Deltas urged to back voter drive, seen as key to better housing

By BETTYE MOSS

"If we can put hundreds on the books between now and Aug. 13, when the books close, and hold voter education meetings, we can get a favorable vote in the next City Council . . . they will see the handwriting on the wall, just as they did in Alabama . . .

Mrs. Juanita Jackson Mitchell, attorney and NAACP state chairman, was telling members of Delta Sigma Sorority how they can work in their churches and neighborhoods for fair housing legislation.

She was one of several participants in the sorority's social action seminar held Saturday afternoon in the McKeldin Student Union at Morgan State Colege.

• • •

MRS. MITCHELL predicted that registration of 90 per cent of eligible colored voters (64 per cent are registered now), 'could change the whole picture in the City Council."

In suggesting help of more privileged citizens, Mrs. Mitchell said: 'In the eyes of politicians, if you're not registered, you just don't exist .. there is a pool of talent in the inner city .. little people want help and direction.'

• • •

CITY COUNCIL President Thomas D'Alesandro who was hailed for his 'courage' when the recent open occupancy bill was defeated, saw the need for the power structure, big business and unions to 'speak out, not just talk and do token integration.'

During the question and answer period when someone suggested Baltimore would have a colored mayor 'in the next ten years,' it was Mr. D'Alesandro who corrected them to say, 'next seven years.'

William Wilson of the Real Estate Board called it 'ridiculous' for white residents to run when colored people move in.

He called such people 'stupid,' and suggested they do themselves and the city a disservice.

(Mr. Wilson appeared at the meeting on crutches. He had a broken foot.)

• • •

DR. FURMAN L. TEMPLETON, Urban League executive secretary, told the gathering of the 'misconceptions of those who oppose open occupancy.

He described as 'fallacious beliefs' those who say property values depreciate when colored people move in, noting that in fact property values increase.

He saw housing as the last area of civil rights not touched by legislation in Maryland. He cited the 'critical need of housing for colored people, now 40.2 per cent of the population will be nearly 50 per cent of the population by 1970.

He urged sorority members to help alter housing patterns, particularly if there is going to be any real relief of de facto segregation, and to become alert to bills now in the legislature which would bar open occupancy.

• • •

Mrs. T'JON HILL moderated the seminar. Mrs. Callye Fletcher, chairman, presided. Summaries were given by Mrs. Vivian Washington and Mrs. Shirley Jones.

On Saturday morning, members of the sorority held a closed session at the college with Miss Laundria Roberts, chairman of the campus chapter, presiding.

Participants included Mrs. Ruby C. Gill, State Senator Verda Welcome, Dr. Elaine Davis, Mrs. Thelma Cox, Mrs. Beryl Williams, Miss Julia D. Smith, Mrs. Miriam Winborne, Mrs. Gwendolyn Lamont, Miss Barbara Sartor and Miss Paulette Holtsclaw.

Pretty dinner - dance this past week was the one given by Chi Delta Mu. This is the fraternity of doctors and dentist.

• • •

The elegant Sunday evening affair which attracted members and guests from D.C., Pa., and Del., was held at Tale of the Fox out York Rd. way.

The Sherman Lewis orchestra provided music during dinner and for dancing.

Tydings proposes U.S. family planning acts

Proposed legislation to aid voluntary family planning programs in this country and abroad was introduced in Congress Monday by Maryland's Sen. Joseph D. Tydings.

In presenting the bills, he said they were designed to provide funds and authority "to make an impact on population problems."

Sen. Tydings said they make two basic points:

"1. The Congress of the United State regards family planning as an area of great concern. We cannot turn away from the overriding social and economic issue of our time.

"2. In this delicate area, the government will neither influence nor coerce its own citizens or foreign nationals to engage in family planning or to prefer any one method of family planning over any other method."

Sen. Tydings said the domestic legislation which he proposes will work through existing machinery — local and state health departments and private, nonprofit organizations.

It authorizes the appropriation of $15,000,000 the first year, and a like amount each subsequent year for five years.

Family planning programs abroad would be aided through use of excess foreign currencies.

March proclaimed 'Medicare Month'

In a simple ceremony this Friday morning at City Hall, Mayor McKeldin proclaimed March 1966 as Medicare Month.

He handed the proclamation document to the Social Security district manager for Baltimore, Marshall H. Barney, who was accompanied by Robert W. Hughes, Towson district manager, and Boyce G. Flora, manager at Glen Burnie. All three offices serve portions of Baltimore City.

Mr. McKeldin urged all citizens eligible for the free Hospital Insurance Coverage to sign up for it. He further urged all eligible for the Voluntary Medical Insurance (which has a $3 monthly premium) to find out about it and make their decision before the deadline date for enrollment, March 31.

Nearly 100,0000 citizens on Baltimore are eligible for this new program. More than 70 percent have already signed up, but there are 20,000 to 25,000 residets who still haven't made their decisions.

Cardinal Shehan to meet panel

His eminence Lawrence Cardinal Shehan will be the special guest on To Promote Good Will on Monday, March 7, from 7:30 until 8 p.m., in color, on WBAL-TV 11.

Cardinal Shehan will face the panel of three clergymen representing the Catholic, Jewish and Protestant faiths. They are: Father James B. O'Hara, assistant at the Cathedral of Mary Our Queen; Rabbi Abraham Shusterman of the Har Sinai Congregation; and Dr. Frederick Helfer of the Christian Temple.

French classic at Towson State

Commencing on Thursday, March 10, the Glen Players will present "Phedre," by Jean Racine. The play will be presented in Towson State College's Stephens Hall, at 8:15 p.m.

Racine, and his rivals, Corneille and Moliere, form the great triumverate of the French Neo - Classical theatre.

Predre is the last of Racine's important works and stands as a milestone of the French theatre, but because of the difficulty of adapting the play to American audiences, it is seldom produced in this country.
