Reddick to set up Philly institute

Dr. L. D. Reddick of Coppin State College, will be on loan to Philadelphia for a year to set up an OIC Institute to train leaders and staff for establishing centers for economically and culturally disadvantaged people throughout the nation.

The OIC (Opportunities industrialization Centers), under the leadership of the Rev. Leon Sullivan, has been a great success in the Philadelphia area. In the past two years OIC has given basic education or new skills to some 5,000 persons, most of whom have gained promotion or entirely new positions in industry.

Many of these "graduates" of OIC had been previously unemployed for long periods and had apparently given up hope of re-entering the world of work. Newborn self-confidence seems to be a trade-mark of OIC trainees.

This remarkable program of cultural and economic rehabilitation has attracted nation-wide attention. The Federal Government and philanthropic foundations have committed nearly a half million dollars to the Institute in the hope that trained leaders and staff may be able to duplicate in other urban centers the "Philadelphia success story."

DR. REDDICK says that he intends to use "boldly experimental" methods in the Institute program. "All that we have learned about intensive education and the training of leaders through audio-visual aids and computer analysis will be utilized," he said. "In education we should be at least as creative as the space agencies."

Dr. Reddick is professor of social sciences at Coppin. For several years he has directed the College's Evening School and for the past 18 months has directed the federally financed Project Y-003 which has produced effective teachers for so-called inner city schools.

He is listed in "Who's Who in America" and is the author of several books, including a biography of Martin Luther King Jr. and a popular history of the colored citizen in the Civil War, entitled: Worth Fighting For.

Dr. Reddick will continue to live in Baltimore, commuting to Philadelphia frequently.

Vets advised on school deadline

Only about 30 days remain before the opening of the fall school term, Rufus H. Wilson, manager of the Baltimore VA Regional Office, pointed out to veterans.

GI Bill applications will be processed as rapidly as possible, Wilson said, but processing requires several days. He urged all eligible young men and women in Maryland who plan to pursue an educational or vocational course this fall, to apply immediately to their Regional Office at Fayette and Saint Paul Sts.

Coppin student leads unique travel club

Children in the George B. Murphy Homes are getting the chance for the first time to see what the outside world is really like.

A program under the "Fun Club," initiated by John Gee, recreation department worker, has busied 65 children on weekly excursions to visit the main branch of the library, the Maryland Academy of Sciences and Coppin State College.

"Most of them have never been on a train, and so we are going to take the train to Washington, D.C. for some sightseeing," Mr. Gee said.

The group will tour the area between the Washington Monument and the Capitol as well as the House and Senate chambers.

On Thursday, August 25, the children will visit Sandy Point beach, on buses sponsored by the APRO and the Phillips Funeral Home. Hauswald's bakery and Esskay meats are donating hot dogs and rolls for lunch.

Other chaperones for the two trips planned to Washington and Sandy Point will include Mesdames Theresa Falling, Amy Harvey, Ethel Walker and Addie Goolesby.

"IT'S MY hope that I will be able to keep up interest in the club and get continued help from mothers," Mr. Gee said.

He hopes to have the youngsters raise money during the winter months and build up a treasury to support trips next summer to New York City and other places of interest.

"I hope eventually that we can take a trip out of the country," the young worker said.

A graduate of Douglass High in 1953, Mr. Gee is 21 and a student at Coppin State College. He hopes to get his degree in secondary education and continue to a graduate degree in business administration.

He is the sole support of his three sisters since the fatal shooting of his father, several months ago, by a youth following a party at the family home in the 2300 block of W. North Ave.

Jumpers, from bold plaids to shiny vinyls, high style

BY LULA MACKAY
(AFRO Women's Editor)

Jumpy jumpers with their own little blouses for tiny Sis, and sophisticated mini-sheaths for her older sib will set the fashion trend for the back-to-school set, this fall.

And it's going to be all fun for the wearers and for the mothers who are responsible for clothes care for the youngsters.

* * *

SWINGING COLORS will catch the eyes of the wearers, but it will be the ease with which clothes are cared for that will interest the mothers.

The first step in making it easy for herself will be checking the garments when the mother shops.

Garments in orlon and rayon are one of the best buys and they come in high styles for both boys and girls.

Many of the fabrics are "no ironing", having been permanently pressed.

* * *

ALSO IN high favor are the rib-knitted cottons, rayon flannels, cotton corduroys and rain-shine vinyls.

The latter not only comes in coats, but in jumpers which are worn over cotton sweaters.

All of the above fabrics, except the vinyl, can go into the washer and come out smiling.

* * *

EVERY GIRL, from first grade to college freshman, will want a pants suit, this year. She will be delighted with a suit which has both skirt and pants.

The skirt, mini-length, worn with a ribbed sweater tucked in at the waist and spliced with a leather belt, will get her off to a fine fashion start.

* * *

COLOR AND PATTERNS will play a big part in the fashion picture. School rooms, this fall, will look like a Mod Gallery.

Wild cherry, bright Navy, kicky red-white-and-blues, plum, bottle green, racing red, orange are just a few of the colors to choose from.

Add then there are the wallpaper prints, the window pane plaids, herringbone tweeds, hounds tooth checks as well as big bold coin dots to lend vigor to her wardrobe.

* * *

ACCESSORIES are half of the fashion picture.

From her little Mary Janes, to her thigh - high boots, shoes can make or break an ensemble.

Stockings, patterned, or plain, are in the offing.

Many of the greatcoats come with their own hats or matching detachable hoods, and bold wide belts to wear low-slung on hips are all fashion highlights.

How you can prepare your child for school

Prepare your children for school now!

This is the advice which comes, this week, from Dr. Robert E. Farber, Baltimore City health commissioner.

Most Baltimore area schools open Sept. 7.

Dr. Farber says Maryland law requires that children be vaccinated against smallpox before they are admitted to school.

Also, he advises, a new pupil's birth certificate must be presented at the time he registers in school.

* * *

HERE IS a checklist for parents of children just starting school, prepared by the City Health Department's Bureau of School Hygiene under the direction of Dr. John B. Saratsiotis:

1. Has your child had a complete physical examination recently?

2. If your child's examination showed an ailment or defect, have you made arrangements to have it corrected?

3. Has your child been protected against smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, poliomyelitis and measles?

4. Have booster shots for immunization been given to your child recently?

5. Does your child see and hear well?

6. Has your child had a dental check-up?

7. Has your child been taught to observe traffic and safety rules?

8. Does your child get sufficient sleep so he will be alert and bright at school?

9. Does your child eat a good breakfast?

10. Does your child know his full name and address?

* * *

PARENTS whose children have not received their protective inoculations are urged to take them to their family physician without delay.

If they can not afford a doctor they may take their children to a City Health Department inoculation clinic.

It is further recommended that all school children receive both a medical and dental check-up before school opens.

Booster inoculations for diphtheria and tetanus are recommended for children 8 years of age and boosters for smallpox and tetanus should be given every five years.

Trustees report on Jeffries' dismissal

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C. (UPI)—The Board of Trustees of Elizabeth City State College reported Tuesday they dismissed the school's controller after a State audit indicated inefficient procedures and not because "of malice or ill will."

The trustees heard a report from a member in connection with the firing two months ago of K. R. Jeffries, for 25 years the controller, budget officer of the school

* * *

CLARENCE GRIFFIN of Williamston, a board member, said it "had been a painful and unpleasant task" to dismiss Jeffries, but, "we had to do what we thought was best for this school."

Griffin said the State audit revealed "inefficient budgeting and bookkeeping practices but that there was evidence of fraud.

Jeffries has contended he was made a "scapegoat" and that the procedures he followed had been recommended by the State Auditor's office and State College President Dr. Walter Ridley. Jeffries was not invited to attend Tuesday's trustee meeting.

* * *

GRIFFIN SAID every effort had been made to retain Jeffries in his post but that the board's final estimation was that dismissal was necessary.

Another board member, Martin Wilson of Salma, read a 16-page report on the college's growth and development.

'Festival' brings joy to Watts

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Watts community had its doors open wide Saturday to display a spirit of rekindled public interest and to erase the scars of last year's riot.

Jubilation and enthusiasm swept the community where one year ago the nation's worst uprising resulted in 34 dead, more than 1,000 injured, more than 4,000 arrested and looting and arson damage exceeding $40 million.

The first Watts Summer Festival moved peaceably into the second of a three-day affair enlivened by dancing and singing and an air of gaiety.

Police, who cooperated with the sponsoring Jordan High School Alumni Association to keep order, estimated that 1,000 - 1,500 persons were participating in Saturday's events.

Highlight of the day was an "Athletes for a Better American" basketball game starring such pro stars as Lakers, Tom Hawkins and Jerry West and Walt Hazzard of the Los Angeles Dick Barnett.

The festival also includes jazz concerts, panel discussions, plays and an exhibitions of Afro - American, West Indian and modern art.
