Wide selection of produce for late summer

By VIRGINIA McLUCKIE, food economist

Late summer offerings of produce that are on the market will provide enough choice for you to serve meals that are colorful, flavorsome and eye appealing.

Try to buy vegetables and fruits quantity that you can use while they are in the prime of condition. Learn to use the selection guides for individual commodities so you get full value for the dollars you spend for produce. This year prices have remained fairly firm partly because of reduced yield due to lack of rainfall and partly due to reduced sizes from poor growing conditions.

The demand from consumers is high and with supply not excessive, prices do not drop appreciably even at peak season.

• • •

THIS IS near peach peak season and the time for those persons who can freeze or make preserves to do so. The development of new varieties of peaches in recent years means consumers will be purchasing varieties they may not recognize as Sunigh, Redhaven, Halehaven, Triogem and Rich-Haven.

Sample a few and if you like the flavor, purchase these in the amounts you desire. Most of the peaches are hydrocooled so they remain on the tree until they are fully mature and ripe and we are getting fuller flavored fruits.

• • •

MARYLAND watermelon season is at its peak. One of the Maryland trends is in producing the small ice box size watermelons called Sugar Babies. These are ideal for small families and they have thin rinds, deep red - pink flesh and black seeds.

There are still plenty of cantaloupes available and the California—honeydew melons are arriving in larger supply. This year the Bartlett pear crop is well above last year and prices are attractive. Other suggested fruits are summer Rambo apples and Thompson seedless grapes.

• • •

THE LIST of seasonal vegetables will look like a panorama of color and the meals you serve from these selections will have eye appeal. Make a shopping list from the following: sweet corn, tomatoes, cucumbers, white potatoes as the best buys. Other good buys are green peppers, celery, eggplant, snap beans, summer squash, beets and new yellow onions. This is the time of year when we get Maryland lima beans. This year the crop is light; however, there are supplies available. Fresh lima beans are a treat when served alone with butter or combined with sweet corn or other vegetables.

• • •

IN SELECTING limas, look for dark green, well filled pods. It is best to store the unhulled beans in the refrigerator and shell them just before cooking. One pound of unshelled beans makes two servings.

Lima beans contain several of the minerals, Vitamin A and C and have a high protein content which may be used as an addition to the other proteins in the diet. As you prepare meals consider color combinations that are pleasing and those that make the plate pretty to look at since many times the saying, "We eat with our eye" is a point well taken.

FOR Baked Peaches, place a layer of whole or peach halves in a shallow baking dish. Sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter. Repeat until dish is filled. Bake until peaches are tender.

Serve with cream, hard sauce or custard.

COOK-OUT favorite these Beef Kabobs. Generous meat balls are seasoned with dill pickle liquid and broiled with dill pickles and tomatoes to provide a special feast from the backyard grill.

Apple Scoffle

For a delicious summer dessert, make an Apple Souffle.

The recipe calls for two tblsps. butter or margarine, two tblsps. flour, one-fourth cup milk, one and one - half cups applesauce, four egg yolks, beaten, one - third cup breadcrumbs, soft, one-half tsp. salt, one - eighth tsp. cinnamon, one - third cup sugar, one tblsp. lemon juice and four egg whites, stiffly beaten.

The sauce requires one tsp. cornstarch, two-thirds cup apple juice and one and one - half tblsps. sugar.

Melt the fat. Blend in flour; stir in milk and applesauce. Cook over low heat until thickened, stirring constantly. Cool. Preheat oven to 300 degrees F. (slow). Grease a one and one - half quart casserole. Blend egg yolks into applesauce mixture.

Add breadcrumbs, salt, cinnamon, sugar and lemon juice. Fold in the egg whites. Pour into casserole and set in a pan of hot water. Bake one hour. Serve warm.

SAUCE: Mix cornstrach and sugar and add to apple juice. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Serve over souffle.
