What the candidates say at this point

The AFRO picked up some interesting comments this week in the wake of the biggest crush of candidates ever to file for public office in Baltimore and Maryland.

Some of them are included here:

Dr. Ross Z. Pierpont, Democratic candidate for governor —

This state is ready for a colored candidate on the top of the gubernatorial ticket. I found that Atty. Gen. Thomas B. Finan was going to do it or I would have done this a good deal earlier.

They claim they couldn't find a candidate but I said I found one. Archie Williams, in four days. We had three good fellows.

The response has been absolutely great. We are going to fool a lot of people. We are going to win.

Dr. Emerson Julian, candidate for State Senate, 4th District —

I feel I have been in this community long enough. I know I have been dealing with the people at the grass roots and I feel the experience I have accumulated can be put to beneficial use. Right now I am running as an independent.

Senator Verda Welcome, Regular Dem. candidate for reelection, 4th Dist —

We are fielding a complete ticket for the Fourth District organization. We are expecting a hard fight but we are determined that we will win.

Warren Shaw, candidate for State Senate, 4th District —

I am running primarily because I have not been represented in the District. Legislation has been passed during the past four years that has been detrimental to the entire colored community without consultation with the people.

My concern is to get the elected officials back into the hands of the common people so that they can represent the district without boss politics.

Archie Jones, Republican candidate for State Senate, 4th District —

I am not happy with the representation that we have in Annapolis and I have heard some other people are not happy with it either.

I still believe in a two-party system. It looks like the Democrats are getting top heavy and maybe we can put a Republican down there and make a little noise.

I am as qualified as anyone. I have lived here in the District for 20 or 25 years and am acquainted with the problems here.

I am assured of the Republican nomination. There are only two Republicans who have filed.

Calvin Douglass, candidate for House of Delegates, 4th District —

I am running because I think I am qualified and I know my way around politically enough to be able to serve the people in the Fourth District better than any of the other people who have filed for the House of Delegates.

At the present time I would say that I am an independent until such time someone might ask me to be a part of their ticket. So far I have not been approached.

Robert C. Marshal, candidate for State Senate and House of Delegates, 4th District —

I have been living in Baltimore for 34 years, I am an ex - Marine Corps veteran. I feel I can do some work for the younger people in the state and the whole community.

I filed for both Senate and House of Delegates. I will have to withdraw from one. The Trenton Democratic Organization is backing me.

CLARENCE M. MITCHEL III

Dem. Candidate for the State Senate 4th Dist.

I feel that my four years of legislative experience has prepared me to serve in the State Senate. In 1965 I sponsored our state's first fair employment law which is now on the books.

In 1963 and 1964, I helped push through the present public accommodations law in the state. In 1965, the Anti - Cross Burning Bill which I sponsored was enacted and signed by the Governor in May of this year.

I cosponsored legislation for increased aid to education which was passed, and I helped to successfully fight the efforts to cut the welfare funds.

I have sponsored in each session of the legislature Open Occupancy In-Housing Legislation, and increased the number of my cosponsors from 6 the first year to 24 in the 1966 session. I pledge to continue the battle.

I was the first legislator to call for the removal of Police Commissioner Schmidt, before there was an IACP investigation and report, because of his failure to recognize the police brutality grievances of colored citizens.

I pledge to continue serving the people for Freedom.

Earl Koger — Candidate for Senate — 4th District

I will make a good candidate because I am a business man. I have got ideas about what goes on in the state.

Last time I ran, I led our ticket and missed becoming a councilman by about 27 votes.

We need a two - party system - but, so I am running in the 4th District as a Republican.

Ernest D. Young —Candidate for State Senate — 4th District

The experience I had in the House will be helpful.

Because of all the difficulties I have had, I owe it to myself to make this last run.

If I lose I don't intend to try again.

I have a record that I can rest on. I think I have done some rather noteworthy things.

If I do get in I would like to do the best I can for the people.

Sterling A. Paige Candidate for House of Delegates — 4th Dist. Dem.

All of our lives are to a large extent influenced and controlled by the impact of politics.

Of recent years I have personally had a growing feeling of the necessity for becoming more personally involved in the make - up of things that influence my life.

Politics is certainly one of the more outstanding areas of every-day power.

Therefore my hat has been carefully placed — not thrown — into the ring.

ARCHIE WILLIAMS

Democratic candidate for State Comptroller, an ticket headed by Dr. Ross Pierpont who is running for governor.

"I am happy to be associated with Dr. Pierpont and expect to win."

Practicing attorney for 15 years. Member and vice-chairman, Board of Trustees, Enon Baptist Church; member, Civic and National Bar Associations; Business and Administrative Specialist in Korea; Staff Sergeant in Army World War II.

Citizen of Baltimore for 24 years; married with two children; BS degree in Commerce, North Carolina College; Law Degree, University of Maryland.

MRS. RUTH WILSON

Democratic candidate for State Central Committee, 6th District.

Housewife; native of Baltimore educated in the public schools; married, mother of four children.

Active in civic and political work for the past 20 years; Ward Executive for Cherry Hill area of the 9th, 10th and 11th Precincts; founder and president of the Civic Citizens Organization; vice - president of Cherry Hill Coordinating Council, past board member of Community fraternity of Christian Doctrine;

Member of Woman Power; member of St. Varonica Catholic Church; studied Political Science at the Morgan State College Political Institute.

Received Citizens Award from AFRO - AMERICAN Newspapers in 1962 for outstanding work in the community; founder and member of INCITE Housewife.

WILLIAM H. MURPHY JR.

Democratic candidate for House of Delegates, 6th District.

"I want to give representation to colored as well as white people in the 6th District. We have neber had had my picture taken with the Fourth District Democratic Organization, Inc. ticket, because I pledged and still propose to support the entire 4th District Organization's local ticket for the State Senate and House of Delegates.

I was not notified of the Fourth District Democratic Organization Board of Directors meeting on July 6th. All of this could have been avoided if I had been present at the meting.

street might have another interpretation."

ON THE ISSUE of nonviolence, the ministers generally agreed that they supported it as a tactic in demonstrations but went along with CORE that self-defense in individual situations was a natural right of everyone.

The Rev. Herbert Edwards, executive secretary of the Maryland Commission on Interracial Problems, however said one worry was that CORE might start allowing persons not committed to the tactic of non-violence on its picket lines.

THE MINISTERS said their statement should not be interpreted as a "warning" to CORE, but there seemed to be a consensus that CORE was moving in that direction or not.

Nothing in the Alliance approved statement and by the Rev. Williams at the start of the conference specifically stated CORE would still be backed, but this came out during a question period.

THE REV. WILLIAMS said following the conference that many of his parishioners had asked him about CORE and "Black Power" and that many seemed favorably impressed by the concept.

"For many this idea has filled a vacuum created by the death of Malcolm X," he continued.

"CORE has done a good out in the open," he said. "The grass roots people are sick of sham Negroes of them talking about them."

this before."

Member of American Federation of Musicians (Local 543 and chairman of INCITE (Interested Citizens for Equality); Married with one child.

CHARLES P. FLEET

Democratic candidate for House of Delegates, 6th District. "To give each citizen of the 6th District a fair share in representation.

"As a steelworker, member Local No. 2610, I helped to organize the State, County and City Municipal Workers Union, AFL - CIO and served as vice - president."

Native of Baltimore city, educated in the public schools; father of six children; holds a Police Commendation for Citizen Bravery; member of INCITE (Interested Citizens for Equality).

and Robert Goss.

4. THE FOURTH district slate, not yet publicly announced, will be that of the Trenton Democratic Club, former district controling forces of James H. (Jack) Polack.

Ernest D. Young, who won election to the House of Delegates four years under the Pollack banner, has filed for the State Senate.

Robert C. Marshall, who says he is backed by the Trenton Club, has filed for both the Senate and the House.

On the House side, Joseph Abramson, who won under the Trenton Club banner a House seat four years ago, has filed for reelection.

The district's Senate race also has three candidates, attachments unannounced: A. Eugene Chase; Emerson R. Julian; Neil J. Lewis and Arlington S. Phillips.

Messrs. Julian and Chase have also filed for the House.

ON THE Republican side of the picture, there will be no primary race for State Senate seats in any of the districts.

Daniel W. Hamm, will be aiming two nominated in the 2nd District; Earl Koger and Archie M. Jones will be nominated in the 4th, and Mary Mosley Edwards will be nominated in the 6th District.

The GOP House picture in the districts will only have a primary run - off in the 3rd, as matters, now stand, where there are no colored candidates.

last filing date — at approximately 6 p.m. Delegate Mitchell, filed an "Insurgent Ticket" in opposition to the 4th District slate.

4. At approximately 9:10 p.m. ten minutes after the legal filing deadline for candidates, Delegate Clarence Mitchell posed for pictures with the endorsed candidates of the 4th District coordination without informing them that he had previously filed a ticket of his own.

5. In addition to filing his opposition ticket, it is also understood that Delegate Clarence Mitchell, III is one of Jack Pollack's candidates for a senate seat along with Delegate Ernest D. Young.

6. In view of these facts the 4th District Democratic organization had no choice but to withdraw its endorsement and support of Delegate Mitchell, III.

STACY LEE and FRIEND — PAMELA BROOKS — VIVIAN CARTWELL — VAIL LANE — CINDY COURS — KATHLEEN WHITE

Get wet, get cool, have fun

By STERLING PAIGE

Hot summer days are sending tots and teens by the droves to seek relief in the cooling waters of Baltimore's public park swimming pools.

The AFRO visited two pools this week to watch the happenings and talk to some of the bathers.

At the Riverside Park pool in South Baltimore, scene of racial disturbances several years ago when integration began, the young of both races had one thought in common - get wet, get cool, and have fun.

Twelve-year-old Vail Lane, of Hill St., is a 7th grader at School 126.

"I just started coming to the pool today.

"I like it very much and just want to keep on coming back. It's c-o-o-l here."

Cindy Cours, age 10, lives in Knox Court. A 5th grader at School 33, Cindy said:

"I come here every day. I swim just a little bit, but I am learning. I usually come out with my sister and just keep on coming back."

DORIS LANE, Vail's sister, is eleven and also in the 7th grade. Doris can't swim either, but she tries.

"I really want to learn," Doris said.

KATHLEEN WHITE, 11, also lives on Hill St. She, too, makes the long hike from her home to the Riverside pool.

"I just started coming here Sunday. Then I came again Tuesday and today (Wednesday). I can't swim but I can go under water."

MOST OF the kids interviewed bring an average of 30 cents with them each time.

They usually buy candy and cookies and the like, they say.

It seems that the standard fun fare of hot dogs and sodas is a bit too expensive for them.

"If I spend a quarter for a hot dog," said one, "What would I have left for anything else?

"Then, again, if I spend 15 cents for a little tweeny soda, I couldn't buy enough to eat to fill me."

So it seems they just buy something on which they can munch and munch, then run to the water fountain for a fill-up.

UP AT Druid Park pool, in the beaming sun's 90-degree temperature, sat pretty Stacy Lee, a 15-year-old ninth grader at Lemmel Junior High. As Stacy posed for the AFRO, a friend slipped into the camera view with her.

The photographer didn't know she was there so — sorry, we can't give you her name.

"This is my first pool trip this year," Stacy said. "I will be back regularly now."

She sometimes walks, sometimes rides from her home on Fairview Ave., to the pool, and usually brings a dollar with her to cover all expenses for the outing.

THEN THERE were Pamela Brooks, 14, and Vivian Cartwell, 22; two sisters of the 1100 block N. Stricker St.

Pam attends Booker T. in 8th grade.

"I come to the pool often," she told the AFRO, "but this is my first time this year.

"We usually walk out here and bring just enough money to get in and a little to spend."

Vivian, who holds a regular job, is on vacation for two weeks and enjoys the pool regularly.

"When I am working," this charmer said, "I come to the pool on weekends."

ALL THE youngsters the AFRO met were enthusiastic about being interviewed by a reporter.

As for having pictures taken — "This is exciting," said one.

"This is the first time for me to ever be in the paper. Oh, Boy."
