Delinquency everybody's problem, Mrs. Banton

'The enormity of the problem is too big to sweep under the rug . . .now the whole community is faced with delinquency. . .no longer can you push the total job on professionals. .the job of prevention has to be returned to the community.'

THE SPEAKER WAS Mrs. Dorothy Nicholson Banton, Claymont, Del., where she is superintendent of the Woodshaven School for Girls, an intergrated state institution.

She was speaking at the annual breakfast for women and girls of St. James P. E. Church, held at the Alcazar. The Sunday breakfast meeting followed corporate communion at the church.

To solve problems of juvenile delinquency, Mrs. Banton suggested citizens must be mobilized and all social agencies work in partnership with them.

She observed there is a change in the character of delinquency. There is more waywardness, more incorrigible youngsters.

A larger proportion of youngsters are committed for narcotics and there is large-scale larceny, forgery, fraud, serious demage to property etc.

The 140 training schools in the U.S. serve only 50,000 children, 'a small part of the two million known to police and probation officials on any given day.'

• • •

CHILDREN IN institutions represent a high cost to the taxpayer, 150 million a year and there is a projected increase of 26 per cent for next year.

It is mandatory, she added, for citizens to recognize their responsibility find out the extent of the problem in their community and volunteer their services in all areas.

'You have vested interest in the development of children in your community. in your community.

'Unless the least of us is able to move up to the great society, none of us is in a great society.'

• • •

The breakfast meeting was sponsored by St. Mary's Guild of which Mrs. Geneva Ward is warden; Mrs. Hilda Higgins and Mrs. Anethia Williams, were co-chairmen.

Other committee members were: Mrs. Elmira Collins, Mrs. Genevieve Roy, Mrs. Ethel Covington and Mrs. Ivora Gibson.

The junior choir sang under the direction of Mrs. Lois Pickens. Father Donald O. Wilson, offered prayer.

Beauty Tips

Being a shower fan need not deprive you of the pleasantries of the bath ritual. Before you shower, give yourself a rub-down with baby oil to sooth and relax tired muscles while it softens you skin.

Begin the shower with warm water, scrubbing all over with a loofah (large spong mit) to beautify your skin by increasing the circulation to the skin's surface and rubbing away the dry dead skin cells.

Gradually turn the water to cool, and finally cold. After you emerge shiny clean and dry off with a terry towel, re-shower yourself, right down to your toes, with baby powder — the softest powder in the world. It's a marvelous way to begin any day!
