Mat king Sammartino hurls challenge at Clay

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — If heavyweight champion Cassius Clay is looking for new worlds to conquer, a challenger has come forth in the form of a heavyweight wrestling champion, Bruno Sammartino.

Sammartino, who holds the World Wide Wrestling Federation (WWWF) title, would like to meet Clay on Clay's terms with Clay guaranteed $250,000 as his half of the purse in the mixed bout.

* * *

Promoter Willie Gilzenberg issued the challenge in behalf of Sammartino and showed a certified check for $10,000 he would allow to be held in escrow to prove the sincerity of the offer.

Gilzenberg said he was willing to promote the match in either Atlantic City, Newark or Teaneck, N.J., and that another promoter, Vince McMahon of Washington, also had offered to stage it in either Philadelphia or Washington.

* * *

THIS IS not the first time a heavyweight wrestler has challenged a heavyweight boxing champion.

Ed (Strangler) Lewis wanted to take on Jack Dempsey and after Tony Galento turned from boxing to wrestling he sought a mixed match with Joe Louis. But nothing ever came of the challenges — just as nothing is likely to come from this latest one.

Douglass-Carver clash a toss-up

The Douglass Carver football game is slated for this afternoon (Friday) at Kirk Field and, as often happens in this traditional clash, the outcome looms as a toss-up.

At stake is the Sylvester W. Ginn Trophy, being contested a 43rd time between elevens of the two schools.

Douglass, having won the 6-0 decision two years ago, is currently in possession of the prize. The game was not played last year because of the Maryland Scholastic Association's placing of the two schools in separate divisions.

DOUGLASS HOLDS a distinct bulge in the series. The Ducks have won 28 of the meetings as opposed to ten for the Cubs. There have been four ties.

In the last four years, the score is 2 - 1 - 1 in favor of Douglass under coach Roy Cragway.

CRAGWAY, DESPITE Carver's winless mark for the season, is wary about the Cubs. Coach Charley Robinson of Carver, on the other hand, dismisses his team as a serious threat to the Ducks.

MIKE JOHNSON
'one of dedicated few'

"Our scout reports," says Roy, "indicate that Carver is not as bad as the record shows. Our interpretation of the picture is that they are simply experiencing an off year and that they may come to life at any minute.

"You know the saying that in certain games past performances can be thrown out the window. This is surely the case in this one: The records mean nothing."

ROBINSON, HOWEVER, disagrees. "We're just not in a proper attitude about the season," he laments.

"We're not winning and we're showing no incentive to try. Of course, it has been a disappointing year for everybody, but it upsets me to see youngsters making the same mistakes today that they were making at the beginning of the season.

"The spirit seems to be gone. We get maybe 13 or 15 boys out for practice. The others simply wait for the day of a game and they show up, so throwing we are compelled to play them because we have nobody else.

"As a result, we play a pretty good quarter of football. After that, since they're not in shape, we get tired and the other fellows run over us."

EXCEPT FOR a few hard-working youngsters, Robbie continues, the Cubs have neither the desire nor the inclination to hit.

"Mike Johnson, our captain, is one of the dedicated few. He's on the job all the time, wants to play, tries to induce the other boys to come around. I wish we had more like him."

WHEREAS CARVER is handicapped by the lack of interest on the part of the players, Douglass may be reduced to a similar manpower shortage by an injury problem.

Right end Charles Peterson will be out of action with a broken leg. Halfback Dewey Wright is suffering with rib fractures and scatback Ron Epps is sporting a bum knee.

According to Cragway, Peterson is definitely lost. But Wright and Epps may have to be pressed into service... LACY.

CANADIAN WHISKY, A BLEND OF GRAIN SPIRITS, IMPORTED AND BOTTLED BY THE WINDSOR DISTILLERY COMPANY, NEW YORK, N.Y.

More power, fewer tricks for Tony Lorick of Colts

BALTIMORE

There was a time back in his earlier glory days at Fremont High School in Los Angeles and at Arizona State that Tony Lorick considered himself more of a scatback than an up-the-middle guy. Now, almost 35 pounds later, his conception of Lorick the runner has undergone a drastic change.

That change for the better, he hopes, will prevail Sunday as Lorick and the Baltimore Colts tackle the Lions in Detroit.

* * *

"SURE," recalled Tony, "I ran track in high school. Wasn't everyone a sprinter in high school? I ran a respectable 100-yard dash but I wasn't going to challenge any of Boby Hayes' records. And I was growing. I weighed about 185 pounds in those days and now I'm pushing 220.

"Now don't get the impression I've slowed to a walk My speed still isn't bad-especially over a 40 or 50-yard stretch. I've run 40 yards in 4-7 seconds in training camp-but it's after those 40 yards that I realize I'm not quite as swift as I used to be. There's no more tricky stuff, either. I'm strictly a power runner and I like it this way."

* * *

AS A "power" fullback the 6-1, 218-pound Lorick has been maintaining a better than four-yard average per carry while leading the Baltimore ground-gainers through the first nine games of 1966, the last seven of which he's started.

Injuries had limited him to 296 yards last fall after he'd rush for 513 yards as a rookie two years ago.

"Tony's been healthy all the way," testifies Colts offensive backfield coach Don McCafferty, "and that's been important to us. Jerry Hill, who had been playing No. 1 fullback for us, has already been sidelined with a broken hand and bruised ribs so the load fell on Lorick. Under this pressure he's done everything we've asked of him."

* * *

"ANY SUCCESS I've had this season," said Tony, "must be attributed to regular work. I depend upon a quick getaway to pick up a lot of my yardage and fine timing is essential if I hit too late the hole's gone.

"My timing now is real good and sa I continue to play I'm seeing things in defenses that I never saw before. I'm certainly recognizing the cracks in the line as holes better than I did before. Even my blocking - including pass protection-has improve with the increased action.

"I know I could be a better receiver but I really don't get much of a chance to concentrate on pass - catching during our regular drills. When we stress specialties I get in as much catching as possible. I like the idea of steady work and I want to be able to do it all-as it should be done."

Mister, here's your bourbon

It's made by hand.
With meticulous care.
The hopelessly antiquated, deliciously old-fashioned way.
Made by men who know good corn and won't take less. Who stop making whiskey when their limestone pond drops below the "perfect bourbon water" level.
If you've never tasted hand made Kentucky whiskey, try Henry McKenna. It's bourbon, Mister. Could be your bourbon.

H. McKenna Distillery, Fairfield, Kentucky. Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey. 86 Proof. Six Years Old.

Clemente was, but wasn't Surprised by selection?

CAROLINA, P. R. (UPI) —Roberto Clemente, the first Latin American ballplayer to be selected as the National League's most valuable player, said Wednesday he was surprised at the selection although he did suspect he would be in the running.

Clemente, who said he first learned of the award when a newsman called his Carolina home late Tuesday night from New York, added he was greatly honored by th award.

* * *

"I HAD an idea I would be selected, said the Pittsburgh outfielder, relaxing at his father's home here, "although I was surprised by the news because no other Latin player had ever won it before."

Cemente said he had no plans at the moment to return to the United States but would certainly return when an award presentation date had been set.

MVP NO. 13 — Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates, this week was voted "most valuable player" of the National League by members of the Baseball Writers Association. The choice of the slender Puerto Rican marked the 13th time in the last 18 years that the MVP ranks have been integrated.
