Mister, here's your bourbon.

It's made by hand.
With meticulous care.
The hopelessly antiquated, disgustingly
old-fashioned way.
Made by men who know good corn and won't take less. Who stop making whiskey when their limestone pond drops below the "perfect bourbon water" level.
If you've never tasted hand made Kentucky whiskey, try Henry McKenna. It's bourbon, Mister.
Could be your bourbon.

Volunteers clear neighborhood lot

By ROGER J. NISSLY

Community action is more than a pleasant-sounding phrase to the neighbors and parents in the vicinity of Rodgers Elementary School 27, at Fayette and Chester Sts.

All summer the residents and children in the area were faced ith a vast rubble-filled lot, which was unsafe for play, littered with broken bottles, garbage and rocks.

The property had been acquired and the buildings demolished for the erection of an addition to the school, but construction is not scheduled to begin until March.

* * *

THAT WAS before the arrival of Miss Joy Magezis, one of three VISTA workers assigned to the school.

As a community action project, Miss Magezis and Principal Harold Katz encouraged plans to do something about the dangerous lot.

Shortly the plans crystallized into two massive clean-up days, Oct. 12 and 14.

On the first day nearly all of the school's 1,100 children participated, on 30-minute stints under supervision of teachers.

On the second day, about 35 youths used their vacation day—while a teachers' convention was in progress—to help clear the lot of debris.

A 16-MEMBER education class at Towson State College, meeting at the school and taught by Mrs. Mary Taylor, also volunteered services.

Miss Magezis estimated that seven truckloads of rubble, collected by the youthful rake and shovel wielders, were removed by a Department of Education truck.

The 19 - year - old Newark, N. J. native said that the efforts of the school are directed toward getting parents and neighbors to "understand that this is their area, the grounds and building belong to them."

THE LOT surrounding three sides of the school is now safe for football for the older youths and for running and playing by the younger ones.

Hopefully the neighbors have learned that they can do something to change the face of the community, according to the young VISTA worker.

Realizing the lack of bargaining power inner-city residents have (as evidenced by a 90-year-old annex to the school that is still used), she noted that a group has been formed to push for the completion of the new addition by the date it has been promised: two years from now.

Drawing all its children from the immediate vicinity extending several blocks in each direction, the school approaches the concept of community school.

ANOTHER VISTA worker teaches sewing classes in the school and many of the neighbors are taking adult education courses.

Mr. Katz observed that beside stirring community interest, such projects build self confidence and pride, and "pride in the community is really pride in yourself."

He added also that, "although most of it wasn't being done by our children, there has been a sharp drop in the number of rocks thrown through the school windows.

PLACE TO PLAY — With only a rock and bottle-strewn lot on which to play, youngsters in the area of Rodgers Elementary School 27 in East Baltimore spent two days clearing the large plot of ground and making it safe.
