenzo Matthew Callahan, retired Army officer and government employee.

Met at the funeral: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Craig, (Mary), residents of the new community in Seat Pleasant, Md.

He was one of the retired chief warrant officers, who served as pallbearers.

* * *

Cuff note: Can a four-month - older look and act like a year older? Yes, if you've seen Paul Christopher Dillard. He's the infant of Dr. Pauline Titus of Freedmen's staff, and Dr. Owen Dillard, the HU Medical school student.

Their older child, Denise, 2, is also a bright - eyed youngster.

Saw these children at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Posey Keller. She's the former Helen Howard of Baltimore.

Which reminds me to mention that their teenage son, Chris, is quite a football player at D.C.'s St. Anthony High.

Keep an eye on him, he has enough clippings to start a scrapbook.

* * *

Residents of a Northwest Baltimore block are raising cane about that thoughtless neighbor who waited until they had cleaned away the snow to park their cars and then pulled into the space and left his own car. Scallions!

* * *

The show must go on philosophy was followed by AFTRO Production Superintendent Freddie Flowers and nine of his key workers. St.

More about snow and people

Residents in the 4200 block Carlevive Ave, were still steaming at this writing.

Snowdrifts are up to six or seven feet, and cars and trucks (including an oil delivery truck), have things pretty fouled up.

Among those snowed in is Dr. Ernest O. Brown, the surgeon. Many know him as the staff member at Baltimore County General, North Charles General and Mt. General.

* * *

One Baltimore policeman who is not out helping the snow detail is Officer Charles Herold, 3123 Normount.

He suffered painful injuries a week back when the steering wheel locked on his car.

It spinned over a cliff at Hilton near Edmondson. "He'll be in for a while, he's lucky to be living," says his wife, Mrs. Ramora Herold.

* * *

Church note: at Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, there were just four worshippers at 7 a.m. Sunday. Only hardy soul at the 11 a.m. service was twelve - year - old Harvey Woodard, an acolyte, and of course, Father Robert Powell.

Young Woodard is one of 53 persons who were confirmed last Sunday. There will be corporate communion for them this Sunday.

* * *

At St. James P. E. Church, there was just one person at 7 a.m., a ministerial student attending Goucher and Father Cecil Mashall. No one showed at the 11 a.m. service.

At 9 a.m., there were four persons, including Father Marshall, who lives on the church premises, Calvin Hughes, an altar boy, and his father, Clarence Hughes, the sexton; and one other person.

* * *

The rector, Father Donald O. Wilson, was snowed in.

Although he was not present in person, Father Wilson prepared for the church bulletin a tribute to 14-year - old George W. Evans Jr., the altar boy and City College student who was shot to death in his home.

Here are highlights of the tribute:

"George, III was a wonderful youngster, with great leadership potential. He was 20 after they at age sixteen and came to be one of his dependable acolytes.

"He served last Sunday at 11 a.m. service which was spoken and many of our acolytes were present and while it was difficult to get servers for that service, George willingly served, both the priest and congregation, joyfully.

* * *

"We have suffered a great loss, but we can, and must trust God for the strength and courage to face this tragic hour.

"We are thankful that this death was accidental, not clouded by hate and venom.

"We are thankful that we know George — baptized, confirmed, and faithful and as a communicant is in God's care.

"George was bright; his brightness glows more brilliant in God's presence.

* * *

"We are cheerful, which now must be a embarrat of happiness in God's Holy Light.

"George was faithful; which is now, and forever, a more perfect service to God in a new life. Weep then not for him.

"Let us praise God for him and pray that all of us may have such a glorious opportunity to take up our lives with God in as full a measure.

* * *

Something new: Catholic churches, in the past, have not allowed lying in state.

But on Thursday at St. Peter Claver, relatives of Mrs. Mary E. Tripp of Lafrens St., received friends at the church where her body lay in state.

She was a lifetime member. Her husband, Leo, was buried from the same church this past April.

* * *

What gives? — In the 2000 block Bentalou St., this morning (Friday), there were parking tickets on autos parked in the bus stop. And, there hasn't been a bus operating is this area since the snow began last Saturday!

And, Scallions to the teacher who lives two blocks away who parked his auto in a cleared space and then had the nerve to say he'd park anywhere!.

This and that about people

Like the Stork, Cupid does not care about the bad weather either. So, snow or no snow, Elisha Butler, the 73-year - old widower, and Mrs. Bessie Bell, the 66 - year-old widow, hustled up to St. Gregory Church on Saturday at 4 to be married by Father Connolly. Father Veney of Woodstock College assisted.

The newlyweds are at home in their redecorated apartment at 1513 Presser Ct. They plan a reception on Feb. 13 at the Woodbrook Ave. residence of the Reginald Bennetts, caterers.

For her big day, the new Mrs. Butler wore a silver brocade dress with long sleeves. She looked just beautiful,' said one of the guests.

She was attended by a sister - in law, Mrs. Virginia Edwards. Best man was Edward Brown. (The bridegroom was 'happy as a child, observed one guest.)

* * *

The ceremony was witnessed by a few close relatives and friends, including four of the bridegroom's five children, Elijah Jr., and George, and Mrs. Elinor Lee and Mrs. Mary Mackay. The fifth child, Joseph, lives in Madison, Wis.

After the ceremony, the wedding party dined at the Liberty Heights Ave. home of Dr. A. L. Lee, where guests also included Lee Ames and Mrs. Maude Lawson.

Many know Mr. Butler as the senior member of an old Baltimore family. He retired some years back as head waiter at one of the town's plush spots.

The new Mrs. Butler, long a resident of Dolphin St., is well known as a member of the Wingous Club, and as a considerate and kind nurse. (I first knew her as the nurse who comforted my late mother during her long illness.)

P.S.—The newlyweds know each other as children 'many years ago.' They recently renewed their childhood friendship, and thus follows the happy event detailed above.

More romance in the snow: — The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. William Myers (Sallie), helped Cupid on Monday. They opened their Eutaw Pl. home so a Vietnam-bound serviceman could marry Una H. Carpenter, 30.

'And, the bride had no gloves,' laughed Mrs. Myers, 'so I found an extra pair so they could walk back home to East Baltimore.'

The Rev. Mr. Myers is associate minister of Perkins Square Baptist Church. Mrs. Myers is the nurse.

* * *

Ready birthday cards for Miss Ivy Boone, long a Baltimore resident, now living in Meadville, Pa. (Box 3, N. Park Ave. Ext.) Hers is Feb. 7.

* * *

Belated cards for two-year-old Paula Baker, darling of the William Bakers of 2559 W. Lafayette. She had her candles on Feb. 2.

Pat, I remember the Rev. Walter Paige, minister of Faith Baptist Church.

Feb. 5 is the birthday of James E. Walker. He is the safety advisor at Harlem Park Elementary School No. 35.

* * *

Party note: White ball gowns were the order of the evening when the Chipperettes held their annual Snow Ball on Friday at Eastwind.

The ladies all looked so elegant, it's hard to pick out the most outstanding ones.

But one couldn't forget the leather with crystal decor selected by Mrs. Royston Scott (Joan), wife of the physician. Oh, la, la, she exotic number worn by Betty Williams, the school principal. It was twill highlighted by jet-beading and a decolletage top — a daring V neckline which looked good on her.

* * *

Pretty too, the strapless accordion - pleated frock of Mrs. Harold Jennifer (Ruth). Unusual was the dress of Mrs. Wayland Jones (Peggy). It had a feather-like border at the hem line.

Mrs. Marsden Rawlings (Anabel) was a picture in a V-neck creation which featured crystals and beads.

Real eye-catcher was Mrs. Donald O. Wilson (Theda), wife of the St. James rector.

Her Lee Claire original was along Grecian lines. It was silk crepe with a slight drape on the skirt. Delovely!

* * *

In addition to the eye-catching ball gowns, there were numerous striking hairdos.

For example, Mrs. William Mumby (Mattie), piled her tresses atop her head and sprayed them white to match her frock. A real doll!

Mrs. Rosemary Garrison also favored a high hair-do. She looked like she stepped out of a fashion magazine.

* * *

Cuff note: Sunday's storm cancelled the youth day program at Madison Ave. Presbyterian Church. It is set again for Feb. 13.

Mrs. Edgar Cahn (Jean Camper), Baltimore born daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. T. Camper is scheduled to speak at the 11 a.m. service.

She is the brilliant corporation lawyer and wife of the equally brilliant attorney who is No. one man to Sargent Shriver, the nation's poverty chief.

More this and that

Words of the week: Catholic Review's Jan. 28 issue devotes a page to an interview with Lawrence Cardinal Shehan, archbishop of Baltimore. Quote from the article by Managing Editor A. E. P. Wall:

Says Cardinal Shehan: . . . 'It is the duty of every citizen to vote conscientiously and to take an interest in political affairs . . . for a citizen to exercise his rights and responsibilities fully, he must vote in the primaries and elections, and therefore, it is perfectly proper for a priest to belong to a political party . . .

'Church has a stake in hospitals, in education, in social justices and in other areas affected by legislation. It is perfectly proper for priests and members of the hierarchy to make known their judgments on these big issues, including health, social security, medical care, poverty, and education . . .'

* * *

Small world: Walked into the lobby of International Inn in D.C. Friday morning, and who should be standing there but Fred Durrah. Hadn't seen him for ages.

We were in the hotel for the National Newspaper Publishers Association midwinter workshop. Fred had just checked into the hotel from N.Y.

He is moving from the Big City to join the Veterans Administration General Counsel Staff. He was formerly with the NLRB in N.Y.

Mrs. Durrah (Isabelle), will join him shortly.

You can reach them at 1937 Vermont Ave., NW.

P.S. —Have known Fred since we were children. His mother and mine were pals.

* * *

Also seen in the lobby: Mrs. John (Jack) Moore (Jane), of Pittsburgh, where Mr. Moore is general manager of the Courier. We have mutual friends, the Louis Masons (Dot), of St. Paul, Minn., and Pittsburgh.

Attending a publishers' meeting gives one an opportunity to rub shoulders with VIPs.

Like, for example, President Johnson's new cabinet member, Dr. Robert C. Weaver (housing and urban development), who spoke on Friday morning.

* * *

And, Attorney General Nicholas deB. Katzenbach, who addressed the Friday luncheon which was hosted by Moss H. Kendrix and the Coca-Cola Co.

And, Katzenbach's special assistant, famed Arkansas attorney, Wiley Branton, who shared our table.

* * *

Attorney General Katzenbach delighted publishers when he told them he knew of the "important role played by your newspapers."

He said this was brought home to him very vividly on a recent trip to Mobile, Ala., where he attended an emancipation celebration.

They took his picture with colored people greeting him at the airport, at the luncheon and at other places he toured.

'But,' he quipped, 'when the pictures were published (in the dailies), there were no colored people anywhere!' (only in the colored weeklies.)

* * *

Liked San Francisco Publisher Carlton Goodlet's introduction of Mr. Katzenback: 'A distinguished advocate of democracy who believes justice is color blind.'

Also seen or heard at the publishers' meeting: Famed Noble Sissle, who told of the anniversary of USO; Sargent Shriver, director of Office of Economic Opportunity; and his side kick, Sam Yette, formerly of our staff;

And, Charles Bynum, the March of Dimes publicist; Onetime AFRO reporter Buddy Lonesome, now editing the St. Louis Argus; Al Sweeney, another ex AFRO staffer, now with the poverty setup in D.C.
