Baltimore Symphony tour of South open to all

The Baltimore Symphony Orchestra's Southern tour, Feb. 13 to Feb. 25, includes cities in North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

According to Oleg Lobanov, manager, there will be no segregated audiences.

On Tuesday Mr. Lobanov told the AFRO a clause in the contract states that the Symphony does not accept an engagement where there is discrimination as to race, color, creed or national origin.

He stated, "This is the formal policy set down by the board of directors."

The assistant manager, Kenneth Meine, who also explained the Southern tour arrangement, said most of the concert series are "closed" in each city in that subscriptions are privately sold.

He stated, "If any series is sold on a segregated basis it is without our knowledge."

ACCORDING TO the schedule, the orchestra will play these places the following dates:

North Carolina, Feb. 13 — Davison College, near Charlotte; Feb. 14 — Memorial Auditorium, High Point;

South Carolina Feb. 15 — Greenwood High School, Greenwood;

Florida - Branscomb Auditorium, Lakeland; Feb. 18 — Palm Beach High School, West Palm Beach; Feb. 19 — Municipal Auditorium, Sarasota; Feb. 20—Municipal Auditorium, Miami Beach; Feb. 23—McKay Auditorium, Auditorium, Melbourne; Feb. 23—McKay Auditirium, Tampa; Feb. 24—Bay Front Auditorium, St. Petersburg;

Georgia—Feb. 25 —Valdosta Civic Auditorium, Valdosta.

Keeping your telephone service up to par keeps us hopping. And while we're hopping along, we'll be investing something like $101,000,000 for constructing new plant and equipment in Maryland this year alone.
But we'd like to remind you that you probably won't notice any difference in your telephone service at all. However, if we didn't spend this money, you'd notice a difference right away.
For most of it is used behind the scenes. To provide the equipment, facilities, improvements and the growth needed to keep your telephone service the way you want it to be. And spending this money, as vast an amount as it is, is not such a big deal. It's part of our responsibility to you and all of our customers.
For your telephone is so much a part of your life that you should never have to think about it—except when you need it.
Then, for business or pleasure, for protection or peace of mind, all you have to do is—
Just pick up the phone.
Providing this kind of telephone service may keep us hopping, but the satisfaction you get from it is worth a lot to us. $101,000,000, to be exact.
