Q. How much pay would you expect to receive?

A. Name the figure that you have investigated and found is usually paid. Always, if you know it, name the starting salary.

Helping the employer?

Don't bring all of your records. If you say you are a high school graduate, the employer will check with the school.

If you worked before, a check will be run with previous employers.

What does the boss want your school or former job to tell him?

First, what your attendance record was, your grades; or how well you worked before.

A new aspect of a potential employees' evaluation is the personality study. The following traits are sought by bosses: Honesty, reliability, motivation, and how well you get along with others, are among things a potential employer wants to know about an applicant.

"SHOWING an interest in other people is an important contribution you can bring to a job or college," Mr. Epstein concluded.

Acquittal granted in 'stupid act'

Frederick M. Moore, 22, 3000 block Alum Ave., formerly of the 2600 block Edmondson Ave., has been freed of murder charges in the April 10 death by shooting of Miss Margie Gladney, 28, 3200 block Belmont Ave.

On Tuesday, Judge George L. Russell Jr. sitting in Criminal Court, handed down the decision that the popular young woman, who died April 10, was killed by a bullet accidentally fired as Moore twirled the gun in her presence.

Terming the defendant's twirling the gun a "stupid act," Judge Russell nevertheless said the state's evidence was insufficient to find it an intentional act.

He stated, "The testimony is sparse as to what happened. The court can not speculate as to what happened."

• • •

RELATIVES OF the deceased woman were seen weeping throughout the brief trial as the state pressed for second degree murder.

Evidence before the court revealed the incident that occurred at a home in the 700 block Poplar Grove St. came after Miss Gladney, Moore and other friends had visited bars in the area.

All were seated at the kitchen table as Moore toyed with a pistol that had one bullet in it.

The assistant states attorney termed the defendant "a reckless, wanton person who had extreme disregard for life in carrying a gun and playing with it in the presence of his friends."

Stating that Moore was grossly negligent and should have forseen the gun would go off, the prosecutor asked to "hold his accountable for it."

A Crime Laboratory official said the gun was a 22 caliber revolver of "cheap" make, costing about $12.

We are very glad to have them visit us again."

A large delegation of missionaries will be among those attending what will be one of the biggest conventions ever held here.

One hundred and six students comprising the 41st class of the Watchtower Bible School of Gilead in Brooklyn, N.Y. will be in attendance during the entire convention.

The Gilead school is registered with the U. S. government and is recognized officially as an accredited school to receive foreign students.

Since its inception in 1943 a total of 4,258 students from 95 foreign countries have graduated and received assignments in over 100 lands islands and colonies. Dallas F. Wallace, convention manager, said

55-year-old Edward A. Dunlap Registrar of the school is will be the target Saturday, who is an ordained minister of Jehovah's Witnesses.

"A unique feature of the school is that students attend by invitation only, he said. "Nor do we invite and train neophytes. A poll once showed the average student's age to be 33 and his number of years of actual ministerial experience to be 12."

The 105 students are completing a 20-week course divided into four categories—doctrine, organization, field ministry and the history of religion. Mr. Dunlap said.

The course in doctrine consists of a complete study of the Bible. "We go through the entire book verse by verse in an intermediate study." Minister Dunlap said. "In this way Bible principles are made to stand out and are then applied to Christian living."

When the school's curriculum was revised recently to train men who serve as overseers in supervisory and organizational work, the emphasis on organization was especially highlighted.

• • •

"WE NOW offer extensive training in branch office and factory operation, and students learn practical application by actually working in the Watchtower Society's vast Brooklyn publishing facilities," the registrar reported.

"Since the missionaries of Jehovah's Witnesses are trained to live and work from house to house among the people they serve, the intent of the field ministry course is obvious," he continued.

"They are given a working knowledge of the language of the country they will serve and are instructed in the customs of that land so they can effectively preach and teach."

The fourth category of study involves the history of religion in the light of the Bible. Again for obvious reasons, the students make comparisons of the beliefs, origins and practices of different religious groups.

Originally opened in 1943 at the Watchtower Society's Kingdom Farm in South Lansing, N.Y., the school has expanded rapidly. In 17 years, we graduated 3,678 missionaries and sent them to 117 different lands.

Dunlap, who is a five-and-one-half month course tuition free," he stated.

• • •

THE SUCCESS of Gilead School is reflected in the rapid growth of the Witnesses throughout the world. "Prior to the school's opening there were about 101,000 Witnesses preaching in 69 lands. Today more than 1,100,000 are working in 197 lands, islands and colonies under the direction of 92 branch offices, Mr. Dunlap said.

Expansion has been amazing in Africa and South America, where the missionary activity has been strongest. A large number of the students will appear on the convention program Friday, Aug. 19, at 2:30 p.m., when a series of dramatizations will be presented under the theme "Look to the Mountains."

T. V. Glass, who is the Gilead School instructor in charge of the special presentation, said important happenings in the Bible having to do with clean morals will be dramatized in full costume.

The convention highlight, according to Mr. Dunlap, will be a public Bible discourse on Sunday, Aug. 21, 3 p.m. by Nathan H. Knorr, president of the Watchtower Society, will speak on "What Has God's Kingdom Been Doing."

All convention sessions are open to the public, Mr. Dunlap said. There are no admission charges and collections are never taken.

In case of further action, he circulated a paper for signatures of witnesses to the noise who were in the courtroom.

"I think Mr. Shaw is trying to outdo Emerson Julian in this opponent in the Senate race," the judge said.

"Dr. Julian says I am too easy on colored people and Mr. Shaw says I am too hard on them."

He alluded to Dr. Julian's recent letter damning "laughing judges" after the latter witnessed what he thought to be the judges too light treatment of a youthful offender, accused of stealing a physician's car.

"I think justice should be not blind, but color blind," the judge added.
