BABY IN PILLOW WAS SLAIN

HIS HONOR HELPS — Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin did his share this week to aid the AFRO's Mrs. Santa drive for funds to distribute food baskets to needy families at Christmas. Mrs. Santa smilingly approves the mayor's generosity.

Anonymous donor aids Mrs. Santa

"I was just reading some of these letters to Mrs. Santa. Most of us find it hard to realize that so many people are in need

"I believe that everyone who can afford it should help in any way he can. Take this as my small contribution to a worthy cause.

"Use it in whatever manner you deem fitting. I only ask that I remain anonymous."

As of Thursday morning, this was the biggest single donation to date in the Mrs. Santa Food for the Needy Fund.

Barely halting his heavy schedule of work, the contributor handed one of Mrs. Santa's helpers a $200 check and continued his pursuits.

Mrs. Santa, told of the generous act, bubbled with delight and said:

"That is the finest example of the true spirit of Christmas I have seen this year. I do hope others will follow suit."

MRS. SANTA doesn't expect all donors to be able to afford the generous contribution referred to above, but she is anxious to hear from those willing to help bring a touch of holiday joy to unfortunate children and adults.

Mrs. Santa invites her helpers to mail or bring their contributions to:

Mrs. Santa letters must reach her desk by Monday

The AFRO's Mrs. Santa closes her mailbox on Monday. Persons who need aid must see that their letters reach the AFRO Office, 628 N. Eutaw St., Baltimore, Md. 21201 on or before Monday.

Those who wish to help Mrs. Santa supply a good Christmas for the many needy families on her list may select cases from those listed the past two weeks.

Call Mrs. Santa at MU. 5-6015 until 5:30 p.m., today Friday and from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. next week.

Clubs and organizations as well as individuals are asked to get their calls in as early as possible to assure no family will be left out.

At AFRO presstime many families had NOT been taken care of and if all more fortunate citizens fail to share the burden, Christmas will be an unhappy occasion for many poor and unfortunate persons.

Mrs. Santa especially notes at this 11th hour that Christmas is for children.

"If everyone takes a case, we'll all enjoy Christmas the holy holiday more," she adds.

PARTY TICKETS

The AFRO City Desk will be open this evening, Friday, until 5:30 p.m. to receive cash contributions, and, next week, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. for individuals, clubs, organizations who want to bring in money. All contributions made out to AFRO Charities, Inc. are tax deductible.

For tickets to Mrs. Santa's Christmas Party, Dec. 24, 9 a.m. to 12 noon at the Fifth Regiment Armory, write a letter stating how many children need tickets.

Be sure to include return mailing address so tickets may be mailed out immediately.

Below are listed the latest letters from needy families.

Select a Case Number and call Mrs. Santa today.

CASE NO. 456 — I don't get enough money from the welfare to make Christmas for my children. I have four boys, 14, 12, 10 and 8, and a girl, 7. I have a boy, 12, who was born with club feet and not until after several operations I was able to ride a bicycle. Now he can and wants one for Christmas. Will you please help him?

CASE NO. 457 — My husband makes a small salary. We have ten children and it takes so much for food and rent. The children are girls, 18, 11, 11, 10, 9 and boys 13, 8, 7, 5 and 3. We would thank you very much for a basket of food and the girls would take a record player. I have been very sick. Please help us.

CASE NO. 458 — I support my five children by myself. Please help me to get a basket of food for Christmas. I am not asking for myself, but for the kids.

CASE NO. 459 — Please help my sister. She has five small children, all of whom need coats and shoes. A girl's coat, size 8 and a boy's, size 4, 5 and 3. Please help. They need a food basket very badly.

* * *

CASE NO. 460 — My husband works part time and we get a bit of the help from the welfare. I would appreciate any little thing I can get from you. I would love to get a food basket. I have seven children, ages 7 to 18.

* * *

CASE NO. 461 — The holiday is almost here and it will find me without anything. Please help me. I have to go to the hospital every day and my husband is also very sick. If you can give us a basket of food, anything, we will be very happy.

* * *

CASE NO. 462 — I am very sick and would be very pleased if you could help me and my children. I hope it is not asking too much to ask for a food basket. It is very hard to take care of four children without their father. Whatever you do and give will be very good

'Lottery bribes' story stirs probe, questions

By MOSES J. NEWSON
Assistant Managing Editor

Puzzled Baltimoreans played a guessing game with no answers apparent Thursday as they discussed a story quoting William Adams as saying numbers figures here bribe policemen.

Biggest question on the streets was how or why the ex - lottery kingpin, now a busy businessman with political interests, came to be discussing the numbers racket with a newsman.

Mr. Adams now will be asked by Police Commissioner Pemerleau to talk to investigators.

From another direction, Alvin J. T. Zumbrun, director of the Maryland Crime Investigating Committee, says he is hopeful a thorough probe by the City Grand Jury will result from the story.

AFRO efforts to reach Mr. Adams were unsuccessful.

He could not be reached at several of his business establishments.

His wife, Delegate - elect Victorine Adams, said he was in town but probably would not be available to return a call Thursday.

* * *

THE REPORTER who wrote the story on Mr. Adams included a description of pictures on the wall of the family home's club cellar on Carlisle Avenue.

It included some of the statements made during an old Senate Investigation and the results of court trials. It also claimed Mr. Adams refuses to pose for newspaper pictures.

However, most readers of the article were more surprised by the far-ranging quotes in which feelings about crime and associates were given.

There is as much concern in many quarters about the general tone of the article as with the specific charges about payoffs which really are nothing new.

The concern is that any damage resulting from the article will not be limited to policemen and numbers backers.

Cherry Hill liquor store protest set

The Cherry Hill Coordinating Council is continuing its war this weekend against the William H. Brown Service Station, 600 block Cherry Hill Rd., and the Cherry Hill Liquor Inc. package good store 632 Cherry Hill Rd., due to open next week.

The latter wine, beer and liquor license, still the object of a CHCC law suit, is owned by Mr. Brown and former police lieutenant Hiram Butler.

The battle to keep the establishment out of the community of 30,000 citizens will take the form of a gigantic public demonstration at the Cherry Hill Shopping Center this Sunday at 2 p.m.

According to Mrs. Sarah J. Bundy, Council president, pickets will parade in front of the liquor store.

They will be joined by ministers of the community's churches who will take along their officers, members and choirs.

* * *

TODAY, Friday, from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. the Council will lead dozens of citizens in telephoning all news media to help publicize their efforts to keep liquor out of Cherry Hill. The operation is called, "Nuisance Call-SOS."

The first demonstration phase began last week when the Council urged all citizens

Bulk of $50,000 estate to Morgan

By LULA MACKAY

Mrs. Mabel Caldwell Truesdale, who died here Dec. 2, left as little as $5 to close relatives, but what will evidently be a small fortune for the use of needy students of Morgan College.

Persons involved in the administration of the estate said that it will be in the neighborhood of $50,000.

* * *

MRS. TRUESDALE, a divorcee, who conducted practically a one-woman catering business in this city, and in the Bronx, N.Y. during her lifetime, devoted much of her time to welfare, voluntary and fraternal activities in this city.

She never changed her home from 1342 Myrtle Ave. in which she lived until her death, surrounded by the things which in her heyday spelled gracious living. Her silver, cut glass, linens and jewelry, she passed on to relatives and friends in the will.

Her estate consisted of the home, cash in seven banks in this city, and stocks and securities in a deposit box in an eighth bank.

* * *

AFTER NUMEROUS small monetary and personal effects bequests, the largest of which was $500 and a ground rent to the Baltimore branch of the NAACP, the residue of the estate will go to the trustees of Morgan State College.

They are to set up a Mabel Caldwell Truesdale Scholarship to "aid needy colored students," attending the college.

* * *

THE WILL designated an amount, not to exceed $1,500 for burial expenses and to provide a granite or marble marker at her grave. She ordered the Myrtle Avenue home sold and the proceeds to become a part of the residuary estate.

To two brothers, Robert and Eugene Caldwell she bequeathed $5 each, explaining that she had adequately provided for them during her lifetime. To a nephew, William Caldwell, she also left $5 saying that she had provided for him since he was a child, and he also had great $5,000 during her lifetime.

SHE LEFT $300 to Thessalonia Baptist Church in the Bronx, N.Y. where she held membership. She gave $100 each to Provident Hospital, The Druid Hill Branch

MRS. CECELIA EVANS

Judge raps mother in his ruling

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

"This was the most cold-blooded thing I have ever seen. The deed makes a mockery of the name Mother. I find you guilty of murder in the second degree."

Thus Judge James A. Perrott sitting in Criminal Court Thursday concluded a two-day trial that involved Mrs. Cecelia Evans, mother of a 17 - month old baby girl found strangled and sewed up in a chair cushion over a year ago, Nov. 9, 1965.

After handing down the decision to the 21-year old matron, Judge Perrott withheld sentence pending possible motion for a new trial.

Under the second degree murder conviction she faces up to 20 years in prison.

Mrs. Evans remained calm upon hearing her fate and as she was led away from the courtroom accompanied by police officers.

However, she did show signs of grief Wednesday the first day of the trial when she took the witness stand to admit she sewed the dead body of the child, Fentress, up in the cushion.

* * *

SPECTATORS crowding the courtroom gasped as she sobbed, "I found her dead in the crib. She was cold when I tried to give her a bottle.

"I put her in the pillow and sewed it up. I hid her because it came across my mind that my other children might be taken from me if they (authorities) knew the baby was dead."

Midway her testimony she was given a brief moment's pause and a glass of water to regain composure.

Mrs. Evans, stout, dressed in blue knit and appearing older than her age, also revealed she had given birth to a child, her fourth, while confined to City Jail since Nov. 9, 1965 awaiting trial.

* * *

UNTIL SHE was sworn in to testify Mrs. Evans failed to register any emotion thus substantiating the judge's statements.

She remained calm as police officers who discovered the body vividly described how the infant was crammed

'War bride' gone 48 years is divorced

A war bride, who seemed to have vanished into thin air, was divorced this week, when James Riddle after years of searching, gave up hope of finding his wife.

Mr. Riddle, of 516 E. 21st St., testified that he was married to Mrs. Bertha Lee Riddle in Rome, Ga., on March 20, 1918. Seven months later, on Oct. 15, 1918, he was drafted into the Army.

When he returned, he said, his wife had just disappeared. The house in which he had left her was empty and neither neighbors, friends

ABANDONED boy who says his name is Jerome and claims to be six years old was found a week ago today, Friday, in front of Pine Street Police Station. Anyone recognizing the youngster or able to give information should call the Department of Public Welfare, Mr. Walker, 685-3000, Ext. 449.

Carmichael in Ga. victory

ATLANTA (UPI) — Black power leader Stokely Carmichael won a victory of sorts in federal court Tuesday.

The three - judge court ruled that the state's insurrection statute and Atlanta's disorderly conduct ordinance, on which Carmichael was charged in the September Summerhill riot, are both unconstitutional.

The tribunal ruled, however, that the city did no act in "bad faith" in bringing charges against Carmichael and SNCC civil rights workers.

Carmichael had complained that his freedom of speech had been violated by city and state laws under which charges were made or threatened to be made
