BJC gets grant for nursing study

Dr. Harry Bard, president of Baltimore Junior College, and Dr. William S. Stone, of the board of trustees have announced that the college has been awarded a grant to study methods of nursing education.

The total grant was $32,173 for a two-year period, starting August 1 and ending July 31, 1968.

Project director for the study will be Mrs. Helen O'Shea, assistant professor of nursing education at the college.

The nursing program at BJC, which began in September 1965 was one of the first two-year programs in Maryland.

Lemon Cream Sherbet

LEMON CREAM SHERBET will cool and refresh, for the tartness of lemon juice brings out the fresh-from-the-garden flavor of fruits. Made quickly with bottled lemon juice it zooms you out of the kitchen in a hurry.

The tartness of lemon juice seems to bring out the fresh from-the-garden flavor of fruits.

Lemon Cream Sherbet, served with cantaloupe or honeydew melon, may also be served with fresh peaches, berries and many other fruits.

It's made quickly and coolly with bottled lemon juice sugar, milk and whipped cream which gives it a more full-bodied texture than most sherbets.

Try it soon for dessert, or a mid-afternoon refreshment.

* * *

LEMON - CREAM SHERBET requires ¾ cup Real-Lemon bottled lemon juice, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup milk, ¾ cup whipping cream, and cantaloupe or honeydew melon.

Combine bottled lemon juice and sugar. Stir in milk. Pour into a freezer tray and freeze until firm. Break into chunks and beat until smooth Whip cream until stiff. Fold into lemon mixture.

Freeze until firm. Serve over quartered or halved cantaloupe or honeydew melon slices.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Hints for Homemakers

INEZ KAISER

Home economists stress that planning your meals in advance will pay off . . . both money-wise and time-wise. However, recipes for luscious summer desserts often call for perishable ingredients. And, if you're like many busy homemakers, you haven't the time or energy to make daily trips to the market.

Your dessert problem will be solved if you keep a supply of LUCKY WHIP on the shelf. LUCKY WHIP is like having real whipped cream in a box, but with half the calories, and at much less cost.

Several of you have requested dessert ideas with LUCKY WHIP. Let me share a few of my favorite recipes with you.

Lucky Cocoa Whip: Flavor LUCKY WHIP with a spoonful of cocoa and pile high on slices of angel food cake. Lucky Ambrosia Whip: Add a drop of almond flavoring and lavish LUCKY WHIP over chilled canned fruit cocktail. Lucky Coffee Whip: Flavor LUCKY WHIP with a teaspoonful of instant coffee and swirl it on sponge or pound cake.

Believe me, your husband will applaud you...and you will applaud LUCKY WHIP!

"Smile, you're on Candid Camera" didn't go over too well when I dropped in to see my neighbor recently. She was upset because a damp basement had mildewed all the summer things she had so carefully packed away.

After pondering the situation, I suggested a coffee break, which proved to be quite successful. The next morning, I was so happy to see her wash lines full, and her eyes sparkling. This is what she did . . . washed all the clothes in a hot solution of pew advanced "all" and hung them out in the sun to dry. Then she moistened the mildewed spots with lemon juice and salt and rinsed them again to remove any residue.

She knew "all" was a powerful detergent, as her wash had always come out sparkling clean. "But this is amazing," she cried, "no odor . . . smells real clean."

Why don't you try new improved "all" . . . it solves most any stain problem . . . helps you enjoy carefree washdays, too. You will really smile when you see how "all" outcleans them all.

"I sure caught a whopper!!!" And all of the guys who went on the fishing trip had the same good fortune.

The expedition was a "flapping" success, so they said. There was also a lot of chatter about the soap Richard brought along. (He is my husband, you know.) "The most refreshing thing since spring water . . ." was one comment. They were speaking about LIFEBUOY, the 38-hour, deodorant soap. It seems that after the first hot day on the lake everybody was rushing for the showers to cool off and "freshen up" for dinner. Richard only needed to cool off, because he was still under the "influence" of "LIFEBUOY 38."

You see, a LIFEBUOY shower does not leave you the minute the water is turned off. If used regularly, LIFEBUOY gives you 38 hours of deodorant protection. It is gentle, too . . . good to your skin. It washes its protection onto your skin . . . stays with you.

Pick up some LIFEBUOY and try it soon. Lever Brothers guarantees you the "catch" of the year.

Simplicity is the key to today's fashion trend. But remember when frills and lace dominated the fashion scene?

Fashions can and do change rapidly, and those "simple lines" will soon be looked upon as "outdated" once again. But there's one thing you can wear and always be certain you're "in style." It is a bright, white, dazzling smile. Today's PEPSODENT smile.

Today's PEPSODENT gets your teeth their whitest (very much in style) . . . your smile will be its brightest (also very much in demand). Today's PEPSODENT contains a special brightening formula so unique it is protected by a U.S. government patent. It's a good way to make sure your smile is right in style . . . bright and dazzling.

So whether those spats for men come back into the fashion scene and fancy frills and bows reappear for women . . . you'll need a "fashionable" smile . . . a white and bright smile. You'll need PEPSODENT . . . today's PEPSODENT. It is unconditionally guaranteed by Lever Brothers.

ACLU hits race law

NEW YORK (UPI) —The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) Wednesday, urged the U.S. Supreme Court to review the constitutionality of Virginia's miscegenation laws.

The ACLU argued that the State's laws making racial intermarriage a criminal act violate the 14th amendment to the constitution, the right of privacy and the right to marry.

* * *

THE ORGANIZATION'S statement was on behalf of Richard Loving, a 31-year-old white construction worker, and his part Indian, part colored wife, Mildred.

The Lovings were arrested July 11, 1958 in Caroline County, Va., where they were living, five weeks after their marriage in Washington, D.C. They were given one-year prison terms which were suspended on condition that they leave Virginia and not return together for 25 years, the ACLU said.

Last March 7, the Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia upheld the state's miscegenation statutes after the Lovings attempted to fight the conviction and banishment.

Asserting that "there can be no doubt that the conviction of the Lovings was based on race," the ACLU charged that any statute "which bases the criminality of the act on race alone is a gross abuse of equal protection."

Mt. Winans News

By GERTRUDE M. PARKER

The Mt. Winans Methodist Church Vacation Bible School held its exercises following the close of the two week session last Friday.

The average attendance of children each day was 70.

The school was directed by Mrs. Mary German and teachers were:

Mrs. Dorothy Jones, Misses Geneva Hopkins, Sylvia Sampson, and Karen Lisby. Robert Gladden was also an instructor.

Assistant teachers in the program included Mesdames Eura Cook, Fay Jones and Gertrude Parker.

Mrs. Blanche Powell, secretary of the Baltimore Conference, Southwest District Wesleyan Service Guilds, is attending the second session of the school of Christian Mission at Western Maryland College in Westminster, this week.

She did not attend the session last week as was quoted in this column. Mrs. Powell was attending her vacation in Canada.

* * *

IT WAS good to see and hear Miss Priscilla Johnson and Robert Gladden on the Ted Mack Original Amateur Hour.

They were with the Baltimore Fellowship Choir, under the direction of James Peterson.

Priscilla is a student at the Peabody Conservatory. Both Miss Johnson and Mr. Gladden are members of the youth choir of Bethany Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wallace, little Harry Jr. of Huron St. and Mrs. Marie Harrell are all spending their vacations with relatives.

Mrs. Claire Lucas is in Darlington, S.C.; and Mrs. Aline Pompey is in Timmonsville, S.C.

A/1C David R. Jackson will leave this week for Pensacola, Fla. Mrs. Jackson will join her husband there later.

Atlanta youth ends hike to Washington

Willie Hunter, the 17-year-old Atlanta boy who set out to walk to Washington in support of the Viet Nam War, showed up at his Congressman's office today with hardly a speck of dust on his heels.

"It was a great experience," he told a reporter who greeted him at the office of Rep. Charles L. Weltner, D-Ga. "I got rides most of the way. People had read about me and when they saw me carrying the American flag they all waved or stopped. I only walked about 75 miles."

HUNTER, WHO will be a high school senior this fall, got interested in Viet Nam when his American history class debated the issue last spring. He decided /opposition to U.S. participation there by some civil rights groups was wrong.

"Our country has its faults but it's one of the best in the world," Hunter told newsmen at press conferences he held along the way from Atlanta and on his arrival.

Weltner arranged for Hunter to see Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. The youngster hoped to arrange a program at the Lincoln Memorial Friday in behalf of a group called National Youth Assembly for Peace, organized by students from a dozen Atlanta high schools to support the U. S. commitment in Viet Nam.

Leaders press for strong housing bill

With the belief that all the civil rights legislation in the world would be fruitless without equal housing, the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights of national leaders is pushing this.

President Johnson has asked for a strong bill against racial bias in the sales and rentals of houses and apartments. Angry congressmen, even some past friends of rights legislation, have spoken against it.

* * *

MANY OTHERS have talked of compromising with those set against equal housing by attaching riders to the 1966 rights package or by weakening the housing proviso through amendments.

Leaders of moderate civil right organizations have met in Washington, at the local NAACP's new office at 422 First St. SE, for the purpose of persuading Congress to reject all attempts to weaken the bill.

* * *

IN A PRESS conference Tuesday, announcing the activities, national NAACP executive director Roy Wilkins warned that unless effective equal housing legislation is passed, "Our nation is in for some heartbreaking developments."

Without equal housing, nationally, Wilkins sees a nation of "20 million Americans . . . cooped up and robbed of their money and their manhood through iron-clad, lily-white, profit encrusted real estate practices."

* * *

THE SENTIMENTS of Wilkins were echoed by Urban League director, Whitney Young, and International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters president, A. Philip Randolph.

Randolph, an old soldier in the struggle for racial equality, termed the rioting that has plagued many cities, recently, "criminal activity."

But in answer to a revelation that many congressmen are attempting to attach an anti-race riot bill to housing legislation, Randolph objected to the "monkey who is responsible" being placed on" the "colored man's back."

* * *

RANDOLPH WARNED that cooping up colored while whites have free run of better housing, will perpetuate "explosive conditions" similar to a kettle that is left to boil a long time.

"Not until there is social and racial justice," said Randolph, "are you going to be able to change these conditions."

For the benefit of the white newsmen, Wilkins tried to dramatize the heartbreak a colored person feels when he is turned down, arbitrarily, because of his color.

* * *

HE CALLED education, employment, job training, and increased pay improvements in the non-white's life a waste, if the nonwhite still cannot live where he pleases.

Wilkins further warned that segregation in schools and, consequently, all opportunities, will continue if housing segregation continues.

But an incensed Roy Wilkins declared he would turn on equal housing and fight against any anti-riot measures if such an "idiotic" proposal were presented.

* * *

WILKINS SAID he did not condone violence, but he warned that with the laws against disorderly conduct, with anti-riot law would only stifle the colored American's freedom of speech.

It is mainly for this reason that he is opposed to the word "lawful" in the proviso on protection for civil rights demonstrators.

With that one word, lamented Wilkins, Dixie officers would be allowed to tear gas, water hose, or do anything else they pleased against protesting colored people, in the name of "law."

* * *

IN SHORT, the leadership conference is for a bill that is not weakened, not compromised, not burdened with riders, and not defeated. They want a housing, equal protection bill that means something to tan America.

To this end, delegations of citizens from the many Congressional districts have been summoned to D.C., to contact the First St. SE "nerve center."

From there, they either visit their Congressmen or a designated person, who will lobby in their behalf.

Wilkins said there was much lobbying against the measure in the House, where the bill is now being discussed. What the representatives need to know is that some will vote for them if they favor equal housing.

* * *

BUT THEY aren't after just a handshake and a smile from "Mr. Congressman." After assuring him he may not necessarily be voted out in November, they ask for a pledge.

Any one who signs is placed on the list of friends. The dissenters and those who say they'd rather not sign are regarded as foes of fair housing.

Baer cited as 'Judge of the Year'

The West Lafayette Ave. Neighborhood Club presented Municipal Court Judge Aaron A. Baer a "Judge of the Year" Award last week at their summer adjournment meeting.

Citing Judge Baer for his "fairness, courtesy and respect to all defendants who appear before him, regardless of race or station in life," Mrs. Mary E. Hawkins, president, declared in making the presentation:

"You are the kind of judge the city had in mind when the Municipal Court was created."

Paying tribute to him for the Baer Plan which he initiated to allow poor defendants who have good roots in the community, but who do not have money to pay fines immediately to remain on the streets while working to pay their fines, Mrs. Hawkins called Judge Baer "the friend of poor people."

The club was organized more than 20 years ago to make war on horse stables in residential neighborhoods.

POPULAR JUDGE — Municipal Court Judge Baer was cited last week as "Judge of the Year" by members of the West Lafayette Avenue Neighborhood Club.
