MUSICAL MOMENTS

Concerts by schoolsspotlighted talent

BY ADRIAN C. JENKINS

For the young (as well as the young at heart) the holiday season programs and concerts afford a welcome midyear opportunity of showing how the skill and patience of the educator can channel their exuberance as well as their talents.

In addition to valuable musical training, young people are acquiring the equally important lessons of cooperation and self discipline. Their peers, who form the audiences, too, are not merely being entertained, but are learning to listen and to appreciate.

AT THE Gwynns Falls Elementary Junior High School No. 21, the Christmas concert, under the talented direction of Robert Earl Anderson, was devoted mainly to the choir.

A most creditable performance was given two difficult works — the Bach Chorale "Break Forth O Heavenly Light" and the "Gloria" from Mozart's 12th Mass.

A novel feature was the singing of "Silent Night," in French, German and English, with Nathan Green (9th grade) and a delightful obbligato by soprano Ferreteria Harris (9th grade).

Ferreteria, who has a voice of promising timbre and depth, shares with other students who possess vocal talent, special training by Mr. Anderson.

There were folk carols from Ukraina and the spiritual "Behold that Star," all characterized by clear diction, well supported tone quality and, in several cases, lovely endings.

The concert was opened and concluded with seasonable selections by the school orchestra, conducted by Gary Freeman. J. Leonard Hirschhorn is principal.

• • •

AT THE Harlem Park Junior High School, proceedings were shared by the Dramatic Club, Modern Dance Group, three choirs, the band and orchestra.

Mrs. Audrey McCallum, who accompanied the vocal groups, also conducted the Mixed Choir in a Bach Chorale "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and a Christmas Roundelay that exhibited excellent voice leading. Miss Phyllis Harris, practice teacher from Peabody, directed successfully a similar work.

The Girls' Choir, directed by Mrs. Dorothy Marshall, offered two lively holiday songs projected with clever tones and well-balanced voice leading.

An unusual addition, a Boys Glee Club, was well received, especially in "African Noel," with percussion effects by a drummer and conducted by Charles Smith.

The band and orchestra, with Percy Brown on the podium, played a medley of familiar carols. Considerable talent was evidenced by the Modern Dance Group, under Mrs. Ruth Diggs, in an interpretation of "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Colorful costuming added to the interest of "The Search," presented by The Dramatic Club, of which Frank Scott is faculty leader. Harold A. Seaborne is principal.

• • •

AS IS THE custom, the Frances Murphy Elementary Demonstration School joined the annual holiday program at Coppin State College.

Soloists in the College Choir were James C. Norton, Carla Glover and Linda J. Johnson. We were fortunate in hearing the choir on a television broadcast by choral groups from several of the state colleges.

Superior balance of voices, an engaging rhythmic accent and artistic phrasing bespoke the experienced training by Henry Freeman, director.

THE BALTIMORE Symphony embarked upon another of its excellent programs for the "concert-goers of tomorrow," with a Kinderkonzert which was given at the Lyric, with Harry John Brown as guest conductor.

Mr. Brown, who has been conducting since he was 18, and is a specialist with youth concerts, has a rare way with children.

The program, which was well planned and timed, included works that delighted the audience, such as Villa-Lobos' "The Little Train of the Caipira," the "Prelude" to the opera "Hansel and Gretel" and the colorful "Polonaise" by Tchaikovsky.

The excellently trained Boys' Choir from the Immaculate Heart of Mary R. C. Church, charmed the audience with the familiar "Prayer" from Hansel and Gretel and the rollicking "Street Boys" Chorus from the opera "Carmen."

Dancers from the Harkness House for Ballet Arts (New York City) won everyone with their highly skilled presentations from "Swan Lake" and five dances from a suite by the English composer, Britten.

Not a little interest was aroused by a chubby lad from the audience who took over the baton as conductor for a brief selection.

The printed program made an interesting and useful souvenir, with the very knowledgeable program notes by Mrs. Janet Teach, an alphabetical glossary of musical terms (in rhyme), a picture instrumental arrangement of the symphony and last, but not least, a Hansel and Gretel picture to be colored (by Alene Schoenker, artist).

The event was arranged by Mrs. Rosemary Maersch, chairman from the Women's Committee of the Baltimore Symphony.

CALENDAR: Saturday, Jan. 7 at the Lyric, the Baltimore Symphony with a cast of principal singers and a chorus of 40 from the Comic Opera Company in a concert version of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado," in costume. Elyakum Shapiro, conductor.

Monday, Jan. 9, at 8:30 at the Jewish Community Center, 3700 Park Heights Avenue, the third of the Ensemble Players (from the Baltimore Symphony) Series.

Tuesday, Jan. 10 at 8:30 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Peabody, Mihaly Virizlay cellist, with J. Veress, pianist. No charge for this faculty recital.

Wednesday, Jan. 11 at 8:30 p.m. at the Lyric, renowned soprano, Leontyne Price with the Baltimore Symphony, conducted by Peter Herman Adler. Miss Price will sing arias from "The Marriage of Figaro," "The Masked Ball," "Oberlin," "La Rondine Rondine" and "Manon." Standing room only.

Saturday, Jan. 14 at 8:15 p.m in the auditorium of the Baltimore Junior College, 2607 Liberty Heights, concert by the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra.

Sunday, Jan. 15 at 3:30 p.m. at the Baltimore Museum of Art, Wyman Park Drive, the third concert in the annual series presented by the Chamber Music Society, with the Zurich (Switzerland) Chamber Orchestra, of 28 members, directed by Edmond de Stoutz.

Monday, Jan. 16 at 8 p.m. Gilman Parks said, is an ideal advantage point from which to begin city-wide orientation, but he has no such interest at this time.

He said, if a formidable representation does not 8 8 8 he would remain in the Council to bolster representative votes.

If You Ask Me

BY BETTYE M. MOSS

People, places and things

What to do with those pretty Christmas cards you received?

The Upton School for Trainable Children (No. 203) can use them. Address is 811 W. Lanvale St.

You can send or take them there. Don't expect the school to send for them.

• • •

About that Christmas tree you've taken down:

The City Sanitation Department says please do not throw it out in the street.

"Tie it up tight and put it out with the rubbish. It will be collected on your regular trash day, please!"

• • •

It will be Christmas Day on Sunday at St. James Episcopal Church, Lafayette Square.

Through a snafu, a radio announcement erroneously reported the Christmas Eve services were canceled on account of that snow. They weren't.

So, this coming Sunday, Father Donald O. Wilson will officiate at high mass, complete with carols and Yule decorations at the 9 and 11 a.m. services.

• • •

Party note: The couple who attracted all eyes at the Meritocrats holiday party at Forest Manor were Mr. and Mrs. William Graham.

He is the meteorologist at Aberdeen. She is the former Eleanor Bryant, a social worker at Rosewood.

Our readers may recall she and her bridesmaids carried bird cages at her wedding two years ago in Bethel AME church here.

And, her father the Rev. Harrison J. Bryant officiated. Today, he is the Rt. Rev. Mr. Bryant—bishop of the AME Church in South Africa.

He and Mrs. Bryant get the AFRO over there. They will learn here that their daughter and son-in-law are skilled dancers.

At the Meritocrats, people made a circle to watch them perform.

Cuff Note: Mrs. Graham is a Howard U. graduate in modern dance, and holds a master's degree in sociology.

• • •

Best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Hazel H. Dubose of 3815 Fernhill Ave. They observed their 50th wedding anniversary on Dec 28.

Mr. Dubose, a 46-year longshoreman, is a deacon at Memorial Baptist Church, where Mrs. Dubose (Laura), is a deaconess.

Special orchids to Mrs. Dubose. She has been a loving foster mother for over 20 years.

Two sons will finish high school this June.

They are, Kenneth Gray, 19, a Forest Park senior; and Ernest Gray, 18, Edmondson senior. Another child is Tony High, 4.

Isn't that grand!

• • •

People being kind to other people department:

For forty years, the Memorial Baptist Church Senior Choir has given a Christmas Eve concert at Hopkins Hospital.

They did again this year. Despite the snow, 18 members and Edward McCready, the organist-director; and the Rev. Angus A. Smith, acting minister, made the trip.

Hopkins Administrator David L. Everhart presented them a citation.

• • •

The newlywed Paul Scotts are at home at 3613 Sequoia Ave.

They were married at the bride's Dolfield Ave. home day after Christmas, with members of the family and close friends in attendance.

His son, Paul Jr., was best man. Miss Lula Matthews was maid of honor.

Mr. Scott is project director for the child development center. Mrs. Scott, the former Roberta Woodlon, is a Baltimore County school librarian.

More about people, things

If you call the AFRO office in Baltimore, the pleasant-voiced lady who answers with sunshine in her voice is Mrs. Susie H. Clark.

This week, Mrs. Clark needs plenty of sunshine herself. She was in Boyds Tavern, Va., to bury her only living brother, Moses L. Hearns.

Your sunshine will reach her at 2223 Presstman St. here in Baltimore.

• • •

Frank Harris, Petersburg, Va., died Christmas Day. He and his wife, Olivia, once headed the George F. Bragg Home for Boys in Catonsville in the 1940's.

Recently, just before they moved to Petersburg, she was the director at Tubman House, a women's residence hall, at Morgan.

They lived in Baltimore at 2700 W. North Ave. a number of years.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday.

Mrs. Dale Covington Buffalo, only daughter of the Charles Covingtons was flown home from Germany, Jan. 3, along with her husband, former football player and Morgan grad, Capt. Laurence Buffalo.

She is hospitalized at Sinai Hospital . . . She is expecting the first grandchild in the Covington family . . . What is so remarkable . . . she is in her eighth month.

The baby is due Feb. 10 and Capt. Buffalo is scheduled to leave for Vietnam on Feb. 5. Hope the stork and Uncle Sam can get together.

• • •

More baby news: It was an eight-pound boy on Wednesday afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. Eric Peck (she's the former Frances Murphy Wood, daughter of James 'Biddy' Wood and Mrs. Clarence Henderson.)

Baby has been named Kevin Eric. He makes a first grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. Edward Peck, and a first great-grandchild for Mrs. T. Henry Waters (Virgie), whose first husband was the late Dr. Francis M. Wood.

Baby is also a second great-grandchild for Dr. and Mrs. Carl Murphy.

Cuff note: Baby Peck made an even dozen deliveries in one day for Dr. William M. Hall, the obstetrician.

• • •

Mrs. Alice B. Matthews is now out of the hospital. She is at her home, 1018 W. 43rd Street.

What is it like to fly in an airplane? This was the question the 7-year-old in our house asked a while back.

Last week, she and her 12-year-old cousin found out. They jetted to Buffalo to visit their 11-year-old cousin.

When they landed at Friendship Airport Wednesday they looked and acted like sophisticated adults and seasoned flyers.

P.S. — Biggest thrill for them was eating a meal high up in the sky.

• • •

Cuff note: The brown-skinned lady with the perfectly delightful accent you hear and see on WBAL-TV's 'Learning To Do' program is Miss Ethel Bianchi.

She is a U. of Md. Extension Service Agent in Home Economics, a post she has held for 25 years.

She has appeared on the TV show with another agent, Mrs. Martha R. Andrews, since October 1965.

On Tuesday morning, Miss Bianchi demonstrated making a salmon loaf . . . sounded as good as she said it was.

• • •

Cuff Note: Johnny Johnson who will be two years old on Jan. 15 is a lucky little guy. His mother, Mrs. Brenda Johnson, 105 E. Lafayette Ave. is having his friends in for a birthday party.

• • •

Living: — Jay Clifford, Howard U., A.B., 1910, college track star, sends word from Monte Carlo that he celebrated his 80th birthday riding a racing bicycle from Monte Carlo on the French Riviera to Bordoghera on the Italian Riviera.

There were 21 graduates in his college class.

• • •

Cuff note: Movement of an office desk 'shook up' this writer, so Thursday a.m., we inadvertently put on odd shoes — first time in a lifetime.

No one noticed the oddity except this wearer who is still 'shook up'.

A verse for the week

The writer of the following true lines is unknown:

Mr. Meant-to has a comrade
And his name is Didn't-Do;
Have you ever chanced to meet them?
Did they ever call on you?

These two fellows live together
In the house of Never-Win,
And I'm told that it is haunted
By the ghost of Might-Have Been.

Johnson order hits Rhodesia

President Johnson issued an executive order Thursday to impose economic sanctions against Rhodesia in accordance with a United Nations resolution.

Johnson's order prohibits exports of arms, aircraft, motor vehicles, petroleum and petroleum products to Rhodesia.

It also excludes imports of Rhodesian asbestos, iron ore, chrome, pig iron, sugar, tobacco, copper, meat, meat products, hides, skins and leather.

The edict embargoes about 80 per cent of U.S. imports from Rhodesia, amounting to about $8 million, during the first nine months of 1966.

DAMITA JO

'Evening with Damita' shaping as big show

Maurice (Hot Rod) Hulbert, an experienced showman, seems to know good talent when he sees, hears and watches it.

The Living Legend, as he is known for his many firsts in and out of Baltimore, makes his Lyric Theatre debut with a splash Sunday, Jan. 8 at 8:30 p.m. with "An Evening With Damita Jo."

For her appearance Damita will be backed up by an 18-piece orchestra, including violins, viola and cello.

Reviewers who have sought to express her musical dimensions have used such terms as "a one-woman mardi gras," "an on-key tornado," "a zingy bundle of rhythm," and the "the bouncie-st gal in town."

Hot Rod's own summation of Damita goes something like: "She carries her own spotlight along with a moonbeam, about a square mile of sunlight and a bolt of lightning. They're in her fabulous soul and seemingly untiring voice."

APPEARING ON the Lyric bill with Damita Jo will be two other big acts Freddie Scott and Patti LaBelle and the Bluebells.

Scott, cited on the cover of this week's Billboard magazine, hit first with "Hey Girl," and his current sales buster, "Are You Lonely for Me?" is number two in Baltimore.

Hot Rod says Pattie LaBelle has that type of voice which creates a tingle for her listeners.

U.S. won't appeal court ruling on Medicare oath

The Justice Department conceded Wednesday that the anti - Communist provision of the Medicare law is unconstitutional.

In a memorandum filed in the Supreme Court, Solicitor General Thurgood Marshall said the government would not appeal a Nov. 14 decision by a special three-judge federal court in Los Angeles barring enforcement of the provision and a requirement that applicants sign Communist disclaimers.

The ruling was won by Mrs. Alda T. Reed, 65, of Los Angeles, in one of a series of challenges being fought out in several cities by the American Civil Liberties Union.

• • •

THE SECTION of the law in dispute deals with benefits to about 3.4 million persons not covered by Social Security. Under the statute, benefits are denied to members of Communist organizations.

To carry out the law, the Social Security Administration included on its application form a question as to whether the signer was a member of a Communist group.

Marshall said that ordinarily a ruling such as the Los Angeles decision would be appealed to the Supreme Court. But, he said, the High Court's 1966 decision striking down an Arizona loyalty oath appeared to have settled the Medicare issue as well. Therefore, he said, there was no reason to appeal.
