'Salute your bride,' Marine follows orders

By BETTYE MOSS

"You may now salute your bride,' said the Rev. J. R. Butler.

Tall, handsome Marine Cpl. Carroll Gordon leaned down and planted a solid kiss on the lips of the petite lady at his side, pretty Diane Delores Wilkins.

Guests giggled aloud, as the bridegroom exercised his rights for a half minute.

The double-ring ceremony at Mt. Sinai Baptist Church, was witnessed by 200 relatives and friends.

The bride in traditional white— a full length taffeta gown adorned with venice lace and a bouffant veil and detachable chapel train carried a cascade of white roses and orchids.

Complimenting her were the bridegroom's full-dress uniform and the floor-length empire gowns of beauty pink worn by the maid of honor; and the hot pink selected by the bridesmaids. They made a pretty picture.

Daughter of Mrs. Ethel Wilkins Barnes and Curtis James Wilkins, the bride was given in marriage by her father.

She is a graduate of Eastern High and a former Morgan State student, now employed at Westinghouse.

Cpl. Gordon, who returned to the States on Monday from duty in Cuba, was a YMCA staff member and swimming instructor at Camp Mohawk before he entered the service.

He is the son of Mrs. Ethel Gordon Hall and the late George Gordon.

After a brief honeymoon, Cpl. Gordon returns to duty at Camp LeJeune, N. C.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Barnes chose a three-piece suit of light pink silk with a pink ostrich feathered hat,

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Hall, was attired in a two-piece blue silk crepe suit.

The maid of honor was Miss Dorothy Hudson. The bridegroom's brother, Tyrone Gordon was best man. Bridesmaids were: Miss Theresa Stith, Miss Barbara Gordon, sister of the bridegroom; and Mrs. Barbara Boddie.

William Wells, Anthony Dease and David Boddie were ushers.

Cute as buttons were the flower girl, Darnell Mayfield, also in long pink gown like the bridesmaids; and Master Claude Parker, ringbearer, great nephew of the bride.

Ralph Bagley was at the organ. Mrs. Gloria Jones sang 'Because,' and 'O Promise Me.' Mrs. Virgie Gaines Lewis directed the wedding and Mrs. Willie Bell Owens was the wedding announcer.

The Rev. G. E. Vanderford of United Baptist Church, offered prayer.

A reception followed in the church hall. A second reception for the wedding party followed at the E. Biddle St. home of the bride.

Pre-wedding parties included a shower gives by the bridesmaids; and a rehearsal dinner at the Broadway home of the bridegroom.

Hostesses were Mrs. Eve-lyn Perry, Mrs. Katherine Perry, Mrs. Betty Lewis, Mrs. Mary White, Miss Bernice Robinson, Mrs. Sandra Hudson and Miss Patricia Macklin.

Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Rice and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rice all of N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Sam Barnes of Suffolk, Va., Mr. and Mrs. Stanford Barnes, Mrs. Elmer Barnes, and Mr. Puducah, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Parker, Suffolk, Va.

2nd D. ministers date meetings on Bard Plan

The Second District Ministers for Better Government have scheduled a series of working sessions on behalf of the Bard Plan to redistrict the City Council.

A training session for workers who will help explain to others how to vote against the A plan and for the Bard Plan will be held at 8 p.m. Monday, at Waters AME Church, 427 N. Aisquith St.

Two other seminars on the Bard Plan are scheduled for Israel Baptist Church, 1229 N Chester St., 8 p.m., and at the Catholic Faith Church 25 S. Caroline St., 8 p.m.

The Rev. Melvin C. Swann, pastor of Waters AME Church, is chairman of the ministers' committee promoting the Bard Plan. The Rev. George C. Crawley, pastor of the St. Paul Baptist Church, is head of the ministers' grant.

Class out on walk finds 2 dental plates in bag

Mrs. Doris Wiggins' kindergarten class at Guilford Elementary School 32, Guilford and Lanvale St., found a set of dental plates on Monday.

On their way to the North Ave. market to get a pumpkin, one of the pupils, George Brown, discovered the teeth in a brown paper bag Charles and North Ave. It was about 10:30 a.m.

The pupils would like to see the owner get them back.

To inqure about the dental plates call the school Hopkins 7-4000, Ext. 891, between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Jobs open at Social Security

A larger - than - usual number of job seekers are currently taking examinations for social security openings as a result of the "Joborama" hosted recently by the Social Security Administration in Woodlawn, Social Security Commissioner Robert M. Ball noted today.

SSA received 224 applications during the Joborama, which brought together 1,300 job seekers and 61 employers.

Additional applications have been received as a result of the distribution of more than 1,000 Social Security Administration examination announcements at the job fair.

The announcements covered the positions of card punch operator, service representative, social insurance research analyst, accountant and auditor, and jobs under the Federal Service Entrance Examination.

EXAMINATIONS for service representatives are scheduled for today and Nov. 30. Some 172 applicants have already taken the clerical test. Two more clerical tests are scheduled for Oct. 29 and Nov. 5.

Tests are also being scheduled for the positions of card punch operator and translator.

Applications are still being accepted at the Social Security Administration until Oct. 31, for card punching and service representative examinations.

More information on Social Security jobs can be obtained from the Social Security Administration, Employment Branch, Room 1-F23, 6401 Security Boulevard, Baltimore, 21235.

Hints for Homemakers

"You are invited to attend..." was the opening line from one of the many invitations received by me to attend several functions this year.

All of these affairs were very elegant with delectable menus for everyone to enjoy. There was just one problem, though. I had to pass up the desserts . . . too many calories.

Since it happens that the battle of the bulge is one that is constantly mine to fight, the added pounds would make it more difficult for me to keep my figure controlled. However, now that I am back home, I can make up for all that I have missed.

Whipping up fancy desserts for my family will be a delight. It will make up for the times when I was away and, at the same time, satisfy my "sweet tooth" with no problem of extra pounds. How will I do it? With LUCKY WHIP, the new dessert topping mix that tastes as luscious as real whipped cream. You just add milk to it and whip.

LUCKY WHIP looks, swirls and tastes like real whipped cream with half the calories and much less cost.

Pass the word around to your friends, and when you are next "invited to attend" by them, you will not have to pass up dessert . . . they will all be serving LUCKY WHIP.

Lucky Whip

"Through a long and sleepless night . . ." was my theme song this past season. It was quite a fascinating summer, traveling in many different cities, despite the "airline interruption."

On several occasions, I was very fortunate to renew many old acquaintances. Like many other travelers, I was awaiting news of an empty seat when this dear friend met me at the airport. We chatted about the situation I was in, and she invited me out to her home for breakfast.

I gladly accepted the invitation and in a matter of a short time found myself eating the most delicious pancakes I'd had in a long time. The crowning glory came when I learned she used IMPERIAL Margarine.

The flavor of those steaming hot delicacies was simply triumphant. She later informed me that she used IMPERIAL Margarine all the time to make cakes and cookies and on rolls, muffins and vegetables.

If your family likes good things to eat, may I suggest that you, too, try IMPERIAL Margarine! Unlike my summer, your winter will be filled with many good things to eat and "long and peaceful nights."

Imperial Margarine

Would you believe one-half? Three-fourths? Would you believe "all"? New Advanced "all" from Lever Brothers, that is.

This was my reply to a question from one of the homemakers in a group I ventured to recently. She wanted to know how much detergent it takes to get your wash really clean. She, like so many other women, always ended up using extra detergent . . . sometimes more than a cup. So I told her about new Advanced "all" . . . the detergent that is so powerful you use less than a cup.

Her next question came as no surprise. "If I use less than a cup, I will have less cleaning power, right?" Wrong . . . the cleaning power is the same. New Advanced "all" has new brighteners, new whiteners and new power. I also told her that Advanced "all" outcleans the leading white detergent, outcleans the leading blue detergent, outcleans the leading speckled detergent... "all" outcleans them all.

She decided to get smart and give her next wash a fresh-air fragrance by using the detergent I recommended. I am first confident she will see for herself how less than a cup of powerful new Advanced "all" really does outclean them all. After all . . . "Seeing is believing!"

"Sorry about that, chief." Yes, I got my first dose of Don Adams from Rickey, my teen-age son, the other morning. It seemed that this was his form of apology for almost knocking me down on his way to the bathroom to brush his teeth.

I wonder if it was his new girl friend he told me about or the STRIPE tooth paste that prompted his haste. Probably both, because it seems after he was introduced to STRIPE, that miracle tooth paste with the minty taste, he has really gotten a kick out of brushing.

Stripe

I will have to admit that I am getting quite a kick out of watching my son grow up...quickly and withdrawn...now all smiles and girls. That really has to be the miracle of the ages.

When you go to the store next time to purchase tooth paste, look over the selections carefully. Then ask yourself one question: Whats good in my tooth paste if my child won't use it? Then pick up a tube of STRIPE and an "armored smile." Be prepared for that first knockdown as your child rushes to brush his teeth.

Lever Brothers guarantees that you will not be "sorry about that, chief."
