seats only 32 spectators, for a hearing on Thursday.

THE DEFENDANT, well-dressed and groomed, looked more like one of the attorneys than a man suspected of beating his wife to death.

The handsome bespectacled suspect wore a dark brown suit and a tan sport coat.

As Tinner stood before Commissioner Sam Wertleb, a man who identified himself as his father, rushed forward before Wertleb had a chance to advise the defendant of his rights, and asked the Commissioner to consider the "medical question." There was no further explanation given in open court.

Wertleb responded that he was aware of the issue and for that reason was setting a low bond. Bail was set at $1,500 and the preliminary hearing was continued to April 12 at the request of the defendant who wanted time to consult and obtain an attorney.

TINNER'S GRANDFATHER, Guy, who maintained real estate offices near 11th and Yes Sts., N.W., has been dead for several years.

According to Capt. George Donahue, homicide squad, the couple has been married since 1963 and lived together "off and on" since then. "Because of the problems young people have, they argued back and forth and," he stated, "he struck her with his fist."

Police, who had not finished interrogating Tinner, did not know how many times Mrs. Tinner was struck.

GUY A. TINNER

Captain Donahue stated Tinner called an ambulance and his wife was taken to Washington Hospital Center where she died at 12:23 a.m. Thursday.

TINNER, WHO listed his occupation as a pupil personal aide employed in the 1400 block K St., N.W., reportedly was having financial difficulty.

Captain Donahue said the couple quarrelled repeatedly over money and "differences in personality."

Friends reported the couple, parents of an 18-month-old daughter, last separated about September and were re - united shortly before Christmas.

"They seemed to be getting along well this time," an acquaintance said. "At least the problems were not bad enough for her to discuss them."

Mrs. Tinner was the daughter of Mitchell by a former marriage. Through a bank spokesman, he declined comment on the morning of the tragedy and friends reported he was thrown into despondency.

COLUMBIA, S.C. — The internationally famous Harvard Glee Club will be presented in concert on April 6 at Allen University's Chappelle Auditorium at 8 p.m. Dr. Walter Hui-deh Yeh will conduct the Glee Club in a performance of his own choral composition "She Never Told Her Love."

two years.

She said she was proud of her boys and had no regrets about their being in Viet Nam: "They're proud of it and I am too," she said.

Her main worry, she added was about her son Pfc. Hazel, with the often-incombat 101st Airborne Division. "You hear something about them every day," she pointed out.

THE 38-YEAR-OLD mother whose fourth son, Charles, 18, plans to join the Air Force when he graduates from the high school in Hartsville in June, didn't seem much concerned over the discussion in this country about the war.

"I don't know what to think about it," she laughed wryly. "I just hope the war is over soon."

She continued that her sons "don't worry a bit" about the conduct of the war. "When I ask them about it, they say we're going to win. I hope so."

THE ONLY COMPLAINTS they have she indicated, are of the kind written by Spec.4 LeRoy in a letter dated March 19, in which he said he was looking forward to getting back to the State because it was "so hot here, every day over 100 degrees."

The letter added that a nearby unit had just been hit by the Viet Cong and one of the 10 men killed had arrived only the morning of the day he died.

The son in combat wrote on March 11 that he "just got back from the jungles" and asked his mother to send him six pop records.

MRS. BROCKINGTON said she heard rarely from her eldest son, who is married and has two children. His has been in Viet Nam the shortest time of the three brothers, having been sent there early last month.

The corporal went into the Marines in June, 1963, and was in Korea before going to Viet Nam. He plans a service career.

Also thinking of becoming a career man is Spec. 4 LeRoy, who has been in Viet Nam the longest of the three, since June, 1964.

Pfc. Hazel went to Viet Nam soon after he enlisted in June of last year.

Mrs. Brockington's other children all live with her in Baltimore. They are Delores, 15, a student at Booker T. Washington Junior High; Harold and Horace, 12-year-old twins, and Larry, 11. The youngest three all attend Lexington Terrace Elementary School.

the young G. I. wrote. "Tell my mother that if anything should happen to me, my insurance will take care of her."

Mrs. Helene Goodman of the 3200 block of Old Frederick Rd. is the dead soldier's mother.

Young Armstead served with the 25th Infantry Division and had been an associate member of St. Gregory's Catholic Church in Baltimore. He was described by his grandparents as one who enjoyed sports in general "a brilliant child."

Bill failed to repeal these marriage bans

(See Editorial Page)

ANNAPOLIS — These are Maryland's outmoded laws against intermarriage Sen. Verda F. Welcome's House killed bill would have repealed.

1. Ministers marrying colored with a white person — Article 27, Sect. 398, Annotated Code of Maryland, 1957:

"If any minister pastor or other person who, according to the laws of this state is usually join people in marriage, shall upon any pretense join in marriage any colored with any white person, he shall on conviction be fined one hundred dollars."

2. Miscegenation — Article 27, Sect. 398, Annotated Code of Maryland, 1957:

"All marriages between a white person and a colored person, or between a white person and a person of colored descent to the third generation, inclusive, or between a white person and a member of the Malay race or between a colored person and a member of the Malay race;

"Or between a person of colored descent, to the third generation, inclusive, and a member of the Malay race are forever prohibited, and shall be void.

"And any person violating the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of an infamous crime, and punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary not less than 18 months nor more than ten years;

"Provided however, that the provisions of this section shall not apply to marriages between white persons an members of the Malay race, or between colored and members of the Malay race, or between persons of colored descent, to the third generation, inclusive, and members of the Malay race, existing prior to June 1, 1965."

TO SUE—James M. Holly, 44, a custodian at School 123, has taken up the matter of his arrest on a warrant that did not fit his physical description. Judge Robert B. Watts apologized to Mr. Holly on his being arrested when he was freed in Western Police Court of a charge of larceny after trust.

Coppin's Jones 'Coach of Year'

Coach Joseph A. Jones of Coppin State College has been voted "Coach of the Year" by the Maryland Intercollegiate conference.

Mr. Jones came to Coppin in September as the first male physical education teacher in the college's history. He has been honored for his outstanding accomplishment in building a fine team that has displayed excellent sportsmanship as well as good playing ability.

Mr. Jones was selected by the coaches of the five other colleges in the conference — Bowie, Frostburg, Salisbury, D. C. Teachers and Galludet.

More time for aged to sign up

Open enrollment for "Blue Cross and Blue Shield 65", the Medicare complementary program, has been extended until April 15.

Blue Cross officials reported today that the sign - up has been extended past the original March 31 deadline because of extremely heavy response from the elderly, averaging 1,000 replies per day.

The enrollment is for state residents 65 or over who are not now Blue Cross and/or Blue Shield members

Senior citizens should contact their local Blue Cross and Blue Shield office. In Baltimore- a special Medicare Service Unit has been installed to supply information and application forms. The Unit's telephone number is

Clerk wins freedom in assault case

In Criminal Court Tuesday Judge Joseph Carter ruled he could not believe the account a 12 - year old girl gave of an alleged criminal assault upon her.

The sixth grade pupil, testified that a man she had called "Daddy" while he resided with her mother seven years, had been intimate with her on occasions from June through December, 1965.

However, when she said she failed to report the incidents until January, 1966, "because he threatened to kill me," Judge Carter said he "began to wonder" if the testimony was accurate.

He ruled that Lewis Foy Long, 2600 block Francis St., a shipping clerk, was not guilty of a statutory rape charge.

Mr. Long admitted he had resided as man and wife with the child's mother and had supported four children, two of them his own.

He testified that he was shocked at the 12 - year-old girl's accusations.

"The little girl said she delayed telling her mother what hapened because she had been threatened. However, there is no evidence before the court that he even hurt her. It causes me to wonder.. I am not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt," Judge Carter said while freeing Mr. Long.

judge prospects

The Baltimore Bar Association prepared Wednesday a list of 14 attorneys it has cleared as candidates for the judgeship soon to be vacated by the retirement of Judge Michael J. Manley.

Judge Manley, a member of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore over 20 years, is 70 and will officially be retired in June.

Among those included on the list are Judge Robert B. Watts, now on the Municipal bench and attorneys John R. Clargrove and George Russell.

The list will be submitted to Gov. Millard Tawes as soon as all the candidates have been notified by the BBA committee.
