MUSICAL MOMENTS

Organists hear vivid description of new mass in meeting at Douglas

By ADAH K. JENKINS

The Patapsco Chapter, American Guild of Organists held its monthly meeting on a recent Saturday in the parlor of Douglass Memorial Community Church, with Matthew Fraling as guest speaker.

Mr. Fraling, who is a graduate of Morgan State College and teacher of music at Gibbons High School, gave an enlightening and graphic description of the dialogue or peoples' mass, which has replaced the Latin mass in the Roman Catholic Church.

He described his duties as cantor of the mass at St. Gregory the Great, which was one of the first churches in this country to use the new service, even before the recent Vatican decisions.

The use of hymns from other denominations was discussed. Much interest was manifested during the question period, as most of the AGO members are choir directors and/or organists in local churches.

Mr. Fraling extended a cordial invitation to the chapter to attend the 12 o'clock Sunday mass at St. Gregory's (Gilmor and Baker Streets).

The speaker has travelled extensively in the east and mid - west, where he has demonstrated the new mass, with Father Joseph Connolly, curate of St. Gregory's.

J. Spencer Hammond, president of the Chapter, introduced the speaker and presided at the business meeting.

Meadames Genevieve Wisner and Emma Poulson were hostesses at the dessert coffee hour.

PRECEDING THE recent holidays spring programs began to "bloom" in various schools of the city. Under the direction of Miss M. Almira Miller, music specialist, pupils of Schools 102 and 139 presented seasonal compositions and readings.

Arrangements of notable works were given, including "How Lovely are the Messengers" (Mendelssohn), an aria from Gounod's "Redemption," and Mozart's "Alleluia" theme.

Organ solos and duets were performed by pupils who participate in the organ course offered at both schools.

Guest soloist was Joyce Jones, soprano and a student in the music department of Morgan State College, who sang "The Holy City" and "Were You There?"

Pupils of School 139 supplied flute and xylophone accompaniments for several selections.

The language - arts curriculum offered appropriate prose and poetry and the audience of parents, teachers and children joined in a "Sing Along."

Both programs were given in the auditorium of School 102, where a new organ, was placed this year.

Mrs. Anna Payne is principal there and Reginald Watts is administrator at School 139.

Marietta Gaither, Baltimore soprano, now living in New York, visited relatives here during her spring vacation.

Her recent appearances have included a leading role in the opera "Cavalleria Rusticana," with a company on East Side Manhattan and concerts in New Jersey and Georgia.

In June she will be presented in a recital at Mother AME Zion Church in New York.

Jessye Coston, Baltimore baritone, who graduated last year from the Westminster School in Princeton, is now pursuing his master of music degree at the New England Conservatory.

He was given the signal honor of being selected to present his annual recital in the Gardner Tapestry Room, where he presented works by Bach, Handel and Brahms.

Mr. Coston also sang stellar roles in opera and in "Seven Last Words" during this season in Boston, where he is soloist at the Mother Christian Scientist Church and also conducts the choir at one of the wealthy congregations.

Spring is time to feed trees

Spring is the time to fertilize your trees.

If, however, your trees are newly planted—in the past few years—and you've used plenty of good soil for back-filling, they probably don't need it this year. Wait till next.

But street trees, planted in the narrow parking between sidewalk and curb, may suffer from mineral depletion. So probably do some of your yard trees. You can tell if the leaves are paler than normal and the growth slower.

TO FERTILIZE shade tree.

Measure the diameter of the trunk 3 feet above the ground. Use 2 pounds of 5-10-5 fertilizer for each inch of diameter. (A spoon of coffee can holds just this amount.)

Use a soil augur or post-hole digger (if you have either) to dig holes around your street trees. A crow, bar or broom stick will do for trees in your yard. Make holes 15 to 24 inches deep if you can and about 18 inches apart around the dripline of the trees (the area beneath the ends of the longest branches.)

Distribute the fertilizer equally among the holes, then fill the holes with good soil. A mixture of equal parts topsoil, sand, and peat moss is good for this purpose. It provides aeration and water access as well as filling the space.

APRIL 24

"The Death of God as a Christian Problem" will be the title of a Jeffery Lecture delivered by Dr. William Hamilton at 3 p.m. in Levering Hall, the Johns Hopkins University.

MAY 11 - 14
