Celtics win again, down Lakers, 95-93

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston is still the capital of the basketball world, Red Auerbach went out puffing a victory cigar, and Bill Russell is ready to try his coaching hand.

The incomparable Celtics knocked out the Los Angeles Lakers, 95-93, Thursday night for the eighth straight Boston championship and ninth in the last ten National Basketball Association seasons.

A victory in the seventh and final championship playoff game meant a good deal more to the Celtics than the roughly $4,143 per man they will collect as world champs. It was the 1,037th lifetime victory for Auerbach who ended a 20-year coaching career to take over as Boston general manager.

The Celtics, who had led throughout and were apparently coasting home in the fourth quarter after leading by 19 points in the third round, were pushed just a bit at the end though the outcome was not as close as the score would indicate.

* * *

RUSSELL, in his very last game as strictly a player, stuffed a shot with 30 seconds left for a 95-85 Boston bulge. After that, it was a race to see whether the fans could cover the Boston Garden court before the Lakers could pick up enough points to close the gap.

Jerry West scored twice and Jim King and Leroy Ellis once each but Boston's K. C. Jones had firm possession of the ball at mid-court when time ran out on the fourth unsuccessful Los Angeles title bid in the past five years.

Auerbach had his victory cigar lit by Massachusetts Gov. John A. Volpe and was half carried from the floor to a waiting shower while fully clothed. In Boston, it's been a tradition to drench Auerbach, clothes and all. But if they win again next year, the Celtics will have to fold Russ sell into the shower stall in his uniform of playing-coach.

The Lakers, losing to Boston for the fifth time in playoff finals, collected $19,000 for a total of $46,000 in playoff cash as final series losers.

'Tee-off, serve time,' some schools drop golf

It's tee - off and serve time, again, as the Interhigh Leagues open their 1966 championship tennis and folg seasons today (Friday). Twelve schools (Chamberlain and Ballou the only absentees) will vie for the tennis cup.

Nine teams, down thre from last year, will be on the golf courses in pursuit of the city championship won by Wilson and the East flag won by Anacostia, in 1965.

Participation in golf and tennis is so scant in to tennis is so scant in lol high schools because of the extracurricular activity pay and time situation in the District, athletic supervising director Hardy Pearce said Wednesday.

Faculty moderators and coaches do not receive extra pay for their after - school work with students, as they do in many other school systems. A treat by the coaches to strike last year was met with a suspension threat from school superintendent Dr. Carl Hansen.

The dispute was setteld with compensatory time for the coaches, with mentors of major sports (football, baseball, basketball and track) earning twice as much free leave as golf and tennis coaches.

With major sport pilots entitled to so much time, according to Pearce, many schools could not spare the extra time for tennis and gold teachers.

For this reason, Bell Vocational, McKinley Tech, and Roosevelt high Schools were forced to drop golf from their programs this year, after sponsoring it up to last season.

Bars separate court seating

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Special seating arrangements for whites who prefer not to sit near colored spectators in the Dallas County courthouse are now banned.

U.S. Dist. Judge Daniel H. Thomas Wednesday issued a permanent injunction against Dallas County Judge Hugh Mallory and any other judge presiding in the county's court against special seating arrangements.

The decision followed filing of a suit by civil rights leaders James Bevel and James Webb. The two sat in a portion of Mallory's courtroom last September reserved for whites who would rather sit with other whites.

MALLORY ordered them to move and they refused. He sentenced them to five days in jail for contempt. Thomas ordered them released the next day.

The county judge said he reserved a section of about one third of the room for whites "who preferred to sit with other whites" and colored citizens were allowed to sit anywhere else they wished.

'Not in shape,' says Morgan coach Hurt

PHILADELPHIA —"We're not in the best of shape, but we'll be there."

This was the lament and promise of Morgan State College coach Eddie Hurt on arrival here Thursday night, the eve of the annual Penn Relays at Franklin Field today (Friday) and Saturday.

* * *

"OUR TRACK at school isn't ready; so we haven't been able to work out. Last weekend, everybody pitched in and worked on it so that we could get in some practice before coming here.

"On top of the general subpar condition," Hurt went on, "Tim Johnson came up with a sore muscle Wednesday. I'm not sure how well he'll recover, although I believe it is not serious.

"If Johnson comes around, we should make a fair showing in our events. That's the height of our optimism, though, that we'll make a fair showing."

* * *

THE BEARS have a full complement of runners, jumpers and weightmen here.

The regular foursome of Ray Pollard, Herm Hawthorne, Mal Brown and Johnson is expected to go in the featured mile relay. Should a last minute alternate be needed, he will be Howard Stanback, the ex Forest Park High School luminary.

A freshman unit will be drawn from Ron Barbosa, Earl Wake, Charles Jones, Ivan Harlee and Robert Boyd. Three of these youngsters are native Baltimoreans — Wake from Sollers Point, Jones from Carver and Harlee from Forest Park.

EDDIE HURT

WILLIE STEWART, hurdler, will be the first Bear contestants to see action. He is entered in the 400 - meters hurdles on Friday, opening event on 123 - event program.

Competing for the Bears in the long jump will be Byron Lewis, George Johnson and Fred Hunter. Lewis, who also will contest the triple jump, and Johnson placed in the IC4-A championships in February.

Spencer Henry joins Pollard as a hope for Morgan in the special spring invitationals, and Harvey Palmore is expected by Hurt to "do well" in the shotput and discus.

* * *

THE BEAR mentor's concern over the condition of his athletes is understandable.

Because of the lack of their track at Morgan and unfavorable weather the past two weeks, Hurt deemed it wise to scratch from the Queens - Iona Relays, held last weekend at Randalls Island, New York.

It was the first time the Bears had missed the meet in ten years.—LACY.

Rouse considered for shot at Torres

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roger Rouse of Anaconda, Mont., is in line for a world light - heavyweight title shot Mont., is inlne for a wtrld light - heavyweight title shot in September, it was announced by Madison Square Garden' matchmaker Teddy Brenner.

Rouse, rated the No. 2 challenger in the light - heavy division by the World Boxing Association, also was nominated by Brenner for a June 27 engagement in the Garden against either Harry Hank or Johnny Persol.

Champion Jose Torres will defend his title against Wayne Thornton at Shea Stadium, May 21, and Rouse may meet the winner of that match in September, also in New York.
