POT-POURRI: This holiday was quite a bash! And, with what will remain some of the warmest memories. For instance, Gail Robinson (she's the five - year - old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Archie Robinson) wading through snow up to her knees, Christmas Eve, to deliver a card to her trusted friend, a neighborhood boxer by the name of Princess.

A quintet, who, for years, have had dinner together on Christmas Eve, refused to let the storm, that day, alter their plans. They waded through to Senator Verda Welcome's manse, which was lovely in its holiday dress. Thus is all were there but Llewellyn Walker who was on the opposite side of town and could'nt possibly get through. But Marlene Groston, Lois Mackay and Olga Rodney were there. Olga looked at the others and quipped, "You know we must love each other."

Howard H. Murphy (AFRO business manager) flew off to Niagara, Friday his destination a visit to Alice Hayes. This plot is really thickening. She will be on the Baltimore front this weekend for New Year fun. Will be house guest of Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Adams.

Cheerier than the holly wreaths in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abdella Campbell was the Christmas return from the hospital of her mother, Mrs. David Over.

Also home on Monday was Mrs. Benjamin (Shirley) Gordon, who had surgery in Johns Hopkins.

Dr. and Mrs. Ted Phifer gathered friends around when they marked their wedding anniversary on Saturday night.

Anethia Williams had a holiday birthday (the 21st) and Blanche Beckham and Harriet Trader spirited her to the latter's home, there to be joined by Bernice McDaniels for gifts and champagne . . . thence to 3900 Restaurant with other Moles, other gifts and more champagne, etc., including a flame cake and perfume on the house.

'TWAS A WEEK of parties . . . and one of the prettiest was Christmas Monday when the Clarence (Odessa) Dyson sons held open house. Guests were chiefly, members of the Continentals and their husbands, relatives and her co-workers, and their husbands and wives. Their decorations were superb, from the red, wreathed door to the white Christmas tree . . . from the light colored ceiling of the club room to the bulb-filled, holly stuffed accessories in the rooms. Cocktails and a buffet formed the motif.

Betty Williams held forth in her new and pretty manse on Hilton Road on
