"PEOPLE ALL Around" the civil rights play the Klan objected to at Towson State College a week or so ago was the work of a faculty member, Whitney LeBlanc.

An unusually talented and famous figure in the theatre world, Mr. LeBlanc has also figured prominently in productions at Center Stage. For example, the set for the current play, "Bessie Smith," on stage there until Dec. 8, is designed by him.

His wife, Mrs. Elizabeth LeBlanc, former member of the Paul Taylor Dancers of New York, did the choreography for the modern dance recital held at Center Stage last Monday.

Quite famous herself, Mrs. LeBlanc is scheduled to open a dance school on Milford Mill Rd. sometime later this month.

Mr. LeBlanc who was so enthusiastically received at Towson to head their theatre group a year ago, formerly taught at Antioch College and led the threatre group there.

Fellowship House schedules events for coming season

Fellowship House announced its fall program this week through Miss Ruth Fegley, its executive director.

Highlights include the work of the Frank Robinson Fan Club, now a permanent organization with a full program for youth activity. Mrs. Anita Sterrett received praise for selling more than 1,000 candy apples for the benefit of the group.

The fund-raising project for Fellowship House is a huge rummage sale. The date will be announced for later this month.

Meantime, all person are asked to send discarded, usable clothing, household items, linens, anything that can be placed on sale.

Beginning Nov. 13, the "Families for Fellowship" meetings come each Sunday, 4 to 7 p.m. The first session will discuss needs for recreational facilities for the children in the area with representatives from the Recreation Department.

Sunday, Nov. 20, 4 to 6 p.m. is the formal welcome to the Hilton Elementary School No. 21.

THE INTERDEMONINATION Ministerial Alliance has promised to canvass members from the rolls of the various churches. All citizens are invited to become Fellowship House members this fall. Enrollment is now in progress.

Many autumn and winter programs are due to interest young people and adults and a special invitation has been issued for new members to join to enjoy the coming season.

THE TUESDAY, Dec. 6 Christmas-Hanukkah annual celebration is a highlight each year and new comers are urged to join now to be able to take full part in the joyous family occasion.

Mrs. Blanche Van De Castle is now full-time secretary and shares programming responsibilities. Gus Van De Castle fits in janitorial responsibilities with his high school work. VISTA Volunteer Cheryl Moore from Arlington, Mass is among new faces on the staff.

Mrs. Sandy - Sales trains and supervises the tutorial Project. The director, Miss Fegley, is a member of the Mayor's Task Forces for Human Rights Education and Police Community Relations Committees.

She was also a member of The NCCJ's Police Community Relations Institute in New Jersey Oct. 23-28 and represented Fellowship House in many other activities recently.

Among her plans for the future is a course in history.

Bon voyage party aboard for Mrs. Gundy and Mrs. Epps

Mrs. Leslie Gundy Sr., wife of the Catonsville contractor and Mrs. Orangie Epps, the retired school teacher, left Thursday night on the S. S. Shalom for a Caribbean cruise. They will return Nov. 13.

Mayor and Mrs. McKeldin were also aboard the ship which experienced a bomb scare about 7:40 p.m. when a man notified Port Authority police "there is a bomb in the Mayor's room on the ship."

The Mayor and his party arrived at 8:40 p.m. and the ship sailed after the report was investigated at 10:40 p.m., 40 minutes behind schedule.

• • •

PRIOR TO sailing, Mr. Gundy hosted a champagne bon voyage party for his wife and Mrs. Epps and more than 50 relatives and friends.

The plush affair was in the stateroom of the two vacationers who received gifts and flowers.

A bon voyage party by relatives of Mrs. Epps took place last weekend and showered the two women with gifts.

Among those assisting Mr. Gundy at the party aboard ship were two daugnters and sons-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Henderson and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Sands; a son and daughter -in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gundy Sr. and the Gundy's seven grandchildren.

WASHINGTON SIDELIGHTS

Area Residents Caught In A Social Whirl Over The Week-end

By LILLIAN WIGGINS

WASHINGTON

It was such a hustle and bustle around town this week-end that it was just impossible to cover all of the social happenings. Now that fall has come upon us, the social gatherings . . . luncheons, teas, coffees and winter formals, will surely fill your appointment books until after Christmas.

This crazy mixed up week-end began Friday evening at 8 p.m. when the staff of the Washington AFRO - AMERICAN presented the "First Fall Extravaganza" at the Washington Hilton Hotel. It was an elegant affair and all of the ladies attending were similly fashion plates themselves.

Honored guest for the occasion was Lady Sara Lou Harris Carter, now Lady John Carter, wife of the Ambassador from Guyana. She wore an attractive red evening suit with a black scarf neatly wrapped around her neck, and a dainty red hat to match her outfit.

• • •

PINNING THE corsage and presenting the certificate of gratitude to her was Mrs. Elizabeth Glean Sevoy, regional director of the D.C. Health and Welfare Council. She was dressed in a beautiful chic gold sequin dress with matching accessories, and draping from her shoulders was a gorgeous autumn haze mink stole.

Charming Ruth Sykes of the National Council of Women acted as official embassarie for the lower left section of the ballroom and presented Mrs. Laura Tucker, cultural attache, of the Embassy of Liberia, with a yellow corsage on behalf of the AFRO-AMERICAN.

Always on hand when you need help was Conchita Nakatani, also of the National Council, who graciously served at the door greeting guests and giving out door prize stubs. Attractively dressed in black and coming in to help out at the initial stage was Mrs. Mildred Carr and Mrs. Louise Wilson of the D.C. Cosmetology Board.

Mrs. Wilson who is also president of the District Cosmetologist's Association and has her own beauty establishment at 1916 8th St., NW served as one of the AFRO's official co-hostesses.

Also serving as co-hostesses were Priscilla Yartey of the Ghana Embassy who was smartly dressed in a colorful traditional dress made of two pieces of cloth with a peplum blouse; and Andrea Parkinson of Eastern High School who was dressed in a black chiffon over silk cocktail dress. Miss Parkinson, a native of Guyana, is striving to become a fashion model.

• • •

MABS KEMP, AFRO-columnist, Helen Moody, fashion model and Inez Arredell of Waddel and Reid, Investors, were also on hand in their capacities as elegant co-hostesses.

The fashions presented by Emily Keech of the Hecht Company were delightful and one of the highlights of the presentation was Yeane Sangare of Liberia who was guest model.

The group of ladies present were over-elated with the African fashions shown and vowed to purchase at least one of the garments for casual wear. The African fashions were modeled under scene four . . . Mode L'Africana and one of the most attractive outfits was the two piece evening dress of Kente cloth and the evening coat to match, green in color and trimmed in colorful Kente down the front. The coat also had a matching jade green hood.

MRS. SENGARE was absolutely fabulous and modeled most of the fashions with grace and charm. Mrs. Robinette Sewall, president of the Continental Society presented Mrs. Sengare with a corsage on behalf of the AFRO. Incidentally, Mrs. Sewall was also the winner of the beautiful wig which was presented as a door prize from Continental Wigs, Inc.

Among the Hecht models were charming Lucricia Little, Gloria Proctor Johnson, Nancy Bailey, Lorretta Merridith, Barbara Carter and Pat Smith.

In the last scene of fashions entitled "Bright Night Lights," Lee Flower and Card Shop at 918 U St., NW, designed and made all of the flowers in connection with that presentation. Beautiful weren't they?

After the program ended most of the guests flowed into the AFRO-AMERICAN'S Hospitality Suite which was on the seventh floor of the Hotel. Here most of the guests ate snacks from the buffet table and toasted to the success of Mrs. Mary Stratford who was made managing editor of the Washington AFRO-AMERICAN. For the occasion, Mrs. Stratford was chic in a straight black dress with frills surrounding the tail of the dress with gold accessories. After toasting to her success all of the ladies present cheers to Ruth Jenkins who will now serve as city editor.

• • •

AMONG THE many present for this talk-about occasion was John Murphy III, president of the AFRO chain and his wife; Kenneth Wilson, vice president and national advertising director of the AFRO - AMERICAN and Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Jimmy Williams, advertising manager in the Baltimore office, Mrs. Mae Hurd of the All Sports Club, Mrs. William Brownlee, Mrs. Gwen Quick, Dorothy Gassaway, Thelma Campbell, Mesdames Lois Burns, Gladys Bettis, Grafe Williams, Mary Brame, Cecelia Scott and Evelyn Tarney.

• • •

MRS. BERINE GAIL of the Baltimore staff and niece Carl Ann Lee; Mrs. Freda Scott of Murphy's Supper Club who sang "Storm y Weather." Mrs. Gladys Shell and Mrs. Fannie Girdy, my mother.

• • •

MISS CELESTINE HARRIS, Mrs. Helen Green, Mrs. Verne Means, Mrs. Cecelia Burke, Mrs. Sylvester Haynes, all of the Continental Society; Mrs. Mildred Avery of the MEARPS, and Mrs. Gladys Roberts.

• • •

MRS. R. SHERWOOD of the Afro - American Institute, Mrs. Dorothy Atkinson and Mrs. Helen Safritt of the Alpha Wives.

To all of the many clubs, organizations, community workers, business men and women who helped make this affair a complete success, the AFRO - and yours truly have a special place in our hearts for you and extend a HEARTY THANKS.

Special thanks is in order for Moss Kendrix of Moss Kendrix Public Relations and Market Consultants for donating Coca-Cola, Sprite and Tab to be placed in the 24 Thermo Bags donated also by his firm and to Lloyd Genus of P. Ballantine and Sons for his contribution of product for the hospitality suite and four lovely yard Ballantine Ale glasses.

Thanks to all of our other contributors listed in our souvenir program. . . do us a favor and patronize them.

• • •

Helping to make up the gay atmosphere at the Washington Hilton that same night was the Annual Freedom Fund Ball and Miss NAACP Formal to which several hundred people attended. Isabelle C. Curtis who was sponsored by the Vanguards walked off Queen of the NAACP and giving her a close run was Diane Robinson, who was sponsored by Murphy's Supper Club. Coming third was Antonia Berry who was sponsored by Pitts Hotel and Motel.

The fourth annual Freedom Fund Ball was a huge success and acting as mistress of ceremony was Betty Holton. Music was furnished by Henry Crowder's music team.

Next year, the Freedom Fund Committee hope to have a more and exciting ball. Bruce Dunkins was chairman and Mildred Chiles was vice chairman of the committee.

National Council Honoree Breakfast

The Holiday Inn on Monroe St., NW, was the scene for the National Council Honoree Breakfast, which was held to pay tribute to Misses Dorothy Height and Fannie Granton.

The 8 o'clock Sunday morning breakfast was attended by more than 100 guests, with female guests in the majority. Mrs. Jennie M. Whitby president of the Washington Council of the National Council awarded the plaques to both honorees.

• • •

MISS GRANTON is the assistant to the chief of the Washington Bureau of the Johnson Publishing Company and previously served as the administrative assistant for the Washington Urban Coalition.

She has been in many years of public service with the National Capital Housing Authority as director of Southwest Settlement House; as director of Hester House in Houston Texas, and the Recreation department of the District of Columbia.

• • •

MISS HEIGHT is national president of the National Council of Women, and is one of se ven signers of the statement on "Crisis and Commitment" which recently appeared in the New York Times. This is a restatement of the principles upon which the Civil Rights movement of the last decade was based.

After breakfast there was a panel discussion.

Pharmaceutical Association Auxiliary

The Washington Pharmaceutical Association Auxiliary will hold its fourth annual Youth on Parade luncheon Saturday, November 5 at the Shoreham Hotel. The Auxiliary inaugurated the activity in 1963 as means of recognizing the outstanding civic and scholastic achievements of area teenagers.

To date, the Auxiliary has presented and inspired over forty such young leaders, and has selected an additional few for presentation this year. The winner, chosen by a spin of a wheel, will receive a U. S. Savings Bond. Each honoree will receive a consolation award.

This year's luncheon will be addressed by James Banks, Executive Director, United Planning Organization.

News in Brief:

MRS. CLARA HOPKINS is yet a patient at Freedmen's Hospital and Mrs. Doris Mae of the Navy Department underwent surgery at Freedmen's Wednesday morning.

The Omega Wives will hold their annual luncheon Monday night.

"The Woman of the Year" contest is progressing at a rapid pace and if you have not nominated your choice of "Women of the Year" please hurry up and do so. The luncheon is to take place on November 19, and the judges will begin going over the nominations on November 16.

Clip the coupon from the paper or just simply drop us a line informing us of your nominee with a short biographical sketch. "Let me hear from you."
