—Bargaining stalled

sergeant and six Western patrolsmen were being assisted by policemen from all the city's districts. "All they can spare," he added.

Hundreds of spectators lined the avenue on both sides and emerged from side streets while traffic was at a stand - still.

Both Miss Jones and Col. Battaglia said they would stay there "as long as the others are here".

MISS JONES said, "The store workers had no choice but to walk out when the management was making ridiculous offers and we were talking about achieving a half - way decent salary for the employees."

She charged M. Stanley Samuelson, vice - president of Tommy Tucker No. 1 corporation, showed contempt for colored workers by not bargaining in "good faith".

At Monday and Tuesday negotiations, she said he offered no more than an 8-cent raise.

"Workers can not raise their families on 75 cents or $1.05 an hour," she stated.

She said picketing would continue until the workers were insured more money on pay day and greater job security.

MFU which won bargaining rights for the employees is seeking $1.75 per hour for full - time workers; $1.25 and $1.50 per hour for part-timers; a 40 - hour work week; time - and - a - half for overtime after 40 hours; a guaranteed number of full-time employees, stock and clerical workers; a union shop and at least six paid holidays.

They are also demanding that Tom Massenberg, a porter fired July 30, to be reinstated. Miss Jones said he had been promised an assistant stock manager's post, but had been fired instead.

Mr. Samuelson claimed Mr. Massenberg was released when the man who had held the job eight years returned from sick leave.

Mr. Samuelson stated that the "9 - cents an hour raise" MFU referred to was "the only thing we can do."

He told the AFRO the firm offered the employees $6,000 a year increase that could be portioned among the workers as MFU saw fit.

The $6,000 figure was arrived at by taking the average of firm's earnings over six years and dividing it in half.

HE SAID, "We offered the best we could but they haven't come down a penny since we started talking."

Mr. Samuelson stated the total cost of what MFU wanted for 38 employees would total over $47,000 added costs a year.

"It just isn't possible," Mr. Samuelson said adding that MFU demands would make Tommy Tucker employees salaries $70 a week for 40 hours, "more than any similar store in the city."

Robert Samuelson, owner of the store, told the AFRO the employees are getting "above the minimum; have discount privileges; paid vacations; group insurance; death benefits of $650; bonuses at Christmas."

He also noted, "They get paid holiday" both theirs (christian) and ours (Jewish)."

The younger Mr. Samuelson told the AFRO there were 10 "old loyal employees" who remained in the store on duty and refused to walk out.

He said he would not be quoted, would remain "without comment" on whether employees who did walk out would be fired or punished in any manner.

He stated, "At this point I don't know what we will do."

At 1:45 p.m. he said his firm was willing to negotiate but had no notice of any meeting which was supposed to have been set for 3 p.m.

MICHAEL FLUG, CORE representative working with MFU, said he felt the offer of eight - cents an hour was an insult to any human being and that the Tommy Tucker owners were "tricky and dirty" in their dealings all along.

Mr. Cornish also states that in attempting to remedy the damages himself, he suffered a heart attack and other serious and painful injuries and losses, all due to the negligence of the Mayor and the City Council.

On the latter count, a sum of $20,000 injuries is asked.

ment is prompt removal of 'excess materials.'

The city's Chief Sanitation engineer explained moving bulky items like abandoned stoves, refrigerators etc., is 'one of our biggest problems. Sometimes we get 250 calls a week. We have plans to remedy this.

He hopes to study schedules for removal of bulky material so that regular street collections are not impaired, since the same crew does both.

What about lost and damaged trash and garbage can lids, a constant source of irritation to residents?

Mr. Moore says his department, 'recognizes the problem, especially when lids are not returned to containers and left on the open street. We intend to enforce this regulation of returning lids to containers,' he promised.

Mr. Moore has plans to expand the city's sweeper program. To make this schedule work, he forsees more alternate street parking so cars are removed when the crew is at work.

WHAT IS the color of employees In Mr. Moore's city department? There are no colored persons on an administrative level.

However, he points to the performance of Wesley Thomas 28 years in the department, and describes him as a man who has a chance to move up.

Mr Moore admitted the racial complexion of the administrative staff does not paint a colorful picture.

A large number of unskilled jobs are held by colored employees.

On the clerical level are two senior clerks, Arnez Haynie and Ryland Cook.

ed to their jobs without incident.

Hours for prisoners in the afternoon from 1:30 3 p.m. were suspended, Mr. Jordan said, but he expected them to be restored today.

During a suspension of visiting hours, persons could leave money in the accounts of the prisoners, but no packages were accepted, he said.

The penitentiary was the scene July 8 of destructive rioting which on the urgings of civil rights leaders, resulted in the governor's appointment of a committee to study the Maryland prison system.

THE ANNUAL All-States Encampment Miss Weeks is attending has 105 U.S. Girl Scouts and 15 Girl Guides from other countries.

They are receiving intensive training in skills for primitive camping and trail living.

Miss Weeks, who represents the Central Maryland Council, has been a Girl Scout for eight years. She will begin her senior year at the Annapolis Senior High in September, plans to pre-School in September, and pare for a career in nursing.

As a Girl Scout, Miss Week has participated in a variety of camping experiences as well as aide programs in hospital training, working with the handicapped, and water safety.

The service projects in which she has participated have included working as a nurses' aid, helping with a hospital library, and teaching skills to younger Girl Scouts.

The Girl Scout Council of Central Maryland, serving 30,000 Girl Scouts, is a member agency of the Community Chest of Anne Arundel County, the Baltimore Area, and Frederick County.

Senior Girl Scouts area delegates at conferences

Two senior Girl Scouts representing the Girl Scout Council of Central Maryland at nation-wide events this summer, are Miss Maybelle Taylor of Baltimore City and Miss Diana Weeks of Annapolis.

Miss Taylor attended the National Senior Girl Scout Conference on the Home last week at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana;

Miss Weeks is at the 1966 All-States Encampment in Nantahala National Forest, North Carolina.

More than 200 Senior Girl Scouts from 46 states attended the home conference discussing the role played by the home as a fundamental force in democracy.

MISS TAYLOR was the Central Maryland representative to the Conference. She was chosen to attend from among several candidates from Girl Scout Region II, covering Del., D.C., Md., Pa. and Va.

She is a 1966 graduate of Baltimore's Western High School, and plans to attend Vasar College in September, concentrating on studies in mathematics.

She has been a Girl Scout for seven years, during which she has received training as a patrol leader, program aide, teacher's aide, and Water Safety Aide.

She has taken part in service projects with the Health Department, with a Junior Girl Scout Troop, and as an academic tutor.
