Employees bestow honors on employer

More than 300 persons gathered at the Emerald Gardens last week for a unique celebration.

The occasion marked the 20th anniversary of Joseph Rubin's successful operation of the Phil Lounge night club at Mount and Mosher Sts.

Unlike similar affairs this one was sponsored by two of the honoree's most cherished employees — Mrs. Viola Green and James R. Smith.

Affectionately known as Vi and Stitch, bookkeeper-secretary and manager, respectively, have been fixtures at the club almost from its inception.

Mr. Smith arrived in 1947 and Mrs. Green came in '49.

MR. RUBIN, who has developed an envious reputation as a "good neighbor and gentleman," was warmly praised by toastmaster Howard Rosenberg and received a standing ovation from the integrated audience.

Mr. Rubin, who said had he known what Vi and Stitch were planning, "I would have stopped it," was visibly moved and spoke barely above a whisper while acknowledging the tribute.

"All I can say, from the bottom of my heart, is thank you for coming."

Vi and Stitch, along with Joe', are members of the Phil's Lounge corporation.

As far as could be determined this is the first and only employer-employee incorporated night club in the city.

Among those in attendance were representatives of the alcoholic beverage industry, city government, the professions, and "just plain people from the neighborhood."

Mrs. Helen Smith, chief bar maid, said the tribute to Mr. Rubin was in recognition of his concern for "just plain people in the neighborhood."

Campaships for underprivileged children; making his rental properties "as comfortable as if I were living in them;" buying food, paying gas and electric bills for destitute families were among the numerous accolades bestowed on the honoree by his employees and residents in the area.

MUNICIPAL COURT Judge Sewell Lamdin cited the cleanliness of his business, adding "there is never any trouble there."

The supreme compliment came from an elderly resident who said he has known dent who said:

Death traced to smoking in bed

WASHINGTON

Careless smoking in bed was determined as the cause of a fire that killed Mrs. Pauline Coates, 50, of the 800 block of M St. NW. Mrs. Coates died Monday of second and third - degree burns.

Fire investigators said the victim was smoking in bed the morning of May 6, when the mattress and her bed caught fire. The flames spread over the entire room.

Mrs. Coates was taken to D. C. General Hospital, where she died seventeen days later.

against Clark in the May 3 primary. The Executive Committee had ordered the two into a runoff May 31, but the Federal Court action gives Baker a clear majority of 8,994 to 7,537.

The court challenge was filed by the Justice Department and was unique in U.S. legal history. Never before had the agency gone into court in a local primary election seeking to have one candidate declared the winner over another.

Clark condemned the court's decision, calling it another example of "federal encroachment and control." He said Baker got the colored bloc vote.

"MANY WENT TO the polls with only two names — Flowers and Baker — that they had been taught by rote," Clark said. Referring to Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers,

Thomas said the federal court had the right to enter the case under the 1965 Voting Rights Act which protects a person's guarantee to have his vote tabulated.

"The executive committee will be in a position to accord simultaneous respect for the election laws of Alabama and the rights of the voters whose ballots now await tabulation in the six challenged boxes," Thomas said.

He cited the Alabama code of laws and a decision by the state supreme court to support his view. The law and the state court said no ballot could be rejected for technical reasons alone.

THOMAS SAID LAST week's two-day hearing in Selma provided no evidence to indicate votes were bought or sold, ballot boxes were stuffed or there was any misconduct on the part of polling officials other than honest mistakes.

"The only irregularities which were proved to the court were failures to comply with technical procedures of Alabama law governing elections.

"The irregularities were not of such a nature as to justify the wholesale rejection of any of the six boxes or any of the legal ballots contained therein."

The state Supreme Court had ruled earlier that to invalidate an election because of "ignorant but honest mistakes and irregularities would be to visit their mistakes upon those (voters) who were not responsible for them."

'Best student' wins marketing cash award

Ronald L. Freeland, a sophomore at Morgan State College, was awarded $250 this week as a "Distinguished Marketing Student" by the National Brewing Co. and the Baltimore chapter of the American Marketing Association.

The National Brewing Co. and the local AMA affiliate jointly sponsored the student prize as part of the annual awards dinner held by the Baltimore chapter at the Sheraton - Belvedere Hotel Tuesday.

At the same time, Jerold C. Hoffberger, president and chairman of the board of The National Brewing Co., was designated the "Distinguished Marketing Man" of 1966.

His student counterpart, Mr. Freeland, said he intends to apply the $250 award to his tuition next year at Morgan where he is majoring in business administration. A June, 1964 graduate of City College, Mr. Freeland is pointing to a career as an accountant and also is planning to study law.

Dr. Winfred O. Bryson, chairman, Department of Economics and Business Administration at Morgan, said he selected Mr. Freeland for the award because of his excellent scholastic record. "Mr. Freeland is the best student in the department," Dr. Bryson said.

MR. FREELAND who is 19 years old, was tapped in his freshma year at Morgan for the Promethean Kappa Tau Honor Society. He also was named freshman Cadet of the Year by the college's Military Science Department, and is a member of the Marketing Club at Morgan.

He lives at 1115 Longwood St. with his family.

Hayes to administer $4,800 Miller estate

The estate of William D. Miller, who died at 1019 N. Arlington Ave. on April 27, 1960, will be administered by U. Theodore Hayes, attorney.

Mr. Miller left fee-simple property estimated to be worth $4,800.

He was survived by his wife, Mrs. Janet W. Miller, who lives at the Arlington Ave. address.

LETTERS HAVE been granted to Mrs. Pauline Harrison, to administer the estate of John C. Harrison, who died in Bowling Green, Va. on May 1.

Mr. Harrison left no known estate, and the papers were filed for the purpose of litigation only.

He is also survived by his father, Paul J. Harrison.

JAMES W. MURRELL will administer the estate of his wife, Mrs. Naomi Murrell, who died in Fairfax County, Virginia, on March 12, 1965.

The estate is estimated to be $3,000.

Mrs. Murrell is also survived by two daughters, Mrs. Virginia Ritter and Mrs. Elizabeth Green.

W. EMERSON BROWN, attorney, will administer the estate of Mrs. Julia Collins, who died on April 9, 1966.

Survivors are Mrs. Mozella Blackwell, a daughter, Ronwell, Mass., and Mrs. Julia Johnson, a granddaughter, of this city.

THE $3,000 estate of Mrs. Annie Strickland will be administered by George L. Russell Jr., attorney.

Mrs. Strickland is survived by three sisters, Mesdames Ophelia Williams, Sally Miller and Lovie Coleman; and a brother, Joseph Brunson.

Movie-television star Ossie Davis will address the Saturday banquet-dance in the hotel ballroom.

MR. RANDOLPH, who founded NALC is also vice president of AFL-CIO and director-founder of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

He told the AFRO he will leave the Brotherhood officially two years hence when the labor organization holds national convention.

The eloquent orator and stately leader was noncommittal on his plans regarding his position with the AFL-CIO.

"I intend to write when I retire," he announced at a press conference Thursday.

"I will write a book on the labor movement in general stressing the roles played by NALC and the Brotherhood."

Mr. Randolph also said he plans to write his life story.

He declined, as did other high ranking officers of NALC to speculate on who will replace him.

Troy Brailey, president, of the Baltimore Chapter, and one of several national vice presidents, is a strong favorite to inherit the presidency, despite his (Mr. Brailey's) denial that he is interested.

Other possible successors include George Gey, Philadelphia; L. Joseph Overton, N.YC; Cleveland Robinson, NYC; Horace Sheffield, Detroit; Boyd Wilson, Pittsburgh; and Frank Evans, Cleveland.

CHIEF AIM of the convention, according to Mr. Randolph will be to mobilize a "massive organization of unorganized poor workers, black and white in the north and south."

Mr. Randolph declared that the civil rights movement and organized labor are in the throes of a crises.

"The recent Supreme Court decision upholding a damage verdict against the national NAACP threatens to destroy both organized labor and the civil rights movements," he said.

Earlier this week the high court declined to review a case granting a Dixie store operator $89,000 who claimed economic damage caused by NAACP picketing.

"I'm alarmed," he declared, "because this is just the beginning. Anti-civil rights groups will use this as a weapon to destroy labor and the civil rights crusade.

IN ANNOUNCING the drive to organize the unorganized, Mr. Randolph also urged a stronger alliance between labor and civil rights organizations.

"Neither can do the job alone," he declared adding that "poor whites are being made to believe that their lot is better than that of poor blacks, hat's an American tragedy."

high quality, comprehensive medical care, rather than the usual procedure of them getting attention for this at one place and care for something else someplace else."

The centers, he said, will not be able to service all of the needy children in their respective areas, due to lack of sufficient funds.

A system of designating certain census tracts for coverage will be used, he stated.

The board also approved an increase in the Community Action Agency's early school admissions budget of $40,261, to extend the program through June.

in the daily routine of that office.

E. Paul Mason Jr., Elections Supervisors chief clerk, has termed the overall turnout at the more convenient supplemental stations "far smaller than we had expected."

Largest was at Mondawmin on May 14, when 446 were registered — 355 of them colored.

Smallest was the Claremount Homes, 4312 Clareway, on April 29, when just 10 new voters, all white, were put on the books.

Only at three other of the 24 supplemental stations, in addition to the aforementioned Mondawmin and the 142 at Memorial Stadium Wednesday, were over 100 new voters registered on any given date.

ON MAY 7, School 211, Belair and Frankford, had a registration of 138, all white.

On May 17, School 47, Fleet and Linwood, placed 122 new voters on the books, all white.

And on May 21, School 120, Pennsylvania Ave. and Robert St., had a voter registration of 145 citizens, 143 of them colored.

Other of the supplemental registrations ranged from a low of 10 to a high of 76.

By contrast, the last supplemental registration during the winter period two years ago brought 10,724 new voters.

BEGINNING JULY 19 at School 400, Edmondson and Ethol, there will be operated up to and including Aug. 13 a tentative listing of 11 more supplemental registration stations on eight different dates.

The final supplemental Aug. 13 will be at War Memorial from 9 a.m. to 12 midnight.

Final registration date before the Sept. 13 primary will be Aug. 15, where the current schedule calls for registration only at the Supervisors of Elections Office.

lous times. No one knows what tomorrow will bring," the Rev. Mr. Baynard said.

"A good young man, an intelligent young man, a talented young man, a Christian young man, was the way the Shiloh pastor described McDowell, a member of his church.

He related that, only last Thursday night, the youth was in the church with members of the Sanctuary Choir, which was now singing over his body.

"The church, the community, the entire city mourns the loss of Gregory McDowell," the Rev. Baynard intoned gravely.

Victim of a vicious beating and stabbing, McDowell's body was discovered early Saturday morning in a yard a few houses from the scene of the Friday night party in the 4000 block Spruce Drive.

The discovery was made after an all-night search for the youth by his father, Charles McDowell, 500 block Normandy Ave., and friends.

THE YOUTH is said to have left the well-chaperoned party with 17-year-old Thomas Weaver, also an Edmondson High School senior, of the 2700 block Woodview Rd., Cherry Hill.

Weaver was later found slumped in the street five doors away, unconscious and severely beaten about the head.

He remains in critical condition at Sinai Hospital with a fractured skull.

Both youths had plans for their graduation next month and college in September.

Brief grave-side rites were held in Baltimore National Cemetery after a 106-car procession.

A spokesman for the cemetery called it the biggest funeral gathering ever at National Cemetery.

ACTIVE AND honorary pallbearers were members of the Sigma Phi Sigma Fraternity, on which both McDowell and Weaver were members.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the Morton and Dyett Funeral Home.

At Edmondson High School, principal Carroll Rankin ordered the flag to be flown at half-mast for the funeral.

Mr. Rankin urged all students to pay respects to their slain schoolmate (those who wished to) and leaving the killer or killers to the police.

afternoon he was brought to police headquarters.

Wednesday, the Homicide Squad had put on the teletype, the names of four youths, ranging in age from 17 to 20, wanted for questioning in the incident.

Despite the fact that police had not been able to turn up three of the four youths, neighbors and other witnesses, Lt. Roy said.

Officer Norman Rondeau of the Northern District has been detailed with the squad for the duration of the investigation.

Justice Warren to speak at Heidelberg

U.S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren will be the commencement speaker at the University of Maryland's European division's annual graduation exercises to be held in Heidelberg on May 29.

Other participants include: Dr. Wilson Elkins, president of the University; George McGhee, U.S. Ambassador to Germany; Gov. J. Millard Tawes; Dr. Ray Ehrensberger; Dr. Mason G. Daly, and Dr. William B. Long.

The commissioner noted that "any member of the department who feels he cannot abide by the above should submit his resignation" and that "any violation of the above will result in disciplinary action, to include discharge."

Gen. Gelston stated he had "complete confidence that all members will cooperate and enhance the position of this department in the eyes of the public by courteous, understanding action at all times."
