Two one-act comedies will be presented at 8 p.m. in the new Barn-Theatre of the Catonsville Community College, by the Barnstormers, the college dramatics group. Eugene Ionesco's "The Future Is in Eggs" will have a cast composed primarily of students at the college, while several of the characters in the second production, Anton Chekhov's "A Marriage Proposal," will be portrayed by faculty members.

Junior college has jobs open

Dr. Paul L. Johnson, dean of the Catonsville Community College, announced today that a number of openings still exist for part-time students, for the fall semester, in the two-year career training programs offered by the college.

These programs are designed to provide all basic skills necessary for immediate employment in the chosen field, plus general academic courses for a well-rounded college-level education.

Peters said the person from whom he obtained narcotics "is dead now."

Judge Carter described the business Peters was doing as "a large operation" involving far more than he needed to supply his own habit as an addict.

He stated, "He's pretty well educated. He knows the results of the business he engaged in, the results of his own addiction — yet he resorted to one of the worst forms of criminal action helping others to get hold of the means to a slow death."

ALSO CONVICTED of narcotics violation on May 11 was Andrew Baker, 20, son of a former policeman now deceased. Mr. Baker received a three-year sentence in the Hous of CORRECTIO in the House of Correction, pending probation and medic reports.

Some compensation was made when he revealed to the narcotics squad the name of the persons who supplied him.

Baker told the court he uses only $12 to $15 a month in dope and got into the habit as a mainliner because, "Everybody in the neighborhood does so I tried it."

According to narcotics undercover men, Baker said he could "cop" the stuff for them and directed them to drive to the 1500 block Rutland Ave. for the supply.

City gets grant for retraining

Cong. Samuel N. Friedel passed the House of Representatives yesterday." Congressman Friedel declared.

today announced that Baltimore's Department of Vocational Education together with the Comfort Spring Corporation will receive $213,232.00 to train 146 unemployed or underemployed persons.

This training will be offered to potential welders, auto mechanics, spring assemblers, and other related specialties under the Manpower Development and Training Act, administered by the Department of Labor, the congressman said.

"This project was developed and submitted for approval by the Maryland Employment Security and Vocational Education Departments," Mr. Friedel Announced.

"I am delighted to see that Maryland is continuing to take advantage of Federal programs which are available to help reduce unemployment."

After the trainees have gained a proficiency in their job skills, the U. S. Employment Office finds jobs for them so that they may use their newly-acquired skills.

"THIS IS a very worthwhile project which supplements assistance provided under the amended Economic Opportunity bill which

Penal jobs corps urged

A resolution proposing that the federal anti-poverty agency cooperate with state agencies in initiating a jobs corps program in Maryland penal institution was placed before the City Council Monday.

The proposal would have young persons selected who have come from deprived families, place them on parole under supervision and teach them skills.

Introduced by Councilman Leon A. Rubenstein (5th D.), it was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

The Council gave quick approval to another resolution which would designate October as police recruitment month.

In still other business, the Council okayed the appointment of Nicholas C. Mueller to the Jail Board, and received Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin's nomination of the Rev. Frederick J. Hanna to the Community Relations Commission.

Also received was an ordinance to give new wage benefits to city laborers and mechanics.

The Council meets again next Tuesday, due to the World Series.

Democrats for Agnew will be announced within a few days, Mr. Parks reported. These details will include names of prominent district party leaders who will actively work for the election of the Republican candidate, he added.

Mr. Parks' announcement came on the heels of a unity meeting between warring factions of district Democrats in which it was agreed that candidates victorious in the primary will run on a solid slate in the general election campaign.

fled carrying a shoe box and several books into the rear of the 500 block of Baker St.

The officers pursued, shouting for the man to halt, that he was under arrest.

Officer Webb fired two shots as the chase continued and the first man was joined by a second.

The officers pursued the pair until they split and disappeared in separate alleys.

Inside, police said the house had been ransacked and the front door had been forced open.

Mattresses of beds had been rolled up, and officers stated that blood on a second floor rear window still indicated that one assault had taken place there.

A trail of blood led to the downstairs hallway, where the sisters were found.

Brother of the victims, Joseph DiPaula, 68, 2700 block Grindon Ave., told police he had been visiting them just ten minutes before, as he did every day.

On his way out, after having given the younger sister $50 payment for a check about 6:30, Mr. DiPaula said he encountered a youth standing on the steps of the house.

The youth, aged about 19 or 20, said he told him he was waiting for a friend to go to work, but that he was late.

The youth walked off the steps, saying, "I'll have to get a cab," and stood under a tree in front of the house.

SUSPICIOUS, Mr. DiPaula said he walked to the bus stop and stood watching the house until the youth disappeared and he boarded a bus for home.

One clue police had to go on was a man's straw hat found on the floor in the first floor front room. It was held as evidence by the Crime Lab, which also made an intensive search of the house for fingerprints.

Later turned up were a pair of sunglasses and a metal chisel.

As police were investigating, a crowd of 350 residents gathered at the scene. Police asked many witnesses to relate their information to the Western station or the Police Department.

The two youths chased by police were described as being about 18 to 20 years old; about five feet, eight inches tall and about 140-150 pounds.

crow case, the money held by U - JOIN Attorney Fred Weisgal was returned to the landlord's lawyer, who promptly mailed it back to Mr. Weisgal last Friday.

Judge Carl W. Bacharach on Aug. 19 had ordered Mr. Weisgal to hold the $70 rent until it could be determined if repairs were going to be made.

Since the case came up, the family of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Wilson, has been ordered from their home in the 1400 block Ashland Ave. for overcrowding, so Mr. Weisgal returned the money.

IN THIS, the first rent strike case to be successfully waged by U-JOIN, Mr. Weisgal said it was interesting to note the family has been living there for four years and not ordered to move until it withheld rent.

Morris Edelstein, attorney for Jacob Klotzman, mailed the check back, explaining that the court had ordered the money to be held until it received affirmation from building inspectors on the repairs and this had not been done.

In addition the case is under appeal in the local courts and mandamus action has been filed in Superior Court giving the tenant 20 days to show why the money should not be paid.

move in rather that move out."

Under the PSTA sanctions, new teachers are discouraged from locating in Baltimore.

With the colored school population nearing 70 per cent, Mr. Crosby said sanctions have the effect of telling these students to drown.

"But they don't realize that they are destroying a city, not just the colored population," the Dunbar educator said.

HE CHARGED the PSTA, which has a majority of the city teachers, with "letting the school system get in the shape it is in.

"We have been fighting these things for years. As part of the power structure, the PSTA doesn't want these conditions exposed that we are exposing."

Instead of sanctions, he declared that the city needs a crash program "of education, which is the only way to enhance the earning power of the colored population."

"With positions filled first in the schools on the rim of the city, you are never going to be able to reach the children in the inner city."

Mr. Crosby's first remarks came during a debate on whether there should be unions for teachers.

The School Board has scheduled a closed session meeting with the BTU For next Tuesday, at which the union will "demand definite answers" to its eight recommendations, including immediate granting of salary rises.

Membership determination on whether to strike or not to strike will depend on the School Board's response, Mr. Crosby said.

NAACP appeal extradiction signed by Tawes

The Maryland NAACP is planning an appeal to Gov. J. Millard Tawes in behalf of Moses Cooper, 43, who twice escaped from the Florida chain gang while serving a term following conviction on a charge of armed robbery.

Moses, who has maintained his innocence for years lived 12 years in Delaware where the governor refused to sign extradiction papers to send him back to Florida. Later he went to Salisbury, Md., to accept employment as a pulp wood worker.

There he was arrested, and on Sept. 29, Gov. Tawes signed extradiction papers and currently Cooper is in Salisbury awaiting the sheriff from Florida to take him back. The NAACP is seeking to have Gov. Tawes reverse the decision before the sheriff arrives.

ADA to endorse Pressman or Agnew

At a meeting of the executive board, the Baltimore Chapter of the Americans for Democratic Action decided that it would be impossible for the organization to endorse George Mahoney in the November election.

There is support within the ADA group for both Spiro Agnew and Hyman Pressman. A meeting has been scheduled for mid-October to decide upon candidates at all levels to be endorsed by the local chapter.

"We need workers but very few are applying," the spokesman for DMV added.

He indicated that part of the problem may be due to the competition from higher paying Federal agencies in the Washington-Baltimore area.

"We have the jobs here—we just need qualified persons to make application," the AFRO was told.

"We hope some of your readers will heed this notice and maybe pass the word around."
