Bishop 'Daddy' Fields buried in Pittsburgh

A former Baltimore evangelist, Bishop Ralph F. "Daddy" Fields, was buried in Pittsburgh Monday.

The sixty-one - year - old minister died shortly after being rushed to a Pittsburgh hospital last Thursday, relatives reported.

A native of Algiers, La., Bishop Fields established the Wisdom Way Church of Christ here in early 1950.

Headquartered at the Good Hope Hall, 655 W. Lexington St., he spread his activities into other areas of the city.

Less than three months after his Baltimore opening, Bishop Fields became the target of a gunman's bullets that struck him in the leg and chest.

At that time he told police of an anonymous telephone caller had given him 24 hours to get out of town—or else.

The evangelist, assigned police protection, hired his own personal bodyguard and implied the assault was instigated by a rival evangelist.

According to police accounts of the shooting, the gunman posed as a Western Union messenger.

"As soon as I opened the door he began shooting," the Bishop was quoted as saying.

Police ruled out a robbery motive when Bishop Fields told them he had more than $900 in his office "but the gunman didn't even ask for money."

ACCORDING TO recent information he and his evangelist wife, Madame Arlena Fields, have being carrying on their work in later years in the Pennsylvania city and Tulsa, Okla.

He is survived by his wife and a fourteen - year - old daughter, Rosetta Fields, a student in the public schools in Pittsburgh.

Gadabouting In Baltimore

Banquet gay minus smokes, cocktails

With Lula Jones Garrett

This is the week that was . . . and an interesting span it proved to be. The evenings were filled with fun . . . and a great deal of wisdom to set one to thinking that life should be gay but the gaiety should have purpose; and that many should discover that often link arms.

FOR INSTANCE, Saturday night at Holiday Inn, some hundreds of members of the Church of Christ in God gathered to honor Bishop James I. Doswell.

The lobby of the Inn was packed with formal-gowned ladies and black tie-garbed men when we arrived. There was not a loud voice in the group, which waited patiently to be admitted to the ballroom There was only warm, gentle chatter.

At dinner, there were no cigarettes smoked, no cocktails served. They enjoyed the company of their table mates. They listened to the program which included talks by Mayor Theodore McKeldin Bishop D. Lawrence Williams of Norfolk, Va., City Councilman Henry C. Parks, Mrs. Veola L. Lerring and Mrs. Shendrine Henry of the Washington school system.

There was the beautiful organ music of Kenneth Laws, and a program of tape music that had been arranged by David C. Dobson. There was singing by a group of young people.

Frank J. Ellis presided, and there, Saturday night, was his bride; a honey-toned black haired beauty, with the most compelling dark eyes and friendly smile one has seen in ages.

Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Laws, also a looker, introduced her. Mrs. Laws, who was stunning in a silver threaded dinner suit, had been our hostess that evening. She had also introduced Mrs. Doswell, and Bishop and Mrs. Doswell's pretty daughter, "Sissie," a Howard University senior.

Miss Doswell, in an ultra hair - do, was wearing a chic black dress. And it was plain to see why Bishop Williams, who has a son, frankly admitted to trying a bit of match-making.

ON TUESDAY evening, Mrs. Eva Wilson entertained members of the Theodore R. McKeldin Republican Club Auxiliary at her Woodbrook Ave. home and I think Mrs. Vergie Waters gave some sound advice.

In installing the new officers, Mrs. Waters compared them with the parts of a car.

The president and vice president, said she, are like the driver and the steering wheel, designed neither to push or to pull, but to guide.

The chaplain she designated as the starter . . . to get things going.

The secretary, like the chassis, "covers" everything; the treasurer is the distributor and the financial secretary, the gas tank, which supplies the fuel for action. The parliamentarian she compared to the emergency brakes.

Members, said Mrs. Waters, should, like spark plugs, be set just right. If too far, they fiss the spark; if too close, they ignite too quickly and can cause the car to buck, jump, cough or stop completely.

New members, said she, like tires, are always needed, because the old ones may go flat, and tires are necessary if the car is to get anywhere.

Ruby C. Gill is the new president of the auxiliary. Other officers inducted were:

Floree Montgomery, vice president; Katherine Jones, treasurer; Charlotte Hackett, recording secretary; Elizabeth Booth, corresponding secretary; Virginia Smith, chaplain; and Virgie Waters, parliamentarian.

Currently the group is planning for a Valentine party on the 16th at which their husband and sweethearts will be guests . . . and come June, they plan to make a tour of the Capital.

NEVER HAS a baby received more admiration than that bundle of joy which arrived recently for the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Luther McKenney.

The little girl was the center of attention when Las Doces Civic Guild (they are ministers' wives) met in the parents' Glen Burnie home, Monday.

They did, however find time to work on plans for their annual fashion show in May and to make plans for a dinner party in March at which their husbands will be guests of honor. The dinner meeting will be at Sutton Place.

Too, the ladies were just getting around to exchanging holiday gifts with their "secret pals." They will be entertained by Mrs. Annie Mae Matthews of Copley Road at the next business meeting

At the last session were Mesdames Mampo McKenney, Hyla Franklin, Marie Dawkins, Evelyn Byrd, Ethel Coleman, Emma Daniels and Louvenia Swanson.

JUNE HARRISON held forth for the Just Twelve on Saturday, and while they did talk plans for a party and heard Elizabeth Demby and Emma Dudley's accounts of their flight to New Orleans and the Zeta Phi Beta doings, much of their energy trended to Mrs. Harrison's lavish dinner, which, incidentally ran from her famous shrimp dish to standard Smithfield ham; with accompanying drinks from cokes to champagne.

In addition to Mesdames Dudley, Demby and Harrison, members about were Bessie Womack, Mary Jenkins, Clarence Matthews, Phyllis Walston, Marion Jones, Carrie O. Johnson and Margaret Cassaway.

POT-POURRI: The William Jones's do a warm family thing. Once a month they and their families dine together. On Sunday, dinner was with Dr. an Mrs. Nathan (Mary) Pitts of Dorchester Road. Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Dams, Margaret Land and her son and Harold Seaborne were in the group . . . and Cliff (Mackay) and I joined the circle. The Ernest Joneses of Seat Pleasant, Md. came in during the evening. They were just back from Puerto Rico.

A note comes from Leroy Durham who is stationed in San Juan, and who is finding Corps work very rewarding. Last weekend he dropped work and visited the family of Dr. I. B. Higgins (this city) in Kingston, Jamaica where they joined Dr. and Mrs. George McDonald in a tour of the island. On the flight over, stopped at Santo Domingo and Port-au-Prince. Plan to move over to St. Thomas this weekend, and hope to look up Bishop and Mrs. Cedric Mills.

Prior to the Inaugural Ball, Friday night, the George (Bernice) Whites had a group in for cocktails. There, were Senator Verda Welcome, Delegate Victorine Adams, Delegate and Mrs. Troy Bailey and Delegate and Mrs. Isiah Dixon.

His survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy P. Langford, Tuskegee and Mrs. Grace Webb, Detroit; four sons, Walter, Middletown, Ohio, Turxton, Washington, D. C., Allen Jr., and Joe T., Dayton, Ohio; eleven grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

DIVORCEE TO WED— Mrs. Doris Moore, wears handsome diamond engagement ring. She and Walter H. Brown, the contractor, plan to wed soon. Mrs. Moore won a divirce from her physician - husband, Dr. Marcus Moore, in a Baltimore court last month.

Sassy Pork and Noodles

Pork and noodles are together.

One of the tastiest is this Sassy Pork and Noodles.

REQUIRED ARE:

Four to five pounds pork loin, boned, rolled and tied; salt, pepper, rubbed sage, one jar (one pound, nine ounces) applesauce, one - one-half tablespoons salt, four to five quarts boiling water, twelve ounces egg noodles (about eight cups loosely packed); two tablespoons sesame seed, one - half teaspoon salt, and Pork Gravy.

Sprinkle port with salt, pepper and sage. Roast on rack in shallow pan in 325 degree (slow) oven 35 to 40 minutes per pound or until meat thermometer registers 185 degree. Spread pork with one-half cup of the applesauce the last half hour of roasting time.

MEANWHILE, ADD one - one-half tablespoons salt to rapidly boiling water. Gradually add noodles so that water continues to boil. Cook uncovered, stirring occasionally, until tender. Drain in colander.

In same pot, toast sesame seed in one tablespoon of pork fat from roasting pan, stirring frequently. Add hot noodles one-half teaspoon salt and remaining applesauce; heat and stir to serving temperature.

Serve roast on noodles with pork gravy.

TO PREPARE Pork Gravy (Makes 2 cups): Remove excess fat from roasting pan; stir 1 cup water into pan drippings. In saucepan, combine 2 tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon monosodium glutamate, one-eighth teaspoon pepper and dash rubbed sage.

Gradually stir in one cup milk, blending well. Add water - dripping mixture. Bring to boil, stirring constantly; boil one minute, stirring.

Makes six servings.

Perk up buffet

Perk up buffets with tasty Cranberry Souffle Salad. It's a perfect partner for sliced turkey or ham.

Cranberry Souffle Salad is made with 2 envelopes (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatine, 1 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon, rind,

Also 2 cups (1-pound can) whole cranberry sauce, 2/3 cup (8½-ounce can) drained pineapple tidbits, 1/4 cup chopped walnuts, and 2/3 cup (small can) undiluted Carnation Evaporated Milk.

Pinto Bean Pot tasty 'or many occasions

American homemakers have long held dry beans in high esteem.

Boston baked beans, chili con carne, bean pots and scores of other bean dishes both round out lean menus and adorn more lavish ones.

IF YOU buy USDA choice hand - picked dry beans you're sure to get the best. This is the top grade issued.

But regardless of grade, dry beans are high in protein content and therefore are frequently included in the main dish of a meal. They are unusually high in iron content, too.

IF YOU have had much experience in cooking beans, you know how some kinds foam up high during cooking.

You can keep down the foam by adding a tablespoon of fat to the cooking water for each cup of beans. This is a good method for Great Northern, red kidney, pinto and pea beans.

PINTO BEAN POT is a versatile tasty dish good for just about any occasion.

It is made with one pound (two rounded cups) pinto beans, six cups water, a fourth teaspoon soda and two tablespoons drippings or vegetable oil.

TO PREPARE: wash beans. Add water, to soak, either by boiling hard, covered, in a 325 degree oven for two hours or more.

Or, in the morning, put beans and the water in large heavy pot or Dutch oven, place over high heat and bring water to boiling point rapidly. Boil two minutes. Remove from heat.

Add soda to shorten cooking time when water is even moderately "hard" Cover and let stand for one hour. This is the equivalent of having beans soak over - night. Use whichever method is most convenient.

PINTO BEAN POT requires two to four tablespoons of drippings, or a half cup bacon or salt pork bits, cooked, a cup of coarsely - chopped onion, a clove garlic mashed with a teaspoon salt,

Also a fourth teaspoon coarse-grind black pepper, a half teaspoon crushed oregano, a half teaspoon ground cumin, three teaspoons chili powder, and a can of tomato sauce.

COOK ONION in drippings or along with bacon or salt pork bits. Add remaining ingredients and a half cup liquid from the beans. Cook five minutes.

Oregano and cumin may be omitted. You may wish to add more chili powder then.

Add this mixture to the beans. Cover and allow to simmer for two hours to blend flavors. Or turn into baked bean pot, covered, in a 325 degree oven for two hours or more.

Serve hot, if necessary, before serving.

BEST BUYS:

Celery good buy in week's market

By VIRGINIA McLUCKIE
food economist

As you make your way up and down the aisles of your favorite markets, do you fully realize the variety and abundance of offerings to satisfy family appetites? The selection you make will determine the total on cash register tape.

In a marketing system such as ours, food virtually knows no season and no geography.

TYPICAL WINTER and root vegetables represent the best buys which are celery, cabbage, carrots, white and sweet potatoes, turnips and winter cooking greens.

Most of these are shipped in from the southern growing areas and nearby eastern states. Celery is coming from California and Florida.

Supply, however is at a burdensome supply of celery and prices are considerably lower.

CELERY CAN be served many ways. Preparation is at a minimum when it is used raw; cut into sticks, fans, or stalks packed with nutritious fillings such as cheese, egg, or peanut butter mixtures.

Cooked celery may be served as a vegetable in its own right or combine it with another vegetable. Add celery to salads, meat loaves, stews, soups and chinese dishes and relishes for flavor and texture.

WHEN YOU buy celery, use every piece of the stalks and leaves in some way in your cooking. The crisp green pascal celery on the market is flavorsome, tender, has few strings, and is low in calories.

The thrifty minded shopper will compare price per serving of the various forms of fresh vegetables and canned or frozen forms. The decision as to time for preparation and cooking probably will influence the selection. There are good supplies of canned corn and a moderately larger supply of all frozen vegetables for your choice.
