Daniels with $246,000 project

'Our basic plan is to identify and motivate qualified colored men to intervene in the main stream of business life . . .'

Benjamin Goldstein, director, and his assistant, Samuel T. Daniels, were telling the AFRO about the new Ford Foundation program they are directing as of this week.

With a $246,000 grant for two years, the Council for Equal Business Opportunity, opened offices on Monday at 1602 Mondawmin Concourse.

MR. GOLDSTEIN is a former Franklin Simon executive. Mr. Daniels is the former executive director of the Community Relations Commission.

WORKING WITH thec is Ralph Johnson, a Morgan State grad, onetime management trainee with Montgomery Ward and assistant director of the Small Business Development Center.

The staff will also include an accountant, still to be hired, and three secretaries.

One is already at work. She is Miss Barbara Billy, formerly of the King - Reynolds Accounting firm.

MR. GOLDSTEIN and Mr. Daniels envision that their Ford Foundation project will 'demonstrate how colored businessmen can effectively be assisted and guided' towards a stable and successful operation of their individual business.'

They propose to do this through an in - depth business counseling service, i.e., one which would show colored businessmen how they can develop and expand and how and where they can get help to do so, by providing access to sources in the community and elsewhere.

* * *

AN INFORMAL group of community leaders and businessmen is meeting at lunch today (Friday), to form an advisory council for the program.

Walter Sondheim, the Hochschild Kohn executive, and Henry G. Parks, of the Parks Sausage Co., are co-chairmen of the committee arranging today's meeting.

* * *

THE POTOMAC INSTITUTE, a non - profit research and consulting organization in the field of equal opportunity, will sponsor the program and provide general policy direction, guidance, and supervision to the Project Director on a regular basis.

Its staff will assist in the planning and organizational stages of operation, and maintaining continuing evaluation of the project as it develops, and will be prepared to project nationally if they prove to have general applicability.

Shiloh Church redecorations

Shiloh Christian Community Church, at the corner of Lombard and Calhoun Sts., in West Baltimore, is being completely redecorated and modernized.

Formerly St. Johns Lutheran Church, and familiarly known as 'the butcher's church' because many Hollins Market and nearby slaughterhouse butchers were in the congregation, the old stone structure has been purchased by the congregation of Shiloh Christian Community Church, a member of the Baltimore Council of Community Churches.

* * *

NEW GLASS entrances lead to the main church hall, and a large auditorium is being completely modernized on the second floor of the building.

This renovation work is being done by the Henry A. Knott Remodeling Company of Baltimore and involves electrical work, vinyl coating of walls, partitioning, installation of an acoustical tile ceiling, carpeting together with a complete painting.

The Rev. George W. Baynard is pastor of the Shiloh Christion Church which has a congregation of more than 900 members.

Meat Loaf with new twist

Stuffed peppers have been popular family dinner fare for years. So have stuffed tomatoes and stuffed onions. But have you ever tried stuffed meat loaf?

Stuffed Corned Beef Loaf is a savory main dish that may sound difficult to prepare, but it couldn't be easier to do. It starts with two truly convenience foods — canned beef and ready-to-use stuffing mix.

THE ALL-BEEF meat is flaked and blended with bread crumbs and eggs. Then, it is patted out to a thickness of one-half inch on a sheet of wax paper. Next the stuffing mix is prepared according to package directions, flavored with chopped fresh apple, and spread over the meat.

Rolling of the loaf is simple — just lift one edge of the wax paper and the loaf almost rolls itself. A topping of sliced bacon for good flavor AND garnish and a short stay in the oven turns the loaf into a delightful repast.

Corned Beef Loaf Menu

Sherry Glazed Apple pie

There's a tremendous challenge in developing a new recipe for apple pie, America's favorite dessert, but Sherry Glazed Apple Pie taste-tests like a winner.

Additions: Vegetable Platter of green beans, corn niblets, broiled tomato halves; hard rolls; and lemon chiffon tarts.

STUFFED CORNED Beef Loaf is made with two cans (12 ozs. each) corned beef, unchilled, two slices white bread, two eggs, slightly beaten, one-half package eight oz. herb stuffing mix, one medium apple, chopped Bacon slices.

Flake corned beef with a fork. Separate bread into soft crumbs; add to meat with eggs. Mix well. Pat out to one-half inch thickness on wax paper. Combine stuffing mix according to package directions; stir in apples.

Spread on meat mixture and roll by lifting up edge of paper. Place seam side down on rack in baking pan.

The pastry contains grated cheese; the apple-jelly glaze is flavored with California Sherry, and there is a special topping made of cream cheese and ginger. It couldn't be better!

* * *

SHERRY GLAZED apple pie is cade with one (1 lb. 9½ oz.) can prepared apple pie filling, one (9-inch) baked pie shell, two teaspoons plain gelatin, two tablespoon water, one-half cup apple jelly, one-third to one-half cup strained lemon juice, pinch of salt, and one-third cup California Sherry, Ginger-Cheese.

Turn pie filling into baked pastry shell. Stir gelatin into water. Turn jelly, lemon juice and salt into a small saucepan; bring to a boil, stirring. Add gelatin and stir to dissolve; add Sherry. Cool until mixture begins to thicken slightly; then, spoon over apples in pastry shell. Chill until set.

Serve topped with Ginger Cheese.
