—Pride of history

young Duckett's brain only inflicted a superficial wound on Martin.

And, finally, the fight in the third - floor hallway Nov. 28, which left Lonnie Lessesane Jr. dead, and Harvey E. Jones, charged with murder.

In the meantime, the 2,600 student population, 126 faculty members and the thousands of Douglass alumni are frequently hearing dreadfully descriptions of the 83 - year - old institution which bears the name of the famed abolitionist Frederick Douglass.

"A real life 'Blackboard Jungle.'" "Thugville." "Hoodlum Paradise" are some of the titles being tacked on the school.

IT WAS naturally, then, that a search for defenders of the "Douglass Image" would lead to Mrs. Edna O. Campbell, principal.

"Of course these are tragic incidents. All of us are profoundly shocked and grieved," she prefaced her comments.

"It would be more tragic however, if our students, officials and the public allow these isolated incidents to destroy the rich heritage of Douglass."

She then recited a bit of significant history.

"Until 1933 this was the only high school in Baltimore where colored youths could continue their education. Its countless graduates, have made valuable contributions to the arts, sciences, industry, government and the community," she said with a smile of pride creasing her face.

Douglass grads, she emphasized, can be found in local, regional, national and international areas of these fields and have performed with distinction, Mrs. Campbell proclaimed.

"Daniel Comegys, Veronica Tyler, Thurgood Marshall, Dr. Carl Murphy, Judges George L. Russell Jr., Robert B. Watts," were among graduates who were first put on the high road at Douglass, she said.

"WE CAN say without being boastful," the principal continued, "we've always had an excellently - prepared faculty. This year's is typical.

"There is only one teacher on the teaching staff who does not have a degree. All courses here are equal to those offered in any other comprehensive high schools in the city."

The school's band, choir, newspaper and other extra curricular projects have gained local and national honors for excellence, Mrs. Campbell declared.

"Douglass has and is still serving its community well," she reminded her questioner.

"We offer opportunities for work - study programs, job training and direction and guidance for other vital community activities."

Contrary to views of some critics, the principal pointed out, "Douglass' academic standards have not been relaxed since the "decision."

This was in reference to outlawing of racial segregation by the Supreme Court in its historic 1954 decision.

"Since '54, our graduates have entered all fields of endeavor and have achieved notable success."

MRS. CAMPBELL then cited statistics to illustrate the injustice of smearing Douglass students because of the tragedies.

"For the last five or six years our graduating classes have averaged between 600 and 700.

"Before this year, there was never a time when the police entered more than two incidents here in one term. Compared to our population, anyone who is fair and objective would agree that these are isolated incidents, not representative of the student body."

Mrs. Campbell, who has headed the school's administrative staff since September, 1965, following an earlier term as vice principal, then pinpointed the sources of trouble at Douglass and "other schools, too."

"I feel that there is much that can be done in terms of instilling in our young people a sense of responsibility, good behavior and a healthy respect for the rights of others and law and order.

"It has to start in the home. Unfortunately, parents all too often shift this responsibility to the schools.

"Yes, we do have the responsibility of developing character and guiding young people in pursuit of goals of excellence.

"But that does not mean parents should shift their responsibility to their children to the schools. It just won't work."

MRS. CAMPBELL finds little difference between students of today and yesteryear. There are instances of inhibition not prevalent previously, she conceded.

"In most cases, however, they can be traced directly to a breakdown in the home," she said.

ON ANOTHER often-voiced criticism that "too many women are principals of schools — especially in her city schools which are in desperate need of the 'fatherly image.'" — the principal declared:

"Administration has no sex. I believe we have an adequate symbol of the "fatherly image" here. Of a staff of 126 faculty members, 39 are men.

She concluded that the "vast majority of students at Douglass, as elsewhere are "young people serious of purpose with definite goals they hope to achieve."

THEY WERE the real subject of her defense:

"It is about time somebody said something in behalf of children at Douglass. What happens to us — the faculty — is not important. We are dispensable.

"The children should be shown that the rich heritage of Douglass will not be destroyed by bad publicity due to isolated tragic incidents."

MAJOR JOHN F. MALLOY

MEDAL FOR MALLOY — Major John F. Malloy Jr., who has been honored with the Bronze Star for outstanding meritorious service in Viet Nam receives award from Col. F. H. Hendrickson, chief of the Training Division at Fort Meade.

Major Malloy, Morgan grad, wins Bronze Star

Major John F. Malloy Jr., a recent returnee from Viet Nam, has been honored with the Bronze Star for outstanding meritorious service in connection with ground operations in that combat zone from Sept., 1965 to Sept., 1966.

Major Malloy is now assigned as operations officer, Unit Training Branch, Training Division, Office of Deputy Chief of Staff, Operations, Headquarters First U.S. Army, Fort George G. Meade.

He is a native of Baltimore and a 1953 graduate of Morgan State College, with a bachelor of arts degree in history.

The citation accompanying the medal said of Major Malloy:

"He was quick to grasp the implications of new problems with which he was faced as a result of the ever changing situations inherent in a counterinsurgency operation and to solve those problems."

THE PRESENTATION was made by Col. F. H. Hendrickson, chief of the Training Division (DCSOT).

Major Malloy is also the holder of the Commendation Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, and was previously awarded the Soldier's Medal for heroic action in Viet Nam by saving a native youth from drowning.

He and his wife, the former Miss Glenda Grove, live at 1315 Kilmore Rd. with their two sons, Brian and Stephen.

Mrs. Malloy teaches kindergarten at Baltimore School No. 61. He was commissioned at Morgan and is a member of Pi Omega Chapter, Omega Psi Phi Fraternity.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Malloy Sr., live on Route 32, Jessup.

MSC Chi unit makes grants

The Dean Grant chapter of Morgan State College has awarded Andrew Johnson Merit Awards to nine Chicago high school students.

Those receiving awards were Cornell Overstreet of Harlan, Deborah Tyson, Farragut; Dorothy Kemp, Marlan Crews, Dunbar; Beatrice Dixon, Cooley; Clarice Butts, Simeon; Fred Miller, Englewood; Nathanial Harris, Marshall, and Nathanial Cox, Ray-Vogue.

William Farrow Jr. of Commonwealth Edison was the dinner speaker and made the awards.

Mrs. Essie Fair and Miss Arlene Pierce were in charge of the 1966 award dinner.

Greenspring Ave. traffic detoured

Commissioner of Transit and Traffic James L. Foley announced this week that due to sewer construction in Green Spring Ave. from Druid Park Dr. to a point approximately 1500 feet north, it will be necessary to close Greenspring Ave. to through traffic between Druid Park Dr. and Coldspring La.

The closing becomes effective after 9 a.m. Dec. 5, he said.

Northbound through traffic which usually uses Greenspring Ave., will be detoured by way of McCulloh St. at Liberty Heights Ave. to Reisterstown Rd. to Park Heights Ave. to Coldspring Lane, and back easterly on Coldspring La. to Greenspring Ave., Mr. Foley announced.

Southbound through traffic which usually uses Greenspring Ave. in this area will be detoured by way of Coldspring La. to the Jones Falls Expressway then to its point of destination.

Green Spring Ave. is expected to be closed for at least 30 days, Mr. Foley estimated.

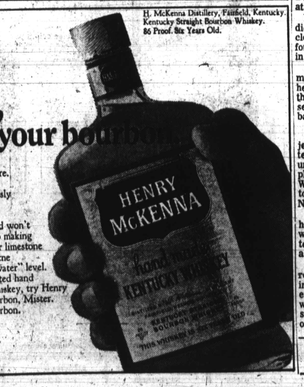
Mister, here's your bourbon.
It's made by hand. With meticulous care. The hopelessly antiquated, deliciously old-fashioned way. Made by men who know good corn and won't take less. Who stop making whiskey when their limestone cone drops below the perfect bourbon water level. If you've never tasted hand made Kentucky whiskey, try Henry McKenna. It's bourbon, Mister. Could be your bourbon.



H. McKenna Distillery, Fairfield, Kentucky. Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey. 86 Proof. 8½ Years Old.

200 youngsters get jerseys thru merchant

Nearly 200 youngsters are playing basketball in bright ly-colored jerseys at the Lexington Terrace recreation center thanks to a merchant in the 600 block of W. Lexington St.

The jerseys "make a real difference, they feel like they are a team now," observed Earl Langford, the players' coach and senior recreation leader at Lexington Terrace.

The members of the 19 teams under his direction, now have "something to show 'I'm on this team,'" Mr. Langford said.

Red and white, green and white, and blue and white, the jerseys are the gift of Samuel Benensh, owner of Benensh's, a clothing store at 651 W. Lexington St.

Established in 1897, the ladies', men's and children's clothing store has served four generations of families in the area.

Mr. Benensh, an articulate man who wants to do what he can to help the children in the area, said, "I just like seeing the boys play basketball."

MR. LANGFORD said the jerseys are used by the 16 teams — midget, senior and unlimited — that have been playing on Monday and Wednesday nights in Lexington's house league since Nov. 7.

In addition Mr. Langford has three district teams which will begin playing teams from other projects in a league next week.

Walter J. Ennals, senior recreation director at Lexington, applauded Mr. Benensh's gift as something that will spark the teams and show the youngsters someone cares about them.
