Mrs. Gladys Webb wed in Kenilworth ceremony

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. — Miss Gladys Webb, daughter of Mrs. Elnora Webb of Kenilworth, and Mr. Erwin McKinnie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colma McKinnie also of Kenilworth, were married Saturday, June 18 at the Saint Paul A.M.E. Church. The Rev. George Franklin officiating the candle light ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Willie B. Webb. The bride was radiant in her gown of Peau De Sole embroidered in lace, and seedpearls, with a Chapel train. Her headpiece was of lace and seedpearl with a fingertip veil. The bride carried a white covered Bible with orchids and satin streamers.

MISS FAYE JONES was maid of honor, she wore a gown of pink - Peau De Sole with a lace top, her veil was attached to a hat of seedpearl and lace. The bridesmaids were gowned like the maid of honor, their colors were blue, and they carried blue carnations with pink streamers.

Mrs. Rose Fudge, Mrs. Betty Hackley, and Mrs. Wanda Joyce were the brides maids. Antoinette James cousin of the bride was flower girl. She was gowned also like the maid of honor in pink, in her basket she carried little pink carnations. William Waefield cousin of the bridegroom was ring bearer.

Mr. John Faine, Mr. Sam Turner and Mr. Harold Braid wel were usher and Mr. Leslie Snodrel was best man. Leevander Goforth and Gerald Webb a cousin and brother to the bride were junior ushers.

These tips help keep boating safe

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tragedy is bound to strike occasionally in a family sport in which more than 40 million American men, women and children take part.

But a good segment of the people concerned with pleasure boating go all out to hold accidents, fatalities and injuries to a minimum.

And by all standards they have been successful, with the number of mishaps declining annually in proportion to the increasing number who participate in the sport each year.

* * *

WHILE SAFETY is an around - the - calendar item with all organizations concerned with the sport, the most emphasis on it each year comes with National Safe Boating Week, by proclamation of President Johnson.

National boating organizations band together to distribute posters, stickers, banners, etc., all underscoring the importance of safety afloat. Altogether, 17 national organizations headed by the U.S. Coast Guard participate in Safe Boating Week.

AMONG THESE dedicated men and a veteran boater is Dr. John Henderson, national director of Johnson and Johnson, who offers a number of ideas to assure a happy and troublefree boating season.

First, says Henderson, every pleasure craft — no matter how small — should carry three basic types of safety equipment: life preservers, fire extinguisher, first aid kit.

The first two, of course are mandatory, but a first aid kit, like the other two, could mean the difference between life and death in an emergency.

HERE ARE a few other recommendations by Henderson:

Remember that a capsized boat will still float. Don't try to swim for shore. Use whatever life preservers are available.

Never dive off a boat unless you are sure of the depth of the water and the nature of the bottom.

Always wear soft - non - skid shoes aboard a boat. A deck can get slippery and give you some nasty bumps and you might slide overboard.

* * *

WHEN SWIMMING off a boat anchored in tidal waters, always trail a line 50 feet or more, letting it stretch out in the water in the direction the tide is running.

Should the tide suddenly sweep the swimmer away, he has a good chance of grabbing the line. Tie a life ring or bouyant cushion to the end of the line for added protection.

Always leave one person aboard to operate the boat in an emergency.

Eggplant featured in economy meal

For the economy-minded menu planner, the vegetable stands will hold outstanding appeal at this time of year, when the season brings increasingly heavy supplies of reasonably priced, high quality farms.

One of the good vegetables to choose now is eggplant. These richly colored beauties go well in summer menu plans, since their bland flavor adapts well to a variety of main and side dish vegetable preparations.

WHEN SELECTING your eggplant, suggests the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service, make sure it's firm, heavy in relation to size, with a uniform dark rich purple color and free from scars or cuts. Avoid an eggplant that's wilted, shriveled, soft, or flabby in appearance, because it will usually be bitter or otherwise poor in flavor. Look for worm injury and decay. Decay appears as dark brown spots on the surface and progresses rapidly.

* * *

HERE'S A menu for a day's good eating, making use of foods that are plentiful and reasonably priced:

BREAKFAST
Cantaloupe
Fried Eggs
Toasted Muffins with Margarine and Jam
Milk
Coffee or Tea

LUNCH
Fried Chicken
Mashed Potatoes
Fresh Garden Vegetable Salad
Cookies
Milk

DINNER
Tuna Fish Corquettes
Scalloped Eggplant
Corn on the Cob
Fresh Peach
Coffee or Tea

* * *

THIS RECIPE for scalloped eggplant is for the main dish vegetable of the dinner meal:

Use 1 medium-sized eggplant, 2 to 3 tblsps. butter or margarine, 2 tblsps. chopped green pepper, 2 cups cooked or canned tomatoes, 1 tsp. salt, pepper and ¾ cup bread cubes.
