—Veney trial

ANOTHER NOTEWORTHY event in connection with Veney witnesses, concerns Willis "Redcap" Taylor, who also testified for the state in the Earl Veney hearings in Frederick.

On Feb. 28, Judge Carter signed an order which permitted "Redcap" to be transferred from City Jail to the Baltimore County Jail at Towson.

According to the State's Attorney's office, Redcap's attorney, Paul Cockrell, advised Charles Moylan Jr., the states attorney, last month, that his client felt "insecure" at the City Jail in Baltimore.

Word was that, following Redcap's testifying for the state at Earl's trial in Frederick, he was termed a "songbird" and the rumor brought about incidents that posed a threat to him as a prisoner here in town.

Papers on file in Criminal Court failed to disclose what the incidents were that prompted Redcap's request for transfer, however, the states attorney's office said Redcap's wishes were granted to stave off trouble.

On March 29, States Attorney Moylan, his assistants, Mr. Lewin and Frank DeCosta Jr., will return to the Frederick County Courthouse along with the Veneys' attorneys, John R. Hargrove and Daniel Klein.

The group is scheduled to meet with Seventh District Chief Judge J. Dudley Digges at 11 a.m.

The trip is primarily for the purpose of Judge Digges hearing the pleas of Samuel Veney's lawyers for the removal of his trial from Frederick.

Samuel was granted change of venue in February at the same time Earl's trial was moved from Baltimore to the Frederick County Circuit Court. The law allows one such transfer.

However, under state rules, consideration for an additional change of place is allowed if the defense can show prejudice.

According to Mr. Hargrove, newspaper accounts of the Earl Veney trial were so widely noted in the small town, the element of prejudice is possible.

It is left with Judge Digges to decide not only the place for Samuel's hearing, but also the date.

Samuel Veney is charged with first degree murder of a policeman plus assault with intent to murder and robbery with a deadly weapon.

Although the jury bended down the verdict of guilty for Earl, sentence has been witheld until the conclusion of his brother's trial.

Watts melee logical reprise, Tass says

MOSCOW, (UPI) — Tass, the Soviet News Agency, called renewed Watts rioting a "logical continuation" of last year's bloody uprising there.

"They came out against inhuman living conditions and police arbitrariness," Tass said, adding the rioters were "infuriated by the actions of the police."

Thurgood's Day here on Sunday

A Baltimore boy who made good—and may still set new precedents—will speak and be honored here Sunday.

Thurgood Marshall, whose brilliant legal career includes unprecedented court victories with the NAACP, a federal court post and now the job of U.S. States solicitor general, will speak at 3 p.m. in Bethel AME Church, Druid Hill Ave. and Lanvale.

Many feel certain "Mr. Civil Rights," the title he won while directing a long string of important NAACP legal fights, will become the first member of the race to sit on the Supreme Court.

Dr. Lillie M. Jackson, veteran NAACP president, will preside Sunday. Municipal Court Judge Robert B. Watts will introduce Solicitor Marshall.

* * *

AMONG THOSE who will make presentations to Mr. Marshall are: Thomas B. Finan, state attorney general, Dr. Carl Murphy, chairman of the board of AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers, Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin, Attorney Harry A. Cole of the Masons, and the NAACP's the Rev. Frank M. Reid.

Other participants on the program will be the Rev. Marcus G. Wood, pastor of Providence Baptist Church, Grand Master Samuel T. Daniels, Prince Hall Masons, and Tucker R. Dearing, who will discuss "The Maryland Situation."

Music selections will be given by the Enon Baptist Choir.

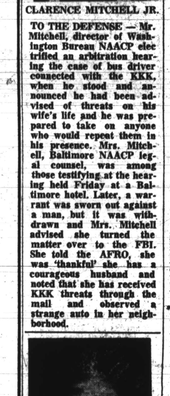
MRS. JUANITA MITCHELL



CLARENCE MITCHELL JR.

TO THE DEFENSE — Mr. Mitchell, director of Washington Bureau NAACP elec trified an arbitration hearing the case of bus driver connected with the KKK, when he stood and announced he had been advised of threats on his wife's life and he was prepared to take on anyone who would repeat them in his presence. Mrs. Mitchell, Baltimore NAACP legal counsel, was among those testifying at the hearing held Friday at a Baltimore hotel. Later, a warrant was sworn out against a man, but it was withdrawn and Mrs. Mitchell advised she turned the matter over to the FBI. She told the AFRO, she was 'thankful' she has a courageous husband and noted that she has received KKK threats through the mail and observed a strange auto in her neighborhood.

Poverty talk

Farren J. Mitchell, executive director of the Community Action Agency, will be guest speaker at the open meeting March 24 at 8 p.m. at Stony Run Friends Meeting House, 5116 N. Charles St.

The subject will be the Baltimore Anti-Poverty Program and other guest panelists will be G. Cheston Carey, member of the Community Action Agency for Baltimore County and John E. Motz, member of the Baltimore Community Action Commission.

Mrs. Helen E. Baker, a pioneer in the anti-poverty project in southern New Jersey directed by the American Friends Service Committee also will speak.

The meeting is sponsored by the Joint Social Order Committee of the two Baltimore Meetings of Friends.

Urban League hits hate act

J. Percy Bond, president of the Baltimore Urban League, today issued a statement regretting the recent defacement of the Chizuk Amuno Congregation and the Liberty Jewish Center.

"The Baltimore Urban League sincerely deplores the desecration of the two Jewish institutions and fully joins with all those responsible local citizens who are determined to take whatever steps are necessary to prevent such vicious practices in the future.

"Such despicable actions clearly violate every concept of human brotherhood, respect for religious liberty and the basic tenets of American democracy."

He added that the Urban League supports the passage of proposed legislation prohibiting the defacement of houses of worship and expressed the hope that as suggested by Attorney General Thomas B. Finan, such legislation would be amended to include the burning of crosses.
