POLICE SLURS PROMPT PROBE

LITTLE MR. UNKNOWN — This baby boy, said by South Baltimore General Hospital's Dr. Albert Miller to be less than a day old, was found abandoned in a trash disposal Tuesday morning in the 2800 block Spellman Rd., Cherry Hill. Except for a cold from exposure, the baby was in good health. He is being held by one of the hospital's nurses, Miss Jessie Smith, 2000 block W. Mosher St., but since has been transferred to City Hospitals.

Ray Charles fined 10G for dope

BOSTON (UPI) — Blind jazz singer Ray Charles Tuesday was fined $10,000, was given a suspended sentence of five years in jail and was placed on probation for four years on narcotic charges.

The 35-year-old Charles pleaded guilty a year ago to charges of possession of marijuana and heroin.

Charles was arrested in October 1965 when he stepped out of his private plane at Logan International Airport after a flight from Canada. He was sentenced by U. S. District Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Edward J. Lee recommended during a hearing a year ago that Charles be fined $10,000 and be sentenced to two years in jail. However, the late Judge George C. Sweeney put off sentencing for a year to provide Charles with a chance to prove he had kicked drug addiction.

That move was taken after noted psychiatrist, Dr. Daniel P. Griffin asked that Charles be prevented from leaving the U.S. since "drugs are too easy to obtain in foreign countries, although I know they can be procured here too."

Redmond contended Charles often has entertaining engagements abroad.

Judge Wyzanski also ordered Charles be examined by government doctors at McClean Hospital every six months during his probation.

Last word on 'missing' bus

The Greyhound bus that was reported stolen from the bus terminal at Howard and Centre Sts. Sunday morning has been found, or at least located.

The dispatcher, Robert Snyder, who reported the bus stolen, called police Tuesday to tell them that the $50,000 bus had been misplaced through a clerical error.

According to the police Auto Squad, Mr. Snyder stated the previous Sunday had been unfounded, since the regular driver drove away without signing out for the bus, causing him to think it had been stolen.

The original report lacked the license number of the bus, but described it as gray and white, with the words "Greyhound" on both sides.

Now the bus has been located, but for three days bus officials thought someone had taken seriously their slogan advising to "Take a bus," forgetting the part about "and leave the driving to us."

RAT BITE VICTIMS of the Bryant family, 1037 Sarah Ann St., have accumulated a total of 10 bites in the last two months. Standing in front is Joseph, aged three, and a half years. Behind him (from left) are: Billy, 5, Bertha, 10, and Edward, 17.

Children scream in night as biting rats attack them

By ROGER J. NISSLY

"The children screamed. The little fellow was really scared when he got bit."

Mrs. Jerlean Bryant described the terrifying experience of having her four children bitten by rats.

The oldest child, Edward, 17, she said, "came down with so much blood dripping down his arm I couldn't tell where he was bitten. We finally saw it was on his elbow."

The rat bites have occurred over the past two months in 10 separate incidents as the children were asleep in their beds.

MRS. BRYANT said she first complained to her landlord about the rats in her house at 1037 Sarah Ann St. almost two months ago, but it was not until last Saturday that the first man came to put out some poison.

She first complained when the "rats got so bad you (could) see them running around and hear them crying," and the next day her daughter, Bertha, 10, was bitten in her sleep. That same night two of her brothers were bitten.

Since then Bertha has collected two more bites and

Leaders fear tactics may spark riot

By GEORGE W. COLLINS

Will the Tactical Squad stop riots — or start them?

That is the question uppermost in the minds of some community leaders in wake of published reports of highly questionable conduct of a Tactical Squad patrolman during the arrest of two women earlier this week.

According to published eyewitness accounts of the arrests by two newspaper reporters, Patrolman Leroy Phillips of the Tactical Squad told Miss Cikie Meda, "Shut up, you n----r; if you were a man I'd knock your head off."

Patrolman Phillips figured in the news last February when he defied instructions from his commander, Western District Capt. Dennis P. Mello, to be photographed with his partner, Patrolman Anthony Williams, who was among the first colored officers assigned to a Radio Car.

Through the efforts of now-retired Inspector Millard B. Horton, Patrolman Phillips was subsequently assigned to the Tactical Squad.

The latest racially-tinted incident involving Patrolman Phillips has triggered demands for Commissioner Donald D. Pomerleau to take a "hard look" at the caliber and conduct of policemen who make up the Tactical Squad.

A damage suit against another officer assigned to this squad is pending.

* * *

PRINCIPAL DUTIES of the squad include controlling street incidents involving large — and sometimes — explosive crowds.

Through accident or design of the city's geography, these incidents usually occur in the inner city.

Usually too, participants and spectators are colored. As has been the pattern of other metropolitan areas, leaders fear that questionable conduct of policemen responding to such incidents will enrage spectators, setting off wide spread disorder and possibly massive rioting.

Fourth District City Councilman Henry G. Parks Jr. had this reaction to the published accounts of the officer's conduct:

"If these reports are true, that officer and others of his ilk pose a greater threat to the peace and safety of the community than criminals."

Mr. Parks, who has consistently urged higher pay and better working conditions for police officers in order to attract men of high caliber, added:

"It is vitally important that officers responding to street disturbances conduct themselves in a manner which reflects credit on the department.

"Otherwise the breach between citizens and policemen will grow wider leading only to disorder and chaos. We don't need that or those who cause it."

Mrs. Santa benefit concert at Masonic Temple Dec. 4

If we needed any reminder that the joyous season of the year is rapidly approaching — and who possibly could with Thanksgiving officially ushering in the Christmas shopping season—Mrs. Santa did just that this week.

As she has for the past eight years, the AFRO's Mrs. Santa is prodding the conscience of the more fortunate to remember that while they will enjoy a Christmas blessed with abundance and cheer, there are hundreds who will not.

For them Christmas will only renew their already keen awareness that they are among the have-nots. In many instances, as letters to Mrs. Santa indicate, this includes the barest necessities.

An example:

"Dear Mrs. Santa, please give us a basket for Christmas. I am mother of nine children. My husband is out of work and the little money we get is not enough to buy food and pay rent.

"The children have to stay home from school because they don't have shoes and clothes. We never have enough food.

"I won't be able to get them toys or clothes for Christmas, but I hope I can give them a decent meal. Won't you please help us?"

ALTHOUGH THE demand is always greater than the supply, Mrs. Santa has made it an annual Christmas project to see that as many deserving families as possible have a "decent meal" at Christmas.

She also sponsors, for the benefit of underprivileged children, a Christmas party.

Again this year Mrs. Santa is counting on the help of generous citizens, who have responded magnificently in the past to her appeal to help the needy.

In addition to appealing for contributions, Mrs. Santa is sponsoring a religious con-

21,727 see City take rival Poly by 42 to 6

Explosive running by halfback John Sykes plus smart and smooth quarterbacking by Kurt Schmoke gave City College its second one-sided victory in as many years over Poly in their 69th Turkey Day clash.

The 42-6 score was almost as bad as last year's 52-6.

City outclassed Poly all the way before 21,727 in Memorial Stadium to gain a tie for the Maryland Scholastic Association A Conference title with Calvert Hall who downed Loyola, 22-0 Thursday morning.

Sykes, taking advantage of good blocking in the line, made four of City's six TD's and two of the three 2-pointers after scoring.

SYKES RAN over from seven yards out to cap a 63-yard drive in the first quarter.

The only other scoring in the first period came as fullback Wayne Murray bowled opponents over on a 15-yard run. The scoring chance was set up when City recovered a Poly fumble on the latter's 26.

Sykes' next TD was a six-

Sen. Welcome's slate gets key offices; Parks 'walks'

By MAX JOHNSON

In an unexpected coup for the liberal forces of this city, the election of officers Monday evening brought a complete shakeup of the top of the prominent 4th District Democratic Organization.

The new officers put the ruling forces of this key political club solidly in the hands of Sen. Verda F. Welcome, one of its founders.

Sen. Welcome admittedly chose five of the seven immediate new officials elected, was in strong agreement for the other two and had a firm hand in shaping the board of directors.

Persistent reports during the past months told of intra-organizational unrest, with at least two warning factions at odds.

SEN. VERDA WELCOME

Earlier in the year, Senator-elect Clarence M. Mitchell 3rd pulled out of the organization in a dispute over support of Thomas B. Finan or Carlton R. Sickles in the gubernatorial primary.

Mr. Mitchell resisted all inducements to return, and has since formed his own organization.

* * *

THE ELECTION Monday knocked out David T. Mason as chairman of the board of directors, and Lloyal Randolph, who had been president since the club's inception six years ago.

Also ousted from the 1st vice president post was Charles E. (Mouse) Dorsey, a close friend of Mr. Randolph.

He was replaced by Boyd Criscoe.

Mr. Mason's post was not immediately filled, but elected president over Mr. Randolph was Abner Lee, an inspector for the city's Board of Liquor License Commissioners.

Mr. Randolph is acting chief clerk at the Supervisors of Elections and has been a prominent leader in Democratic circles here for many years.

The ousting of Mr. Randolph brought ruffled feelings that resulted in at least two notable reported walkouts during the election.

Councilman Henry G. Parks Jr., a former board member, arose to say he wanted his name taken out

'I like to play Morgan,' declares coach of Va. team drubbed 65 to 0

By SAM LACY

PETERSBURG, Va. — "They're a fine football team. We simply are no match for them."

That was the manner in which W. W. Lawson, veteran coach of the Virginia State College Trojans, summed up Thursday's 65-0 loss to Morgan State College here before a relatively small crowd of Thanksgiving Day celebrants.

IN THE face of the score and the backward look at the day's developments, Lawson's appraisal could be one of the understatements of the college football season. But it requires great courage to be gracious in the wake of the most severe drubbing your team has suffered in 27 years of coaching.

In the 12 years he has been here at Virginia State, and in the 15 years at Allen University before coming here, Lawson had never seen his charges humbled to the tune of 65 points. Last year, the Bears hung it on the local eleven 53-0 in Baltimore, but the beating here Thursday was more thorough, almost brutal.

* * *

"IT MAY sound strange coming from a coach who wants to win as much as anybody," Lawson told the AFRO moments after a merciful time-keeper's gun had stopped the slaughter, "but I like to play Morgan.

"They come to play. They play hard, clean football — nothing dirty, nothing under-
