Christian Community Churches is session here at Emmanuel

The five-day convention of the United Council of Community Churches of Maryland, and Vicinity is in session here through Sunday.

The banquet tonight (Friday) at 8 p.m. at Wilson's Restaurant, North and Pennsylvania Aves., has the Rev. George Baynard, council president, as main speaker.

All other sessions are being held at Emmanuel Christian Community Church, Lanvale St. and Carrollton Ave., where the Rev. Sidney Daniels, pastor, and his congregation are hosts.

Election of officers for the coming year takes place at Emmanuel this morning.

The Rev. Tommie Jenkins, pastor of St. John Christian Community Church, will deliver the inspirational message.

The 2:30 p.m. business session will be followed by a 4 p.m. religious hour with the Rev. Luther O. Brown, pastor of Sugar Loaf Mountain Chapel Community Church of Comas, delivering the sermon.

• • •

His choir and congregation are guests.

YOUTH DAY is Saturday with opening services at 11 a.m. and election of officers at 1:30 p.m. The musical program begins at 3 p.m.

Sunday's program opens at 9:30 a.m. with Sunday School. The Rev. Mr. Baynard will deliver the 11 a.m. sermon and will be accompanied by the choir of Shiloh Christian Community Church of which he is pastor.

Highlighting the afternoon program is the 2:15 p.m. choir festival with the Rev. Hersey Turner, pastor of Baynard Temple Christian Church delivering the sermon.

The Rev. Mr. Baynard will also preside at the Ordination services at 3:30 p.m. The Rev. Theodore C. Jackson, pastor of Gillis Memorial Christian Community Church, will deliver the Ordination Sermon.

THE THIRD Annual convention opened Wednesday with Judge Robert B. Watts delivering the welcome address at the 8 p.m. meeting.

Women's Day was Thursday with Evangelist Sarah Johnson of Gillis Memorial Christian Community Church as guest speaker. Mrs. Elizabeth Roy, president of the Women's Division, presided.

Freedom for two death row inmates

New Orleans (UPI) — A federal court Monday reversed the conviction of two colored prisoners who have been awaiting execution in the Louisiana State Penitentiary for 13 years, longest in U.S. history.

The convictions of Edgar Labat and Clifton Poret for the aggravated rape of a white woman were reversed on grounds colored jurors were systematically excluded from the grand jury that indicted them and the jury that convicted them.

Labat and Poret were convicted March 23, 1953. Execution of their sentences was delayed nine times by court orders, once less than three hours before they were to be electrocuted.

• • •

THE TWO men have been on death row longer than any prisoner in American history, longer than the famed "Red Light Bandit" Caryl Chessman.

The reversal was ordered by the full U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals. The court heard the case and several related appeals in a hearing here last winter.

The court ordered Labat and Poret released from custody on their present convictions subject to re-indictment and retrial.

Mrs. Moore 'suspended'

(Special to the AFRO)

NEW YORK — Striners' Imperial Potentate Roscoe C. Washington has 'indefinitely' suspended Mrs. Ercell Harmon Moore of Buffalo, head of the Shrine auxiliary, Daughters of Isis.

The suspension came on the eve of the election as the Shriners and Isis are gathered here in convention at the Hilton Hotel.

Vacation trips are exciting

By PINNIE L. ROSS

In the mail bag came several post cards: Down Roanoke, Va. way the first card read, "Hi, I hated to miss your affair, but I am sure you wouldn't have wanted us to miss this trip to the Blue Ridge Mts." from Hattie B. Smith.

From Beverly Hills, Calif., came the second: "Having a wonderful time, went to Disneyland today. The West is great" — signed Evelyn and Squirt Jones.

Miss Edith Clement on the campus of the University of Buffalo, N.Y., wrote, "Hello. Attending this NDEA Institute in Secondary Reading has really been an experience I'll never forget. You know I'm tired. Hope your summer is pleasant."

• • •

FROM Yellow Stone Park: "I know you can appreciate what a wonderful vacation this is. No phone, no meetings, no hurry; we hate to see it end. We will use our tent trailer and camp out each night the way we did coming out. Spent three nights in Yellowstone before reaching the Bozinman Trail and starting school," signed, Bob and Mary Lu.

GRACE AME CHURCH sponsored its annual Home Coming last Sunday. The guest speaker for the morning service was the Rev. F.T. Freeman, presiding Elder of the Hagerstown District, Washington Conference.

Special guest for the morning service was Congressman Carlton Sickles. Chairman of this affair was the well known and able Elhana Washington Sr., a former businessman, Mr. Washington's co-chairman was Charlie Adams, a trustee of the church.

The Interfaith Interracial Council of Baltimore County, under the direction of Eugene King Sr., demonstrated for low rent apartments and reasonable priced homes Sunday in Baltimore County in the Liberty Road section.

About 75 demonstrators marched peacefully without incident.

Demonstrations will continue every Sunday from 2:30 until 4 p.m. The demonstration was held in Randallstown at the Kings Park Estate.

You can help by being a marcher or driving people to the site. Support a Worthy Cause. Support Fair Housing organized by the Baltimore County League For Human Rights. If you are interested, please contact Eugene L. King 747-6511.

"IF I knew you were coming, I would have baked a cake, was not the case with Mrs. Viola Watkins.

She knew he was coming and she baked a beautiful cake for Carlton R. Sickles last week when he spoke to more than 150 citizens at this waiter's home.

Hostesses for this affair were Mesdames: Hannah Lindsley, Elsia Williams, Anna McIver, Evelyn King.

Last Friday night another affair was given in Baltimore County at the Blue Crest North for Mr. Sickles.

This affair was given by Senators Daniel Brewster, and Joseph Tydings. Admission $100 per couple, and a beautiful reception.

Sandwich Month for Breadland journey

By VIRGINIA McLUCKIE
Food Economist

Summertime is sandwich time, August, the heart of the outdoor eating time, is the month which brings a national promotion, Sandwich Month.

Sandwich Month can be the inspiration for a veritable journey into breads.

THE BREAD for a sandwich can be obtained in enriched white or whole wheat, rye, pumpernickle, Italian, French, Vienna, and raisin loaves. Many types of rolls with a variety of seasonings like onion, poppy seed, sesame, and others, biscuits and muffins are all excellent for different sandwich bases.

The tremendous meat industry supplies vast quantities of its products toward sandwich making. The whole group of sausages and luncheon meats are available in flavors to suit every taste.

• • •

LEARN TO know and recognize the seal of inspection and label information that indicates what you are getting in the particular sausage. Ingredients are listed in the order of predominance. Added seasonings, spices or flavorings are also listed on the labels. Check the cost per pound when purchasing sliced sausage meats.

It may be less expensive to buy from the cold cut counter by the pound than to select the small pre-packaged units. Sausage is the name given any ground meat and it may be the fresh, smoked, cooked or uncooked, moist or dry and sold in bulk, in casings or in molded loaves. The meats may be beef, pork, veal, ham or any combination of the two.

• • •

MANY OF the canned meats or frozen meats may be purchased for sandwich making. The sausage meats are economical in that you buy a pound and serve a pound. Count on four to eight servings per pound, depending upon the thickness of slices.

Poultry meats make excellent sandwich fillings, chicken or turkey. Eggs can be used to make tasty sandwich fillings or additions to salad fillings for sandwiches. Grade A Medium eggs are the best buy. Turkey and chicken prices are attractive.

When buying beef look for specials, particularly on roasts. Plan left over beef for sandwiches to be served either hot or cold.

At the produce counter, this week, you will find the best buys in sweet corn, tomatoes, green peppers, cucumbers, new potatoes and eggplant. Many of these vegetables may be served raw with sandwiches to assist in making the sandwich meal complete. If you wish variety serve a hot vegetable like corn on the cob, a broiled tomato and a broiled open face sandwich. A hot vegetable is also welcomed at a meal having a salad entree.

Fruit best buys are Eastern Shore watermelons, cantaloupes from Maryland and from west coast area, local peaches and summer apples, and California Bartlett pears. Peaches and watermelon both are easy desserts and fine for out of hand eating for the meal served indoors.

• • •

WITH PRODUCTION down on produce for many of the popular seasonal vegetables and fruits consumers will be finding prices hold a firm line and quality ranges are wide.

Make careful selections and buy just the amounts you can use while the produce is fresh and at its prime in eating quality. This will help in getting full food value and economic value from your purchase.

Economy meals for good eating

At this time of year, when peaches are plentiful and reasonably priced, many an economy minded homemaker gives thought to freezing peaches for use later on.

They taste so good when the season is long over, and they're so convenient to use, it pays to take the small trouble. Just thaw and serve as is or use in other preparations — with the breakfast cereal, in desserts as toppings for ice cream, for shortcakes, pies, pastries, or other baked goods, for example.

• • •

IN SELECTING peaches for freezing; suggests the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service, choose firm, but ripe fruits without bruises. Slice or chop as desired. Then pack with sugar, cold syrup, or unsweetened, depending on use planned.

A syrup made of 3 cups sugar to 4 cups water is generally best for peaches. Add ascorbic acid to prevent darkening — 1/2 teaspoon to 1 quart cold syrup. Then pack in moisture-proof containers, with all fruit covered by the syrup and ½ to 3/4 inches of "head space."

WHEN BUYING peaches for freezing, remember about two to three pound of peaches will equal roughly one quart frozen peaches. Should you be buying peaches at a roadside stand, remember a bushel of peaches will fill 16 to 25 quarts. Of course, the exact yield will depend on the quality, variety and size of the fresh fruit, and whether you preserve it whole or in halves, slices or tubes.

HERE'S A MENU for a day's good eating making use of foods that are plentiful and economically priced:

BREAKFAST
Orange Juice
Ready-to-eat Cereal With Fresh Slice of Cantaloupe
Cinnamon Toast
Milk
Coffee or Tea

LUNCH
Frankfurters on Bun
Cole Slaw
Fresh Plum
Milk

DINNER
Meat Loaf with French Fries
