In from New York, looking like a dream walking is Mrs. Gwendolyn Alston Shelton. She's visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert (Edna) Alston.

Remember how Gwen pleased her parents and neighbors with her graceful dancing?

Remember she was the bronze beauty who starred in a dance recital with the Baltimore Symphony at Mondawmin? (And that was a first!)

Today, she is secretary to the editor of Redbook.

People being kind to other people: Over 180 co-workers, relatives and associates attended the Wednesday luncheon honoring Dr. H. Maceo Williams.

The affair was held at Wilson's Restaurant. Occasion: The July 14 retirement of Dr. Williams as director of the Druid Health Center.

Dr. Williams was hailed for his contributions for improvement of the health of the city for the past 28 years . . . 'a dedicated public servant.'

* * *

Gift to the honoree was a portable television set. After lunch, 200 persons toured the Health Center offices at North and Pennsylvania Aves.

Mrs. Anita K. Henson was general chairman of the testimonial, which featured tributes from health and welfare officials and representatives of medical and dental societies. Dr. E. W. Shervington was toastmaster.

Dr. Williams' wife, Eugenia; his son, Maceo Jr., daughter, Mrs. Eugenia Collier; sister, Mrs. Fannie Garrett, attended.

* * *

Out-of-towners here included Robert M. Whitelock, Mrs. Jessie Jackson, Mrs. Ellen Contee, William Lee and Dr. R. E. Hackley Jr., all of D.C., and Mrs. Hazel Howard, N.Y.

Lifetime status quo?

U. S. Commissioner of Education Harold Howe uttered some frank words last week on the failure of gradualism in school integration and on why schools must work for equality.

Here are highlights:

"Gradualism in school integration has failed. As a result, school officials must form a third front for racial equality or admit that American educators are no longer prepared to be the prime movers in American education.

"Schools today are almost as segregated as they were in 1954 when the Supreme Court ruled segregated education was unconstitutional.

"We seem to have been lulled into a blind faith in gradualism, a mindless confidence that some morning, some year, a suddenly transformed electorate will spontaneously and joyously decide that this is the day to integrate America. Well, it's not going to happen.

* * *

"To achieve integration, school administrators may have to risk embarrassing some governors and mayors.

"But there is no time to wait for real estate salesmen to get the message from on high or for American corporations to start hiring colored men as readily as they do light-skinned, well - dressed colored women.

"Pressure for racial equality will have to come from the schools.

"Desegregation is the single point on which we who call ourselves educational leaders prove that we really are so, or demonstrate that we are merely trying to keep things quiet until we receive our gold watches for a lifetime devoted to the status quo."

Mrs. Carrie Scott marries Mr. Jackson

With Lula Jones Garrett

Current wedding of greatest interest was that of Carrie D. Scott and Algernon Jackson, who decided on the spot to become Mr. and Mrs. within the week.

In a quiet, but very impressive ceremony, the couple was married by the Rev. Baxter L. Matthews, with the final prayer offered by the Rev. Reginald Daniels . . . pastors of the couple's respective churches.

The ceremony was witnessed by immediate members of the families and a few close friends. The bride was oh-so-cool in lovely blue lace . . . was attended by two dear friends, Gutnevieve Spencer and Alfreda Pinkney, who wore lace, too, beautiful shades of green and pink, respectively. William Spencer was Mr. Jackson's best man.

Following the ceremony Franklin DeShields served an elegant luncheon to Peggy and William Washington and son Billy Riddick; Wilbert and Lillian James and son, Michael; Ethel and Henry Hall, Alma Williams, Margaret Waddell, Ruth Davis, Norma Collins, Ruth Baker Murray, James and Margaret Hite, Roy and Myrtice Bennett, Henry Hall Sr., Gladys C. Milburn, Robert Walker, and Sadie and George Givens.

The popular couple entertained very informally, latter. Those invited had been bid to come have a lemonade and munch a cookie at her pretty pink Liberty Heights place that afternoon were flabbergasted to learn that a wedding had taken place at noon.

The Jacksons have been "at home" ever since to their host of friends . . . and gorgeous gifts of silver, milk glass (which Carrie collects) glassware, linens and fine china have arrived at the house daily.

Incidentally, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are keeping safely wrapped, a pretty black half hat which they would like to have the owner call for. Aside: That was no lemonade . . .

THE LOVELY Duvall Ave. home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Thorpe was the setting for an elaborate dinner party which marked the ninth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Hicks, Saturday.

Mrs. Mary H. Thorpe, sister-in-law of Mrs Hicks, and home economics teacher at Harlem Park Junior High School created the elegant cuisine. A high note of the festivities was the presentation of the keys to a '66 Mustang to Mrs. (Yvonne) Hicks by her husband.

Guests at the party were Mrs. Ella McCulloh, Harry Gail, Jr., William Nelson, Mrs. Celestine Robertson, Mrs. Mary McKnight, Leon Williams of Columbus, Ohio, Messrs. and Mesdames James Griffin, J. Brown Hardy, Patrick O'Neill, Melvin Neal and Dorsey Thomas, attorney, and Mrs. Thomas of Washington, godparents of the Hickses' daughter, Kim.

THE EASTERN SEABOARD Tots and Teens had much activity during the past week.

It all began when the Washington D.C. chapter invited the national president Geraldine Jacoway of Los Angeles, Calif. to be their honored guest at their first Tots and Teens Ball.

This black tie affair, honoring the Tots and Teens 1966 Graduates was held in the International Ball Room of the Washington Hilton Hotel. Music was furnished by Bobby Felder Band.

During the intermission the National President was honored with her favored waltz, and was presented with a

MR. AND MRS. EARL WILLIAMS

Mrs. Jones bride of Earl Williams

Mrs. Juanita DeLamba Jones and Earl DeWitt Williams were married in an elaborate ceremony in Providence Baptist Church, recently.

The Rev. Marcus Wood officiated at the double-ring ritual and the nuptial music was by Mrs. Gladys Davis, organist and Miss Esther Moore, soloist.

* * *

ESCORTED TO THE altar by Judge Robert B. Watts, the bride wore a gown of ivory peau de soie, trimmed in alencon lace, a fingertip length veil and carried a cascade of orchids, gladioli and lilies of the valley.

Attendants were in gowns of pastel colors. They included Mrs. Nancy Davis, matron of honor, whose gown was orchid; Mrs. Goldie Nims, yellow; Mrs. Andrea Diggs, pink; Miss Cherice Jones, green; and Mrs. Mary Davis, blue. They carried bouquets of pastel daisies to match their gowns.

* * *

PAUL WILLIAMS was his brother's best man. Ushers were Henry Freeman, Sgt. Donald Williams, Robert Watts Jr.; and Donald Brown.

Flower girl was "Pattie Kemp. She wore an ensemble in white. Bryant Thomas, also in white, was ring bearer.

A reception followed on the lower level of the church. Assisting hostesses were Mesdames Edna Stanford, Theda Byron, Louise Mapp, Evelyn Williams, Eleanor Anderson, Thelma Daily and Queenie Gadberry; and Miss Wilma Kelly.

Miss Cherie Jones caught the bride's bouquet.

MR. WILLIAMS is an instructor at the Maryland Training School. He is a graduate of Morgan State College.

The bride is a graduate of St. Augustine and A.T. Colleges, and currently an associate professor at Alabama State College.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Williams left for Niagara Falls.

For a picnic twist serve franks and beans sandwiches

Whether you have it in the park or in your own backyard, a picnic is a fun time. Appetites perk up, everything smells so good and even if it turns out to be a rainy day you can have your outdoor party on the porch.

Whatever you want to grill, baked beans will stay hot a long while if you wrap in foil. Pack a happy assortment of "go - with's," some fresh fruit and cup cakes and just watch the goodies disappear!

* * *

GREAT LAKES Baked Beans require two pounds dry Michigan navy beans, one pound salt pork, diced, one large onion, chopped, two-thirds cup molasses, one - fourth cup brown sugar, one teaspoon dry mustard, one teaspoon ginger, one - fourth teaspoon pepper and salt to taste.

Combine beans and water and soak overnight. Add more water if necessary, then cover kettle and cook till beans are tender, about 2 hours. Mix in all other ingredients into bean pot or casserole and bake covered at 300 degrees about 6 hours, adding more liquid when necessary to keep beans moist. During the last hour of baking, remove cover to brown.

12 servings.

* * *

FOR Franks 'n' Beans use four frankfurter buns, one - fourth cup soft margarine, one can (1 lb.) pork and beans, four frankfurters and prepared mustard.

Split buns lengthwise, spread with margarine, cover with beans and heat on foil over grill. Meanwhile brown franks over fire till crispy. Slit franks, spread with mustard and serve over bean - buns.

Vanilla Pie in Cereal Crust

4 servings.

Vanilla cream filling spiked with orange nestles between a sweet cereal crust and garnish of pineapple slices and strawberries, creates a superb contrast of flavors and textures in this new tasty pie.

It is rich! And it is elegant! But pencil-slim pieces will suffice for calorie watchers — and most others. The uniqueness of the crust made with high protein cereal is not its only virtue.

* * *

IT'S THE taste, too, like a crispy confection. The use of breakfast cereal in this manner illustrates how in menus where choice rests on food enjoyment rather than necessity, cereals appear in new roles at any time of the day.

This is a pie to make the day you serve it —to family or guests. It is when at its fluffiest and the cereal nicely crisp.

For the crust use three cups high protein cereal, one-third cup sugar, one-fourth cup light corn syrup, one-fourth teaspoon salt, and two tablespoons butter or margarine.

FILLING REQUIRES two packages (three and one-fourth ounces each) vanilla pie filling mix (not instant), three cups milk, one teaspoon vanilla, one half teaspoon orange extract, one half pint (one cup) whipping cream, whipped.

TOPPING IS made with three slices canned pineapple, drained and cut in half; one cup fresh strawberries, halved and sweetened, or one package (10 ounce) frozen strawberries defrosted.

Make crust. Place cereal in buttered bowl; set aside.

Combine sugar, syrup, salt and butter or margarine in small saucepan. Bring to boil and cook to soft ball stage (234 to 240 degree F). Drizzle syrup over cereal and mix carefully but well.

Press mixture evenly over bottom and sides of a greased 9-inch pie pan. Chill.

Make filling. Combine filling mix and milk; cook as directed on package. Chill. Stir in vanilla and orange extract. Fold in whipped cream. Pour into crust. Refrigerate until firm.

Top with half pineapple slices and strawberries. Add additional strawberries, if desired.

Yield: One 9-inch pie.
