Judge Fickling is reappointed

WASHINGTON

The President also reappointed Judge Austin L. Fickling, 52, well-known jurist of Washington, D.C., for another 10-year term on the D.C. Court of General Sessions.

JUDGE FICKLING was appointed to the besch in 1956 by President Eisenhower. Prior to that time, he had served as assistant U.S. Attorney.

A native Washingtonian, he attended Dunbar High School and Miner Teachers College for two years. He is a 1942 graduate of Terrell Law School where he later taught law. His private practice dealt mostly with civil, real estate and domestic cases; and he was the attorney for J. Finley Wilson, at that time grand exalted ruler of the Elks.

Tuskegee gives OMPER training to unemployed

TUSKEGEE, Ala. — Tuskegee Institute, aided by federal grants of nearly $1 million, has established the Office of Manpower Policy Evaluation and Research (OMPER) to test a technical system of education aimed at helping the unemployed in rural areas of the Deep South.

One hundred nine trainees who are residents of Alabama and between the ages of 21 and 45 years are actively engaged in OMPER training, as well as basic education.

LAST YEAR, Tuskegee became formally involved in the state and national sponsored Manpower Development Training Act Program (MDTA), designed for evaluation and research.

Presently, the new innovation, OMPER, a continuation of MDTA, is under the direction of Dr. W. V. Payne, an associate professor of mechanical industries.

According to OMPER's associate director, Preston Torrence, 2000 applications were received from residents of the seven - county area in which the project operates. However, he explained that OMPER is a research project and that only a quota of 125 applicants were allowed to enroll. The program is scheduled to operate 12 months, June 20, 1966 through July 17, 1967.
