AFRO ROVING REPORTER:

The Wests move out; one of last families on Division St.

Wednesday was moving day for the West Family. For the past two years Mr. and Mrs. Jayvee (Hazel) West have lived at 1128 Division St.

"Today most of the houses in the block are boarded up. their tenants gone.

"The City is moving over that area to build new public housing.

With the Wests gone, there is only one more family in the block.

"I have been wanting to get out of this district," Mrs. West said, "but I had not planned on moving this soon".

ALONG WITH other residents, the Wests were given three months notice to vacat.

Mrs. West and her family will move to 1305 Pressman St.

"It is not just what we want but it is a first step. It is a better area," Mrs. West explained.

"The projects will be a good move to better conditions around this area," the busy mother said. There are lots of things going on around here now that should not be".

She voiced concern about having to transfer her school-age children to another school in the middle of the term.

THE CHILDREN are: Darrell, 8, Donnell, 7, and Anthony, 6, now attend School No. 125 at Pennsylvania Ave. and Dolphin St. The other little Wests are Wanda 4, and Eric 2.

Mr. West, now unemployed and under medical care, is an upholsterer.

They are members of St. Philips' Lutheran Church, Jefferson and Caroline Sts.

ASKED ABOUT politics, Mrs. West Averred: "Well I will not vote for Mahoney. I am undecided between the other two."

"And I want to see all of our elected candidates get in the Senate and House," she added.

As the movers brought out the last of the furnishings, a little puppy romped through the house with tail wagging.

A member of the household for a month, he is a she named "Chip".

"Chip is going along with us," Donnell West sang out.

MRS. HAZEL WEST, with Eric, 2, and Donnell, 7, stand by loaded moving van as they prepare to vacate home in the 1100 block Divisin St. to make way for public housing project.

CHARLES MILLER mounts wheel on customer's car after repairing tire.

AFRO ROVING REPORTER

'Shorty' Miller sees his tire business growing

By STERLING PAIGE

Six years in the tire repair business finds Charles Miller fixing between 100 and 125 flats a week in his shop at Calhoun and Gold Streets.

Known to many of his regular customers as "Shorty", Mr. Miller once worked at the Maryland Drydock Co. as a chipper.

He later worked as a cook for the Howard Johnson chain before going to work at a service station at Calhoun and Pressman Sts.

It was there he first came into contact with tires and acquired skill in repairing them.

After operating the station himself for a period of time. Miller closed down and went exclusively into tire repairs and used tires sales.

HOW DOES he like being in business for himself?

"Wonderful," Mr. Miller excalimed. "My business is building all the time. It takes care of my family. I have lots of regular, satisfied customers."

He employs one part time worker in his busy shop.

Mr. Miller and his wife, Dorothy, live at 1825 N. Payson St. with their eight children, Brenda, Charlene, Calvin, Larry, Yvonne Annette, James, Deon, and Mary.

He came to Baltimore in 1943 from his native Snow Hill, N. C.

AFRO roving reporter talks election to voters

The AFRO's Roving Reporter talked election to 81 persons on Thursday morning.

Between 10 and 10:35, he was at Fulton Ave., and Reistertown, Rd., and between 11 and 12:45 he went the length of the hitch rise Lafayette Courts, Asquith and Orleans Sts.

Here is the question he asked: If today was election day, how would you vote for Governor?

Here is the way they responded:

Agnew	48
Mahoney	0
Pressman	3

Another 30 were still undecided as to how they would vote.

14 of the undecided made it clear that Mahoney could not be considered.

MORE THAN half of those who said they would vote for Spiro T. Agnew volunteered they were Democrats.

"This will be my first time voting for a Republican candidate." one resident said. "But I just cannot stomach Mahoney."

On several doors in the housing project were signs reading "Democrats for Agnew."

Other persons apparently confused, stated they did not want to support Mahoney but did not know how to reject him since they were Democrats.

These voiced relief after it was explained they could vote a split ticket, still supporting their local Democratic candidates.

MANY WERE unaware the General Election permitted them to vote for both Republican and Democratic candidates of their choice.

(Ed's Note: They can vote for any candidate they choose regardless of party.)

"I wish I had someone to explain all this to me," one housewife said, and this reporter referred her to the AFRO slate in today's paper.

Ask Pressman withdrawal to aid Agnew victory

Still further citizenship pleas were made this week for the withdrawal of Hyman A. Pressman from the gubernatorial race or governor to aid the defeat of George P. Mahoney.

From the Mahoney home Baltimore County area came his open letter to Mr. Pressman, signed by a group of citizens headed by C. J. Gustner, Piccadilly Rd., Towson:

"We believe your candidacy is increasing the likelihood of a George P. Mahoney victory.

"It is ironic and unfortunate that now every effort needs to be directed toward preventing the election of Mahoney as governor.

"It would be far more ideal for the people of Maryland to be able to support either you or Spiro T. Agnew in a positive way, but he one outstanding issue we must face is that if Mahoney is elected the entire state will suffer under his misguided and inadequate leadership.

"At this stage of the campaign, only a dramatic event might have sufficient impact to keep Maryland from taking a giant step backwards.

"Recognizing your many services to the people of Baltimore, we ask you to further serve the people of Maryland by withdrawing from the gubernatorial race in favor of Spiro T. Agnew.

"We feel this would be your greatest expression of loyalty and devotion to the people."

Numerous groups in Baltimore have appealed to Mr. Pressman to pull out of the race, pointing out that he has no chance at all to win.

Va. teacher groups to merge

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Virginia's racially separated teacher organizations will consolidate into a united teacher front Jan. 1 after convention delegates of both groups voted solidly for a merger.

The Virginia Teachers Association Convention delegates voted 217-7 Thursday for the merger, following on the heels of Wednesday night's Virginia Education Association Convention vote of 1,229 - 25 for merger.

The Virginia Education Association faced suspension from the National Education Association for its former, mostly segregated organization.

A GOOD CITIZEN is registered and VOTES. Prepare NOW to VOTE in the General Election, Tuesday, Nov. 8, 1966.

Mrs. Hernandez mum on quitting U.S. post

Mrs. Aileen Clarke Hernandez was mum last week on reasons why she is quitting her $26,000, post as commissioner of the U. S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

During a visit to Baltimore when she addressed the annual luncheon of Woman Power, Mrs. Hernandez told the AFRO her reasons are "very personal."

She declined comment when asked if previously published reports which hinted that she is disenchanted with the enforcement of provisions of the commission were true.

"The newspapers said that I didn't," she told a reporter, adding:

"I will have nothing to say until the President has seen my resignation.

At the time President Johnson was on a 17-day tour of Asian nations.

Her resignation, effective Nov. 19 will not be reconsidered, Mrs. Hernandez said.

Reacting to reports that her husband is remaining with the government, the attractive commissioner smiled.

"If there is a Mr. Hernandez in government, I hope he doesn't get hurt by my leaving.

"You see, my husband I are divorced and as far as I know he's not working for the government. He's in California."

Archives to get assassin's tools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark this week ordered all evidence considered by the Warren Commission in its investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy preserved permanently in the National Archives.

The hundreds of items included the high-powered 6.5 Mannlicher-Carcano rifle with the telescopic sight which the commission said was used by Lee Harvey Oswald to slay Kennedy.

Clark said he decided to save everything in order to "assure the availability, both now and in the future, of the evidence concerning the assassination of President Kennedy."

—Shoot first plan

rens' complaints of such tactics have touched off riots in other cities.

In a sharply contradictory statement just a week ago, Mahoney sought to explain away his racist "castle" campaign theme by saying it was meant to protect citizen's homes against police raids such as those in the Veney case.

His shoot-hit first plan would be far worse than the Veney raids.

As governor, Mr. Mahoney would have the power to instigate this type of police methods.

Maryland's governor appoints both Baltimore's police Commissioner and the state police's superintendent, and thus technically controls both departments.

EARLIER, Mr. Mahoney had to eat another campaign statement which announced he favored a far more stronger gun control law for the state.

This has always been a touchy subject in the eyes of sportsmen and members of the strong National Rifle Association.

In taking back what he was supposed to have said, Mr. Mahoney alain revealed he personally does not answer questions.

"I was asked," he said in referring to a newspaper account of the statement, "to answer to a long questionnaire concerning my views on a great variety of issues.

"The answers were prepared by my public relations staff."

Mr. Mahoney has so far steadfastly refused to appear for public questioning or candidates' debate, but has sent representatives instead.

MEANWHILE, NUMEROUS Democratic groups, as well as Republican Party faithfuls, are rallying their forces to stimulate a big turnout at the polls Tuesday, in support of Spiro T. Agnew for governor.

A high voter turnout is seen by those alarmed at the apparent strength of the Mahoney following.

With Tuesday's general election just four days away more and more organizations are coming out for Ted Agnew for governor.

Here are some of them: Maryland Dental Society, Me-De-So Club, Funeral Directors and Morticians Association, Monumental Lodge Organization in Cherry Hill, and the Maryland chapter of The National Association of Social Workers.

Maryland has $402,283 for training 290

Federal funds amounting to $402,283 have been released for four more institutional job-training programs for Maryland under the Manpower Development and Training Act.

The announcement was made jointly by U.S. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and U.S. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare John W. Gardner.

The courses are designed to train 290 jobless individuals in Baltimore and Cambridge in skills for which there are local demands.

The newly approved projects are listed below by City, number of trainees, occupation, length of course, cost and sponsor:

Baltimore, 100, Police (reserve pult), 21 weeks, $129,581, Baltimore City Dept. Voc. Ed.

Baltimore, 50, Auto Mechanic (entry), 49 weeks, $129,551, Baltimore City Dept. Voc. Ed.

Baltimore, 50, Welder Arc (Entry), 21 weeks, $71,715, Baltimore City Dept. Voc. Ed.

Cambridge, 90, Nurse Aide Orderly, 13 weeks, $71,436, Eastern Shore State Hospital.

Before these job-training programs were initiated, the Department of Labor in cooperation with the Maryland State Employment Service determined that employment opportunities existed for workers in the skills for which they will be trained.

Local Employment Security Offices have the responsibility for selecting, counseling, testing and placing the trainees.

Miss Ilise Russell, a student at Taft Jr. High, hopes to join the Armed Forces when she is eligible.

Mrs. Russell's other two sons have also seen military action. Herbert Jr., 34, was a Paratrooper in the early 1950's, seeing action in the Korean Conflict. He is now a minister in Indiana.

The other son, 32-year old Wallace, is a local resident who saw action in the Navy.

have studied at the feet of Governor Wallace but much of his campaign literature and his campaign speeches "Your Home Is Your Castle, Protect It."

He uses the slogan to oppose the Johnson administrations program for open housing. He says:

"If an open housing bill is passed . . . I am in complete opposition. I promise to veto any state bill which takes away the right of a homeowner to sell or rent his property to whomever he wants. Your home is your castle."

At Democratic Convention

Mr. Mahoney, accepting the nomination of the Democratic State Convention on Oct. 13, 1966, said:

"I have saved this for the last because it is very very important. I say, 'a man's home is his castle' and I say it reverently.

"Your home, and yours, and yours—I don't care what color your skin happens to be or whether you have green hair. I don't care what the name of your religion is or where you came from. Your home is your castle. If anyone says otherwise he is trying to cheat you of a constitutional right.

"We are coming out fighting for what we stand for and you had better believe it."

Denies link with Wallace

Mr. Mahoney denied Monday that he was associated with Governor Wallace or any of the other Southern governors.

Governor Wallace went on to say, "and the man who is nominated in Georgia (segregationist Lester Maddox) said he will stand with Alabama. The same is true of the candidate for Governor in Louisiana.

Wallace expects segregationist governors to support his for President in 1968.

Mr. Mahoney never used racist theme before in his races and the way he has employed it this year has resulted in the racist tag being attached to him, despite his denials.
