States Righters out for Graham, Duffy

Charles E. Moylan, Jr., Baltimore incumbent state's attorney and candidate for re-election, is "an enemy of the National States Rights Party," according to a "voting guide" distributed by the segregationist organization.

In urging its followers to vote for Mr. Moylan's only opponent, Andrew J. Graham, the self-described "karate enthusiast," the States Rights Party sheet declared:

"Moylan is the arch enemy of the NSRP."

The pro-segregationists organization also issued warm endorsement for another candidate for citywide office. He is James J. First District City Councilman and candidate for sheriff.

"Duffy, according to NSRP, is a "good white man."

George P. Mahoney, candidate for governor and John Rea, running for election to the U. S. Congress, are also being supported by the organization made up of rabid segregationists.

Ministers back Sickles' drive

Congressman Carlton R. Sickles spoke to 60 ministers by telephone from Washington during a luncheon here in his honor.

The clergymen assembled at the Sheraton Belvedere Hotel to voice their support for the candidacy of Mr. Sickles who said he was unable to attend due to a hearing on the pending civil rights bill.

Among prominent guests attending the luncheon was Del. Clarence M. Mitchell 3rd, who is a Fourth District candidate for the State Senate and heading a ticket supporting Mr. Sickles.

The Rev. Marion C. Bascom, prominent leader in the Interdenominational Ministers' Alliance, was one of several guest speakers, who voiced their support for the candidacy of Mr. Sickles who said he was needed to help supporters of the bill save it from defeat.

The pro-Finan slate is headed by incumbent Senator Verda F. Welcome and Dr. Emerson R. Julian.

AS VIEWED by Mr. Parks, the bitter factional fight between the Finan - Sickles factions in the Fourth could wreck the organization and destroy all political gains it has achieved while working with Mr. Finan and the present State administration.

"There is really but one issue," he said. "And that is whether our voters will continue to achieve political representation in the City and State or whether outside politicians will continue to pick whom they want to represent us.

"Our candidates include three incumbent legislators - Senator Welcome, Delegates Murray Abramson and Harvey Epstein.

"There are also two doctors, Doctors Julian and Thomas Pitts, Mrs. Victorine Adams, civil leader; Troy Brailey, Labor Official, and Sterling Paige, newspaperman.

The rankest political amateur, Mr. Parks added, "can see at a glance there is no comparison between our candidates and others running in the district."

ISSUES ARE also clear-cut, the councilman said.

"There is no question about Finan's record on civil rights," he declared. "While working with Tom Finan and the present administration, this organization has achieved more high-level, policy-making appointments than at any other time in our history.

"While Mr. Finan has pledged to continue this policy if he is elected, Mr. Sickles flatly refused to make any commitments, although in most cases mere commitments are useless."

The councilman pointed out that Mr. Sickles is touted as a champion of civil rights but the record doesn't show this.

"He voted for a Federal Housing Bill which is far more restrictive than the position Finan took on the issue and publicly announced that he would not, if elected Governor, work for a stronger housing law," Parks declared.

"Mr. Finan has said from the beginning that he favors a Bill which only exempts owner - occupied dwellings. In voting for the Mathias Amendment, Mr. Sickles gave his approval for exempting 60 per cent of available housing from the Federal law.

"United we stand, divided we fall. We can only survive if we have unity - in our community and at the polls."

A GOOD citizen is registered and VOTES. Primary Election, Tuesday, Sept. 13. Polls open 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. VOTE early.

GOP HOPEFULS — Republicans Spiro T. Agnew, candidate for governor, and Mrs. Barbara J. Anderson, candidate for the House of Delegates in the 2nd District, met recently and exchanged campaign strategy. Center is Marshall W. Jones, GOP minority member on the city's Board of Supervisors of Elections.

Sen. Welcome 'shocked' by Sen. Tydings

Sen. Verda F. Welcome expressed "shock" Thursday by the absence of Sen. Joseph D. Tydings from the Senate during debate on the civil rights bill.

In a telegram to the senator's Washington office, Mrs. Welcome said:

"We are shocked by your absence from the Senate floor during this crucial period when civil rights legislation is being considered.

"We urge your immediate presence in the Senate and your active participation on behalf of this vital legislation."

Senate supporters of the bill reported having difficulty in raising a quorum and a coalition of southerners and Republicans and a threatened filibuster could sound the death knoll for the measure.

Sen. Tydings, Mrs. Welcome said, is on personal business in New York and is scheduled to travel to St. Louis.

Candidates Say

Calvin A. Douglass, Democratic candidate for the House of Delegates from the 4th District, was born in Baltimore, graduated from Douglass High, Shaw University with a B.S. degree and was the second colored to graduate from the Law School of the University of Maryland.

He has been practicing law since 1941, was appointed to the city solicitor office in 1949 and served there as an assistant until 1949 when he was appointed as magistrate of the Western Police Station and served in that position until 1961.

"I am well experienced in politics, having participated in most of the elections and various campaign committees," he said.

He is a member of Grace Presbyterian Church, the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, the Motion Pictures Operators Union, Local 181-A, member of many civic and political organizations.

"My reason for wanting to get elected to the House of Delegates, is that I can render a greater service to the people of the city, due to the many political contacts I have made over the years and my experience in practical politics."

Jackson is IFSY secretary-general

WASHINGTON — Nelson C. Jackson, assistant executive director of the National Association of Social Workers, has been elected secretary-general of the International Federation of Social Workers, which brings together professional social worker organizations in 30 countries representing approximately 75,000 social workers.

Mr. Jackson's election took place at meetings of the International Federation in advance of the opening of the International Conference of Social Work on Sept. 4. From 1946 to 1965, Mr. Jackson was associate executive director and a national staff member of the National Urban League. His home is in New Rochelle, N.Y.

MISS LITSA ALEXANDRAKI, director of the government program for refugees in Greece is the current president of the International Federation. She presided at meetings at which delegates planned to carry forward a series of regional meetings around the world.

The regional meetings enable professional social workers in different areas to consider solutions to social problems particular to these areas and the strengthening of social services within them. The first such regional meeting was held in Europe in 196 and the next is planned for Asia, in Thailand, in 1967.

Ghana seeking Red trade pacts

ACCRA, GHANA (UPI)— The New Ghanaian Military government has notified Russia, Communist China and eight East European nations it wants to renegotiate trade agreements signed by ousted President Kwame Nkrumah.

Reasons for renegotiating the agreements were not disclosed, but military strongman Gen. Joseph Ankrah said several days ago he would remove all aspects of the treaties "not in the best interests of Ghana."

The military government that overthrew Nkrumah earlier this year said it has contacted the 10 Communist nations about the renewing of the trade protocols.

Howard University President James M. Nabrit Jr., commenting on the prospect of substantial numbers of whites enrolling at Howard in the next three years: "It will be good for the District, the University, and the U.S."

Albany State's faculty up, 10

ALBANY, Ga. —President Thomas Miller Jenkins of Albany State College announced that based on pre-registration figures, the college student crease in the number of faculty members for the fall term. Already ten persons have been added to the Albany State College faculty for the 1966-67 school year.

The additions and the divisions in which they will work are: Dr. Rivari Demers, French; Carnelius Grant, program director; Mrs. Velma Grant, English; John Holley, public relations; John Hollman Modern Languages; Juanita Miller, Library Science; Charles Mobley,

14 ministers back Agnew

Endorsement of the Republican gubernatorial candidacy of Spiro T. Agnew by 14 ministers has just been announced.

A statement accompanying the endorsement commended both his administrative record and "his efforts in the area of human relations."

The clergymen, who are also Republicans, issued this statement:

"Because of the impressive administrative reocrd of the Honorable Spiro T. Agnew as Baltimore County executive, the many evidences of his integrity, his proven ability to provide fresh creative courageous problems, his efforts in the area of human relations and dedication as a public servant;

"We, the undersigned, do indorse him for the office of governor during the present primary."

The ministers are:

The Reverends Robert T. Newbold Jr., Frank L. Williams, Spencer G. Dobson, C. L. Whitfield, Leslie A. Dyson, S. J. Mack, Herbert S. Moore, John H. Mason, Arthur J. Payne, George A. Crawley, W. L. Clayton, Edward M. Revels, Donald O. Wilson and Bishop W. A. Showell.

'Don't play running game cheap' warns Colts' Moore

MILWAUKEE, Wisc., — (NNPA) National Football League teams in general, and the Green Bay Packers in particular, are thinking they'll stop the Baltimore Colts by containing Johnny Unitas' throwing, they're in for trouble.

That is the firm conviction expressed by veteran halfback Lenny Moore, here awaiting tomorrow (Saturday) night's National Football League opener.

The Colts tangle with the defending champion Packers in a game set for telecast on a nationwide scale.

"NOBODY can afford to play our running game cheap," Moore told the AFRO Wednesday, prior to the presence of John's arm back there.

"And when we have been called upon to run, we've had little breakdowns in blocking and minor mental errors that can be eliminated in the need for work.

"The best thing that has happened to us," Lenny continued, "is the way we are being saluted, along with other Colts, at the Advocate Club luncheon.

"CONTRARY to general belief, there's nothing wrong with our running," asserted the spindly star who has borne the brunt of the Colts' ground game the past four years.

"It is simply that we've never had to concern ourselves with it because we have been able to play our pre-season schedule.

"COACH (Don Shula) made a point of playing everybody, which meant the reserves got playing experience along with the conditioning.

"It also provided an opportunity for everyone to come out in good health. It is the first time in my memory that we've been able to face an opening game with all our key personnel available for duty.

"Always in the recent past, at least, we've had somebody out with injury."

THE FEELING among the entire Colt squad is that tomorrow night's game is a must.

At every turn during the Wednesday afternoon session, a visitor ran into the reminder that Baltimore lost three games to Green Bay last year.

"And we actually won two of those three," was the general summation.

REFERENCE was to the fact that untimely fumbles dissipated an early lead in one contest, and in another a disputed field goal sent the issue into overtime, which the Colts subsequently lost.

The attitude among officials and players alike is that everything must be put together for this quest of vengeance . . LACY.

Midgets support Bruno-Valentine

Midget-sized mat action returns to the Civic Center, on the 16-man card booked for September 17.

Irish Jackie and Mighty Brutus will face Sonny Boy Cassidy and the Jamaica Kid. Two falls out of three will decide the issue, and the time limit is one hour.

The Jamaica Kid is one of the speediest and toughest little men seen here recently. He and the other small ones always fill the ring with violence.

Returning to local the mat after a long absence, Sonny Myers, a bruising badman, will engage Arnold Skoland in a 30-minute one fall encounter.

This activity will be in support of the return title go between Bruno Sammartino and Johnny Valentine.

Frank's high bat credited with '66 home-run assault

BALTIMORE

Frank Robinson's biggest ever home-run output is due to a high bat.

This is, in essence the way the Baltimore Oriole slugger explains the fact that, with still 22 games to play, he has already exceeded his best previous full year in major league baseball.

As the Birds awaited the beginning of a 3-game weekend series with the Twins in Minnesota, Frank described the new stance which he credits with having produced the greater power surge.

"I HAD 39 homers in Cincinnati in 1962. That was even better than the 37 which helped me win MVP honors in 1961," said Robinson.

"In fact, that year of '62 was better all around for me. It just happened that I picked the season Maury (Wills) selected to steal 104 bases and wrap up the most valuable crown.

ANYWAY, SINCE coming into this (American) league, I've been lifting the bat straight up instead of laying it back off my shoulder.

"I've discovered that this helps me flatten my swing. Now, instead of undercutting the ball as often happenend in the past, I manage to get into it more squarely."

FRANK'S previous top of 39, is followed by the 38 he hit while earning rookie-of-the - year recognition in 1956, and his total of 36 in 1959. Then came the 37 in '61. . . LACY.
