PREP GRID PREVIEW:

City plays 1st scrimmage minus QB; Cubs rebuild

By SAM LACY

Maryland Scholastic Association football teams can be after whatever hopes they may entertain upon learning that City College is without her stellar quarterback as she opens serious drills today (Friday).

Curt Schmoke, the all-city, all-Maryland, all-everything QB for the Collegians last year was left at home as the defending MSA champions boarded their bus for Bel Air, Md.

Schmoke, who spent the summer months working as a counselor at Camp Skylemar in Maine, reported for practice at City on Aug. 24.

LAST SATURDAY, however, he came down with a strep throat and his family physician advised the trip with a warning that Curt could risk pneumatic fever without proper rest and attention.

Otherwise, the Collegians appear in good shape, and things may look even better with the return of the flashy young signal-caller next week.

IN THE meantime, at Carver, coach Charlie Robinson is in a dilemma as to the route he wants to take and how much he'll have to take with him. He is faced with a big rebuilding job with the Cubs.

"We lost everyone from last year except five boys," Bobby told the AFRO, "and up to now I haven't seen but two of those five at practice.

"WE HAD figured on our two tackles, Mike Johnson and Clarence Miles, a guard, Thurmond Knox, and two halfbacks, Marshall Janerette and Arthur Smith.

"But only Johnson and Knox have shown thus far, and we don't know whether the others are in the service, have gotten jobs or will be back at all.

"AT THE moment," the Cub tutor continued, "We have 30 boys out for practice. But I can say now that 20 of them are 10th graders and definitely won't be used.

"Our 1965 Junior Varsity was thin, so we can't look for help from that direction. You might just say we're in trouble."

Several of the teams swing into action this weekend, although it will be little more than practice scrimmaging with non-league or across-league rivals.

Carver's squad plays host to Patterson this morning (Friday) at 10 o'clock, while the defending champions, City College, travels to Bel Air for a 5:30 p.m. scrimmage.

TOMORROW (Saturday) morning, Forest Park pays a visit to Edmondson for a 9:30 appointment.

Coaches of MSA elevens agree that too much emphasis can be placed on these pre-season drills, but all feel that the scrimmages are important to their programs.

The aim is to get a look at the youngsters under game conditions.

ficials that the patient checked on food and could not swallow, "but they said 'Give him baby food,'" one family member said "He couldn't even swallow water."

THE HOSPITAL has made arrangements for a nursing home. The family was trying to have him admitted to the City Hospital, but no space will be available until next week.

The hospital maintains it discharged the man after two days in the emergency ward because it lacked a bed for him and because the hospital could no longer help him.

Dr. Stuart Fine, who was in charge of the emergency room for the month of August, gave two reasons and said it was his belief that the patient could swallow.

Dr George H. Yeager, administrator of the hospital, also cited these reasons and, reading from the emergency room's report, said he believed the patient could swallow.

a As Mr. Williams lay breathing heavily in his house on George St. Thursday, with a throat clearance problem, his family had almost given up hope.

"IT'S ALMOST too late to do anything now with him not getting any food. It's like they sent him home to die," Mrs. Williams said. "It might not do him any good, but might do someone else some good if we can get him back in the hospital."

His daughter, Mrs. Mary Quinn, 22, one of nine children, said they had been "going everywhere to find someone to help him."

Dr. Fine, at University Hospital, said that the patient had definitely "not been sent home to die."

A call by the family early Thursday to Dr. Robert E. Farber, Baltimore City commissioner of health, brought in the Druid Health District, which called on the Instructive Visiting Nurses Association to investigate.

After a visit by an association nurse, Mr. Williams was taken by ambulance to Maryland General, the nearest hospital, and admitted.
