Noted ballerina to head dance classes this fall

Youngsters interested in learning modern dance and ballet have a rare opportunity for the coming fall season.

Mrs. Brenda Felton Burley, a member of the Baltimore City Ballet Company, has been engaged to instruct the modern dance classes for the Cahill Recreation Center every Thursday.

She will also hold ballet classes each Saturday at the Francis L. Murphy Laboratory School.

Designed for girls only, the Cahill registration opens Sept. 26 at the Center, 4001 Clifton Ave. and extends from 12 noon to 8 p.m.

Mrs. Burley states that the age limit is 10 to 16 years. Classes from 3:30 to 6 p.m. will include basic exercises to limber up and special routines will involve use of the entire body in dances all girls will enjoy.

The Saturday Ballet group will enroll girls ages 5 to 12 years. Sponsored by the Laboratory PTA, the class is open to all at a fee of 75 cents each lesson. Instruction period will extend from 10 to 12 noon.

Mrs. Burley is a senior recreation leader at Cahill. An accomplished ballerina, she has been a member of the Baltimore City Ballet Company six years and has received commendation for performances in modern jazz and modern ballet roles.

She was graduated from Douglass High School in 1949 and is at present a senior education major at Morgan State College.

A divorcee, she has two daughters also skilled in ballet. They are Anita, age 10, a 5th grade pupil at the Murphy Laboratory School, and Alice, 12, a 7th grader at Pimlico Junior High School.

Northeast Symphony Society 'a challenging development'

By ADAH K. JENKINS

The Educational Center of Northwood Appold Methodist Church, on Coldspring La. was the scene Wednesday of a challenging development in the cultural life of our city.

Thirty-five persons from the Morgan State College faculty joined an interracial group of residents from the Northwood area, Morgan, Roland and Wilson parks to organize the Northeast Symphony Society.

The meeting was opened by Charles K. Winter, director of concert development (outside the Lyric) for the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra. Mr. Winter outlined the purpose of the Symphony society project, which is to bring the orchestra to outlying communities.

He cited the success of similar programs in Howard County, Greenbelt, Bainbridge and the Eastern Shore.

Howard H. Murphy gave a brief resume of planning done by the steering committee which held its initial meeting at his home.

THE OBJECTIVE is to present by the society a series of four major concerts in the Murphy Auditorium at Morgan. Subscription prices will be $10 for adults; $5 for students, with special arrangements for Morgan students.

The series will be a repitition of the Symphony series at the Lyric. Guest soloists and the programs will be announced by Dr. Peter H. Adler, conductor of the Symphony, in cooperation with Dr. John A. Sweeney, acting for Dr. R. Hayes Strider, head of the Morgan music department.

Mrs. M. P. (Catherine) Adams and Charles R. Flynn, co-chairmen of the subscription campaign for the series, proposed the campaign plan, which will open with a kick-off dinner at the Northwood-Appold Center, Thursday, Sept. 29.

Dinner will be served by ladies of the church, chaired by Mrs. Roberta LaKite. Campaign captains, with their teams of five membes each, officers and board members of the Northeast Symphony Society, with their spouses, are invited.

Temporary kits were distributed to a number of captains and workers who volunteered their services at the meeting.

All campaign workers, Mr. Winter said will receive a bonus of one complimentary exchange ticker (for a Lyric concert) for each five subscriptions secured.

There will be a series of music appreciation lectures prior to each concert, geared to the musical content of the series. There is no additional charge for this service, open to subsribers only.

No tickets will be sold to individual concerts on this series and no reserved seats. Concerts are scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 29; Thursday, Dec. 1; Friday, March 3 and Wednesday, May 3.

BY UNANIMOUS vote it was agreed to call the organization the Northeast Baltimore Symphony Scoiety, with those present as members of the Board of Directors.

Plans for incorporation and by-laws will be in charge of a committee consisting of Norris Tingle, Edward Fisher and your reviewer. Officers unanimously elected were:

Jack O'Rourke, president; Norris Tingle, first vice president; Mrs. Francis B. Hill, secretary and Howard Murphy, treasurer.

Voicing endorsement of the Society and predicting its success were: Dr. Adler, Dr. Martin Jenkins, president of Morgan State College Oley Labonoy, manager of the Symphony; and Fathers Baumgarner and Pabst of Roman Catholic parishes in the northeast area.

Mr. O'Rouke, sparking the gathering in his inimitable style, set the campaign goal of SRO for the series in the 1,250 —seat auditorium.

He also announced that he has been assured of cooperation from business firms in the northeast area, including Northwood, Govans and Hamilton.

Campaign headquarters will open Sept. 30 and continue (except on Sunday) through Oct. 8.

Ashby raps job bars in courthouse here

HORACE ASHBY

Voters of Baltimore City will have another chance on Nov 8 to "do something about a discriminatory job situation that exists at the downtown courthouse," declares Horace Ashby, a GOP candidate for clerk of Circuit Court.

Mr. Ashby, who had no competition, along with sheriff candidate Purnell Oden and Solomon Reddick, for clerk of the Court of Common Pleas, all Republicans, join Municipal Court Judge Robert B. Watts as the only colored candidates for citywide office.

Frank Conaway and Arthur Murray, for clerkships; St. George Crosse III for sheriff and William H. Murphy, for Orphans Court judge, Democrats, lost out in Tuesday's primary.

Mr. Ashby charged that but three colored employees share in the $2 million public payroll in the courthouse where some 220 persons work.

* * *

HIRING BY the clerks now is dictated both by racial and "boss" considerations, Ashby said.

"The time has come," the candidate declared, "when we no longer need to wait for the present clerks to make up their minds to hire colored employees on a fair basis.

"The reason so many colored persons now are relegated to welfare roles can be explained by the fact that so many private and tax supported jobs are not readily open to them.

"The courthouse is a shameful example of how colored citizens are passed over for jobs they can handle. This governmental agency should be setting an example rather than laging behind."

20 men sought for stage roles

Center Stage, Baltimore's resident professional theatre, is looking for 20 men, some with musical ability, to be cast in the theatre's production of "Benito Cereno".

Director Patrick Tovatt will hold auditions Sept. 17 and 18, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Men interested in trying out for parts should come directly to Center Stage at 1 E. North Ave.

"Benito Cereno", part of a double-bill which includes Edward Albee's "The Death of Bessie Smith", will run from Oct. 27 through Nov. 27. Rehearsals begin Sept. 27.

"Benito Cereno" is a sea mystery of a Spanish slaveship in difficulty. As the tale unfolds an American Sea Captain finds himself baffled as to who is in command of the slave ship, its captain or an African slave king.

Moms-Dads School

A school for instructing parents in how to care for their children will be discussed on One Man's Opinion during the Reporters and The News on Saturday, Sept. 17, at 6 p.m., in color, on WBAL-TV 11.
