If YOU Ask ME

BY BETTYE M. MOSS

Yes, the Lord is good

God sometimes shuts the door and shuts us in,
That He may speak, perchance
through grief or pain,
And softly, heart to heart, above
the din,
May tell some precious thought to us again.

The unknown author of the above verse has spoken true words.

The Lord is good . . . yes, He's good.

A week back, this reporter was stricken suddenly in the night . . . excruciating pains in the abdomen.

They came without warning . . . what to do, whom to call in the early ayem was the first concern.

After endless hours of pacing, there was a call to a devoted sister who summoned her friend, Dr. Bernard Harris Jr.

Looks like gall stones, was his diagnosis.

There followed agonizing more hours to wait until the head of the house returned from camp . . . (first time he'd been away).

Then, when the pain would no longer permit further waiting . . . a call to another longtime friend.

Alan Bernstein, M.D., answered the phone himself. He was expecting his in-laws, the Louis Kohns home from Greece. . . .

Gall stones? he asked . . . and in the next breath, what surgeon do you want?

Surgeon! was my gasp. I advised Dr. Jack Handelsman, whom I'd met many years back when my late mother was so ill.

And, that is how this reporter got to Hopkins Hospital where there was emergency surgery. It was gall stones. Dr. Harris was right!

I say, again, God is good . . . I know it is good.

At this writing — ten days after the operation, this reporter is at home, able to be up and about the house and to type these words.

It is hard to believe one can be so desperately ill one week and on the road to recovery the next week.

But, the Lord is good . . .

Happiest visitor at my bedside last week. My old friend and physician, Dr. Ralph Young.

His vest button is popping because his one and only daughter, brilliant Dr. Lois Young, has been notified she has passed her Board.

She is now a Diplomat of the American College of Opthalmology (in laymen's language, this means she is a topflight eye specialist).

At present, Dr. Lois is on the Hopkins staff, on a post doctorate fellowship.

In July, she returns to her post at Howard University. Good girl!

Most inspiring visitors: Mrs. Adah K. Jenkins, this newspaper's music critic.

She is looking the picture of health (her hat at a jaunty angle), and she was so ill several weeks back.

And, Mrs. Pearlie Pennington, one of our town's grand senior citizens who is so young at heart it is difficult to believe she is 77.

She is doing just fine after removal of that troublesome tumor.

More pleasant people met at Hopkins: Mrs. Minnie L. Thrower of Pimlico Rd.

She is a 20-year employee in the X-ray department, last week received a service pin.

Many know Mrs. Thrower as the active member of Mt. Zion Methodist Church, where she is president of the Women's Society of Christian Service.

Unusual baby met: Mrs. George Maye (Ann), of Derby Manor Drive. She is a nurse's aide.

More important: She and Mr. Maye have six sons. Isn't that grand! Mr. Maye is a Sealtest Dairy employee.

The Maye children are Stanley, 13; Andrea, 12; Donald, 11; Jeffrey, 10; Derrick, 8; and Patrick, 6. The family attends Cornerstone Baptist Church.

Also met: Mrs. Hettie Peterson of Poplar Terr. She is a licensed practical nurse and a very fine one too.

Not content to have just one skill, she is studying at Coppin State College, hopes one day to be able to teach special education to retarded children. Mrs. Peterson belongs to Bethel AME Church.

Also seen at the hospital: Mrs. Blanche Hughes and her daughter, Miriam. They were there to visit the head of their house, W.A.C. Hughes Jr., the pioneer NAACP lawyer. He is still in Thayer Section (Room 822 B). Keep his spirits up.

More people and things

Thinking - of - you cards to Mrs. Ann Blair, the beautician, of 1355 W. North Ave. Her mother had surgery last Monday, is doing well, thank goodness.

Special hellos to Mrs. Louis Tucker (Camilla). She has had four deaths in her immediate family in the past month.

First, her niece, Mrs. Hortense Madden of Baltimore; then her sister, Mrs. Zena Howard of Camden, N.J., then another niece, Mrs. Inez Hughes Wilson of Ozone Park L.I., N.Y., and then her cousin, Mrs. Hortense Brown Simmon Fields.

And, if this isn't enough, Mr. Tucker is still nursing that broken back . . . remember he fell on the job some weeks back? This means he is undergoing therapy treatments three times a week.

But Mrs. Tucker is not letting this get her down. She talks enthusiastically about her family, so we had quite a good time bridging the years which have passed since we were neighbors.

Daughter, Theresa, is now Mrs. Marvin Sexton, and a teacher in the Baltimore schools. (Whew! Time flies.) Mr. Sexton is a guard at Patuxent. They have two children, Marie, 4; and Myrna, 8 months.

The other Tucker children are Louis Jr., 17, City College junior; and Alice, 13, an eighth grader at Hannah More Academy, where she is winning honors in horseback riding among other things. Yes, time does fly!

Continue get - well wishes to University Hospital for another good, good neighbor, Mrs. Hilda Green. She's over the hump, thank goodness.

Many know her as the mother of our office's Mrs. Odessa Dyson, and also as the lady who does such grand things with dishes et al at Emerald Gardens.

Also on the mend: Mrs. J. C. Reaves (Agnes). Her slipped disc surgery will keep her in for a good while, but she is doing beautifully.

And, so much better too, is Mrs. Dorothy Sykes of Winterbourne Rd. She was in Provident for a month.

Special thinking - of - you hellos to Mrs. Vivian Pendleton, another of our town's enthusiastic civic workers . . . always willing to lend a helping hand to others.

She is just in from Natchez, Miss., where she buried her mother, Mrs. Callie Thompson Ratcliff, 78.

Another daughter is Mrs. Claudia Rayford of D.C.

Best wishes to Mrs. Cleo Jackson of 1516 E. Biddle St.

Her son, Francis (Sonny) Fortune, the Preston Lounge bartender and World War 2 veteran, died unexpectedly last week. He was just 35.

Mrs. Jackson and her sister, Mrs. Mabel Denkins, have their hands full. Their mother, Mrs. Julia Fortune, remains gravely ill. Of course, she was unable to attend her grandson's funeral on Monday.

Cards, please to Blanche Rand Oliver and her husband, William Oliver in Greensboro, N.C. Their 22 - year-old daughter, Dianne, figured in a freak fatal accident at the University of Iowa on Friday.

Seems she was riding on the rear of a motor scooter which was struck by an auto on campus!

The youngster had completed studies on her master's degree, and was due back in Greensboro this week. Her father had just returned home with her things when he received word of the accident.

Another daughter, Cheryl, is a student at Hampton.

Glad - you're better hellos to Mrs. Shelton Coles (Marjorie). Her ailing foot is much better.

A bit about this and that

If Calvin Ashe's pet dog had not set upon him and a neighbor, that intruder would not have been able to break into his swank Mohawk Ave. home on Friday night and attack him.

Because the dog had been put away, there was no warning that the Western Union messenger was no messenger at all but a gunman. Mr. Ashe ended up in the hospital with a gunshot wound.

The neighbor, Jesse Hughes, is nursing dog bites of the hand.

People doing nice things: The Principals' Association of Baltimore elected Dunbar High Principal Robert Diggs as president, and Belmont School Principal Mrs. Pearl Brackett as vice president when they held their annual dinner meeting a Thursday ago.

That breaks the old pattern we mentioned a while back — (you know where we always end up being secretary), and for that the Principals' Association deserves orchids.

Further, the new president and vice president are both capable people and they will be an asset to their organization.

More orchids are due the Dunbar High School Press. They designed and printed the unique programs for the dinner meeting.

Special nod to George A. Schwarzmann, outgoing president of the group. He has worked hard to bring about this new image.

Pool Note: An Olympic - size swimming pool is now being built at the YMCA's Camp Mohawk which opens the season next month.

Card note: People are kind, kind, kind. As of this writing, the children in our house have counted over 250 get - well cards from you and you and you.

If look ten - year - old Rachael to discover something unusual. With all those cards no two are alike, and that is the gospel truth!

Which means the greeting card business has done some grand things . . . and aren't they pretty!

Deer story of the week: Here is a true story, hard to believe, but it did happen to Miss Daisy King, the teacher.

On Tuesday, she was driving along the Baltimore-D.C. Expressway when she spied a deer. She slowed her car and before she knew it another deer hit her Chevvy hard in the back and rear door.

Broken glass cut her arm . . . she has fifteen stitches to prove it happened.

A state trooper advised she was indeed lucky. 'Deer have been known to turn over cars,' he said.

More people being kind to other people: Douglass King, the retired Bates High School principal of Annapolis, will be honored on May 31 at that testimonial set for Holiday Inn in Glen Burnie.
