Dunbar, Douglass 5's see dim days

Indications are that dark days have fallen upon Dunbar and Douglass high schools, particularly with respect to the 1966-67 Maryland Scholastic Association basketball season.

Coming on the heels of disastrous football campaigns for both, it if understandable that coaches at the two schoo's are sharing a pessimism that has not been felt among them in many years.

Coaches Sugar Cain at Dunbar, and John Nash at Douglass, virtually throw up their hands when questioned about the outlook for their quints in the upcoming MSA schedule.

"WE DID an unprecedented thing last year along with City," say Cain. "Our two schools met in all three playoffs—for the varsity championship, for the junior varsity title and for the freshman-sophomore crown. Never before had all three of these been contested by the same two schools.

"But I'm rather sure it won't happen again this year. At least, it is fairly safe to assume that it won't be Dunbar—although we'll be trying with everything we have.

• • • •

"THERE ARE only four boys back from last year's varsity team, and none of these was a starter. Isaiah Hemphill and Joe Hall started in the final game of the championship series against City, but this was an emergency measure.

"Robert Snilkins and Larry Winkler are the other two of the four. Oh, yes," Cain added, "Alvin Thomas also was on that squad but he was not a first-line player, either.

"WE HAVE some pretty promising youngsters up from JV, like Rod Harper, Elmer Green and Lewis Davis. But it also must be remembered that City's junior varsity beat us in the playoff, and their boys will be moving up too.

Everything considered, it looks pretty dark for us at this point," the Poet tutor lamented.

AT DOUGLASS, Nash combined his own inexperience at varsity tutoring with a lack of height and outstanding talent, to paint an equally discouraging picture.

"We're struggling to get ready with what we have for our opener—a non-league affair — with Carver on the 9th.

"The boys have excellent spirit and I'm sure they'll put out for me. They're a fine bunch."

NASH, WHO is in his first year of succeeding Roy Cragway as Duck mentor, will be calling upon Steve Allison, Al Johnson, Lorenzo McNeill and a pair of 1965 reserves, Eddie and Joe Green, to form the nucleus for his upcoming squad.

Best among the junior varsity prospects perhaps, are Mike Carter and Don Grey. Carter showed signs last year of developing into a capable man under the boards, and Gray — though only 5-8—may be counted upon as a scoring threat—LACY.

Bears beaten in debut, play Panthers Sat.

Morgan State College basketers dropped their opening game of the 1966-67 season Thursday night, but coach Brutus Wilson expressed confidence that brighter days are in store for the Bears.

"We'll jell in time," the veteran Bear mentor said after his young quint dropped a 70-65 decision to Hampton in the CIAA debut at Hurt gym. Morgan entertains Virginia Union tomorrow (Saturday) night.

"I think we have the makings of a pretty good unit," Wilson went on. "We lost (Lee) Cornish, but Bobby Gordon is back and rapidly getting in shape.

• • •

"ADDITONALLY, Jeff O'Neal from last year's squad, and James Hall, our captain, are showing signs of improvement. O'Neal did a fine job for us last year. He could be better.

"Completing the first five are Nathen Murphy, who played here two years ago before entering the military service, and Charles Denby, a highly promising center.

• • • •

"SOME OTHERS who are certain to come along and help are Ernest Thompson, a kid from Douglass High; Lovett Tucker a backcourt prospect from Boston, and Earl Holmes, a 6-4 forward from Hampton, Va.

"It may take a game or two, but I like what I see ..." LACY.

Five Collegians given berths on '66 squad, two QB's are named

By SAM LACY

City—College and McDonogh School claim the major spoils in the 1966 AFRO All-High football selections.

The Collegians grabbed five berths on the 12 - man squad, with McDonogh picking up three, as did Calvert Hall, which tied the public school champions 20-20 in their historic meeting at Kirk Field last month.

• • •

WITH CITY taking five slots McDonogh and Calvert Hall gaining three apiece, it left but one berth open in the exclusive ranks set up by the AFRO Sports Department. That lone remaining assignment went to Poly.

The unusual aspect of a 12-man football squad was brought about by the impossible task of differentiating between the nominees for the quarterback position.

Kurt Schmoke of City, and Rich Sterba of Calvert Hall, are rated head and shoulders above the rest of the scholastic reinsmen. But they are so closely talented that it was deemed no more than fair that they should share the honor.

• • •

JOINING SCHMOKE as representatives of City on the mythical aggregation are halfback John Sykes, tackle Carroll Hulls, guard Curt Anderson and end Tom Gatewood.

Calvert Hall teammates of Sterba are end Scott Williams and guard Larry Herzog.

McDonogh's threesome is composed of fullback Richard Hogg, center Mike Rashkind and tackle Bill Ellis.

Halfback Wilton Glenn is the lone entry from Poly.

IN WEIGHING the merits of the two quarterbacks, AFRO selectors were faced with the job of separating two of the finest schoolboy signal-callers ever seen in the Maryland Scholastic Association.

Rival coaches were polled in an effort to reach a rating of one over the other, but everything proved futile. Boiled down, it came up to a case of determining whether the preference should go to Sterba, who is the better passer, or to Schmoke, the superior runner.

In ball - handling, there was little to choose between them. And the same held true in play selection. The Sykes held stature as the only way out.

• • •

OTHERWISE, THE selections—except in one or two cases — were not too difficult to make.

At ends, Gatewood and Williams picked up most of the attention.

The former was the favorite target of Schmoke as City rolled up an unbeaten record behind the passing of Kurt and the strength of a good running attack. Williams, by the same token, was Sterba's most reliable catcher. Both did outstanding jobs as blockers and were adequate on defense when occasion demanded.

• • •

THE CITY and Calvert Hall wingmen survived an early contest with some high-class ends from elsewhere.

Tops among these were Gilman's Phil Lehr and Sam Cross, Edmondson's Lou Cherry, Al Johnson of Douglass, and Jimmy Gjeseve of Patterson.

IN PICKING City's Hulls and McDonogh's Ellis, the AFRO selectors grabbed a pair of tackles they feel confident will go on to become outstanding college athletes.

The Collegian star is a repeater from last year's AFRO squad, and Ellis showed the same type of aggressive play that made his big running mate on the mythical squad a standout.

Their talents had to be in multiple form in order to take the nod from such fine performers as City's Dom Gray, Loyola's Jeff Mann, Edmondson's Arnold Crippen and Poly's captain, Jerry Sroka.

• • •

AT GUARDS, Anderson, who captained the City College eleven, won the vote in a virtual landslide. He was pursued by Herzog, the splendid young performer at Calvert Hall, and by Chris Legg, a promising Gilman future.

Mike Rashkind of McDonogh, did an excellent job of leading the offensive blocking and was a defensive stalwart as well.

His closest rivals from all-star placing were Richard Mozley of Mt. St. Joe, and James Butler of Edmondson.

• • •

PLAYING THE halfback slots with either Schmoke or Sterba on the AFRO's 1966 star act, are City's Sykes and Poly's Glenn.

In just about every MSA gymnasium in Baltimore, Sykes held stature as the finest halfback in service. He was a do-everything for the Collegians, running and catching with equal facility.

And Glenn, though victimized along with the rest of his Engineer mates in that horrendous 42-6, Thanksgiving avalanche ignited by City, was a fixture from the start. He was the top scorer in the conference and otherwise deported himself as a great collete prospect.

OTHER HALFBACKS winning mention were Tyrone Hill of Forest Park, John Buras of Southern, Skip Shifflett of Poly, Stewart Simms of Gilman, and Sylvester Epps of Douglass.

Behind the stellar McDonogh fullback Hogg are three good-looking youngsters in Edmondson's Ted Fickling, Southern's Eric Nielson and Patterson's co-captain, Joe Alits.

College cage series opens at Civic, Thurs.

The first of five Civic Center basketball double-headers will be played December 8, beginning at 7:30 p.m. when local collegiate rivals, Towson State and University of Baltimore clash.

In the second encounter, Mt. St. Mary's of Emmitsburg faces its stiffest foe of the young season in the University of Miami Hurricanes posted a 15-11 record last winter and has six returning lettermen. Here briefly is a capsule of the four (4) teams playing in this double bill: —

• • • •

MORGAN State College is featured on the second program of the series, Dec. 15.

The Bears encounter Loyola in the nightcap of a bill that opens with Western Maryland opposing Washington College.
