Battle lines drawn between SCLC, Atlanta's 'slum lord'

ATLANTA (UPI) —Battle lines were being drawn in a slum section between civil rights workers and a man they call a "slum lord."

Dr. Martin Luther King and other civil rights leaders toured the Vine City section Monday and found conditions "appauling." White and colored pickets waved protest signs as the tour proceeded through the ivy streets.

At a meeting of the unofficial Vine City Council Monday night, the Rev. Ralph Abernathy said that a rent strike will be called if the "unbelievable" slum conditions are not cleared up. The council drafted a telegram to Mayor Ivan Allen asking him to visit the section and see for himself.

The tour and the protest march was sparked by the arrest o f Hector Black, a Vine City Council organizer, on trespassing charges as he tried to enter the Markham Hotel in the heart of the section.

Black, a white man who moved into the slum area with his family when he became "concerned" about the people there, was being held in Fulton County jail on $300 bond.

• • •

FRIENDS OF Black said he was checking up on families in the area to see how they had fared the gripping cold Sunday night. The council and civil rights organizations had distributed blankets to families with inadequate heat on Sunday night.

The object of the bitter attack is Joe N. Shaffer, who owns most of the property in the section.

"Why should I let these people come in and bother my tenants," Shaffer said when contacted by United Press International. "I've had several complaints from people in my houses w h o have these civil rights people come in making all sorts of noise."

Shaffer said he was making his usual rounds when he noticed Black going from door to door. He said the stooge Shaffer said, told him to get off his property. When Black refused, he called police, Shaffer said.

"If they were really interested in distributing blankets and helping these people, I would hire a truck and help them deliver their stuff," he said. "If Black had had any blankets with him, I would have helped him give them out."

• • •

AS FOR the slum lord charges, Schaffer said, "All my houses have all the facilities they make us have, electric lights, gas and so on. Of course, some people can't afford to turn them on."

King and Abernathy reported that as many as 10 persons in one family live in one room with no private toilet facilities and little heat. There is no water at all when temperatures drop below freezing they said.

As many as eight families must share one bath, they said. And in many instances, kerosene lamps are the only light or heat.

W. H. Thompson dies in Hampton

HAMPTON, Va. —William Hale Thompson, civil rights and civic leader, died Sunday in a hospital here following a brief illness.

Mr. Thompson, vice chairman of the legal staff of the Virginia NAACP, had been a leader in legal action against segregation in the area. He had led several desegregation suits against peninsula schools.

Mr. Thompson, a past president of the Peninsula Bar Association and of the Old Dominion Bar Association, had recently been working for further fair employment practices at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Co. He was also on the board of Americans for Democratic Action.

A native of Portsmouth, he was educated in Newport News public schools and received a bachelor of science degree from Hampton Institute in 1940. He earned a law degree from Howard University in 1945.

Bar public from M-X trial

By Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — In the latest mysterious move at a trial surrounded by tense secrecy Supreme Court Judge Charles Marks barred the press and spectators from the courtroom as a sixth state's-witness prepared to testify to the assassination of Malcolm X.

"I have chosen to exclude all spectators and members of the press for reasons which will be put on the record," the judge explained, as the parked courtroom emptied.

Defense attorneys objected vehemently. "The last time this happened was at Calvary and they killed Christ," said William C. Chance, a defense attorney.

The move followed a huddle between the witness, the judge, and attorneys for both sides during the morning session.

On Tuesday Norman 3X Butler was firmly identified as one of two men who caused a disturbance in the Audubon Ballroom on Feb. 21 before Malcolm X was gunned down. Jasper Davis, 35- year old building superintendent identified Butler as the man who sat down next to him before Malcolm spoke and with whom he held a general conversation.

"I looked at his face" He did not get good look at the second man who later joined the man he identified as Butler.

Cross — examination on Wednesday morning by William C. Chance, lawyer for Butler, failed to shake the witnesses certainty that Butler was the man. However David admitted, under extensive questioning by Chance that neither of the two men shot Mal mcol hbg-ntime shot Malcolm in the beginning.

"I don't think they fired because they were right next to me and it would have been loud." The witness testified that a few minutes after Malcolm X began to speak, the two men beside himrose and one abouted as they began to scuffle.

Immediately the witness heard a loud shot from directly in front by the stage. He saw a third man whom he could not identify facing the stage and holding a very large gun.

After the shooting began, the witness did not remember the two men as still being beside him. He did not know where they went. There was also doubt in the witness' mind whether either of the two had shouted the now famous sentence, "Get your hands out of my pocket."

"The voice of the man sitting next to me sounded the same as the one who yelled," he testified.

THE WITNESS was followed by John Davis, 38 - year - old chemist and personal friend of Malcolm's for 15 years. He had been a Muslim in 1960-61 then aligned himself with Malcolm.

He testified he was in charge of the rostrum guards and handled the charges of guards that day.

His testimony, like George Whitney's, places Hagan in the ballroom and fleeing, gun in hand, toward the rear and out to the sidewalk where he was caught. The only difference between Whitney's testimony and Davis' testimony ... which aisle Hagan was fleeing.

... morning, the court recessed for lunch on an impasse. A witness brought in after the jury was removed, huddled before the judge's bench with all lawyers. It was rumored he was afraid to testify and wanted his attorney with him.

He appeared again with his lawyer and wanted the courtroom cleared of spectators and the press before testifying.

The defense objected and Judge Marks took this new situation under advisement.

Newsmen speculated that the witness, whose identity was not revealed, feared for his life in testifying in an opes courtroom. Earlier witnesses had maintained that they had not gone to police after the shooting because they had not wanted to become a target for the guns that killed Malcolm X.

A number of Black Muslims and followers of the slain ex - Muslim were present in the courtroom which has been tightly guarded by police since the trial began Jan. 3.

John Davis, 35, a graduate of the State University of New York, said he saw 22 - year - old Thomas Hagan of Paterson, N.J. running towards the exit of the audubon ballroom with a pistol minutes after Malcolm X had been shot.

Davis, a former member of the Black Muslim sect, said he was in the ballroom and had been assigned to post "rostrum guards" — a security guard deployed near the elevated stage in the front of the ballroom — to protect Malcolm X.

Davis, who aligned himself with Malcolm X's Black Nationalist group in 1964, said: "I saw a man running up the aisle towards me and out of the ballroom. The man had a gun in his hand. I saw the gun go off and I ducked. I got a look at the man's face."

At the direction of Asst. D. A. Vincent J. Dermody, Davis stepped from witness box, approached the defense table and pointed to Hagan, saying, "that's the man."

TWO OTHER defendants, Norman 3X Butler, 26, and Thomas 15 X Johnson, 29, both of The Bronx, have been identified by other witnesses as the alleged accomplices in the execution.

The prosecution charges that Johnson, wielding a sawed off shotgun, fired a blast into Malcolm X's chest and that Butler and Hagan later poured bullets into Malcolm's body on the stage.

Davis works as a chemist for the Mercury Printing Ink Co. in Paterson, N.J.

He said that after Hagan darted out of the ballroom he pursued the suspect into the street where Hagan later was apprehended by an angry mob of Malcolm X followers.
