Va. Union integrates its football

When Virginia Union nrys the lid off its 1966 football campaign in a couple of weeks, the Panthers will be ahead of its competitors in at least one department — integration.

This became apparent when VUU athletic director-coach Tom Harris announced Monday that he had recruited Union's first white athletes — three from New York State and a fourth from New Hampshire.

While not the first athletic team in the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association to integrate, Union is now believed to have the largest number of whites on its roster. However, Norfolk State —also integrating athletics for the first time this year is reportedly a close second to Union with three white athletes.

• • •

THE FOUR who are slated to report for practice at Union this week are:

Six-foot, 196-pound flankerback Bart Barillo, an All-New York State end and captain of the All-State team. He had 62 receptions in 1964 and 54 last season.

Anthony Fay, 6-2 and 202 pounds, a tight end and kicking specialist, whose punts averaged 47 yards. He missed only one extra point try in three years of high school play.

James Sullivan, 5-11 and 245 pounds, an All-State guard at John Hay High School, New York.

Michael Demers, 5-11, 196-pound halfback from Nashua, N.Y., where he was athlete of the year last season. He was most valuable player in track, running the high hurdles in 14.2 seconds.

HARRIS SAID more white athletes will be coming to Union — and informed that nine more white athletes had signified their intentions of enrolling at Union next year.

Although this will be the first time Union will have whites on its athletic tam, it won't be the first time they've been in the student body. In 1945, Union, graduated its first white student.

EARL BANKS

'QB headache real,' says Banks denying 'wolf' cry

"Everyone seems to think I'm the little boy who cried wolf," complained Morgan coach Earl Banks following appearance of an AFRO story relating his problems with the 1966 Golden Bear football team.

In the Tuesday edition of the paper, Banks was described as being concerned about the need for replacing such backs as Ken Duke, Clarence Scott, Russell Jolivet and Gilbert Moore. Particularly the latter two.

"THE GRADUATION of Jolivet and Moore's displacement by the dean," declared the rotund Morgan mentor, "leave us in real trouble at quarterback.

"Even the president (Dr. Martin Jenkins) kidded me about playing the part of the normal coach. He laughed and said it was par for the course when a coach started crying at the beginning of the season.

• • •

"WE KNEW we'd lost Jolivet. That's why we were giving Moore as much work last year. He figured to step in and take over this fall.

"But when he fell off in the classroom, our problems were multiplied. It looks like we're going to have to play Gilbert Carter in the spot.

"Carter can do the job, and it isn't that I have any doubts in connection with him. But Gilbert's a senior and that puts us in the same hole for next year that we're in now.

• • •

"AT THE moment," Banks continued, "I'm spending a lot of time with three sophomores — Henry Whitaker, Charles Harrison and Daryl Johnson.

"Whitaker is from Washington's Spingars High. Harrison is a sophomore who was not on the squad last year, but perhaps should have been, and Johnson is a prospective convert.

"By that I mean that Daryl was a flanker last fall. But he played sparingly at quarterback when he was at Maggie Walker High in Richmond, and he has the quickness and agility I like to see in a quarterback.

"What's more he can throw the ball. And we may be able to use that talent." . . . SAM LACY.

ABC's
ALBUM OF BALTIMORE CHAMPIONS
INTRODUCING SAM BOWENS

Handicapped by injury last year, Bowens found difficulty regaining his touch to the point where he could win a starting shot in the spring. However, there came the time that Manager Hank Bauer elected to use him in a platoon rotation. While his hitting is nothing like that of his rookie pace in 1964, Sam still poses a threat at the plate and comes up with an occasional game - winning blow. He leaves nothing to be desired as a defensive outfielder.

Mackey looms as 'sneak ace' for Unitas

JOHN MACKEY

DETROIT — Poker players are familiar with what is meant when a guy is accused of playing a "sneak ace."

The term has reference to the unexpected ace card he turns out at the end of a deal to pull the hand from firé.

THE BALTIMORE Colts and quarterback John Unitas have a "sneak ace" of their own. He's John Mackey, otherwise known as the tight end for the Baltimore offense.

The tight end is generally overlooked as a scoring threat, what with so many split ends, flankers and running backs grabbing the major share of the passes and the headlines.

But Mackey, undoubtedly, is one of the key men in the thinking of Baltimore's sparkling quarterback, Unisparkling quarterback, Unitas — and, for that matter, Cuozzo.

THURSDAY night's 20-0 victory over the Detroit Lions, is a case in point. The Colts took the final game of an all - winning exhibition campaign on the sheer strength of Mackey as a receiver.

Unitas followed the usual pattern of pitching wide to Jimmy Orr on one side, then Willie Richardson or Raymond Berry on the other; mixing in an occasional burst up the middle by Jerry Hill.

THIS PLAN went on and on, until, finally, John turned over his hand and hit Mackey straight up the middle or just inside of a linebacker.

Mackey grabbed a 23-yard pass to set up the first of two field goals by Lou Michaels in the opening play of the second quarter. His 30 - yard catch preceded a second Michaels boot near the end of the same period.

In the second half, the former Syracuse All - American hauled in a toss for a touchdown.

UNITAS' AND Cuozzo's confidence in knowing Mackey can be gone to when the occasion demands, is made clear by the Thursday pattern and by the former's evaluation of Mackey last week at the Westminster training camp.

"All I need," said Unitas, "is to get the ball to John. He has great hands, the speed to murder any opposing linebacker one on one, and the strength to run over them if he can't outrun 'em." . . . LACY.

AMOCO GASOLINE EXTENDS MUFFLER LIFE

Sam Yanoff, Produce Dealer, Philadelphia, Pa.

"My '55 Buick may look old but it runs like brand-new. That's because I use nothing but Lead-Free AMOCO® Gasoline. The original muffler's still working, the head has never been off and the first plugs went 79,000 miles. It's great."
You expect more from American and you get it!*

Soft Whiskey. Is it just another slogan?
If that were true, we'd be in big trouble by now.
But it took more than some sharp talk on Madison Avenue to make Soft Whiskey soft.
It took time, money and thousands of experiments that failed miserably before we had it.
A whiskey that went down as easy as...well, Soft Whiskey.
But take heed:
Tippecanoe and Tyler, too!
That softness we're talking about goes just so far.
After that, Soft Whiskey is 86 proof. Doing what any other respectable 86 proof whiskey can do.
(It's just that getting there is a whole lot easier.)
Naming Soft Whiskey was almost as easy as swallowing it.
One sip and you could have done it yourself.
