Joe Howard at father's bedside

At the Thursday afternoon regular meeting, the Supreme Beach voted to appoint Joseph C. Howard Her reappointment to the staff of States Attorney Charles E. Moylan Jr.

Mr. Howard's name had been with-held since December pending investigation into statements he was alleged to have made on the inequality of justice based on color in rape cases that come before the courts.

On Tuesday the Baltimore Bar Association Grievance Committee recommended any charges against Mr. Howard be dismissed. The committee found the alleged statements on a double standard of justice had been submitted for publication by Mr. Howard.

Joseph C. Howard, Assistant states attorney in New York due to the illness of his 74-year-old father, Charles Francis Jerome Howard, internationally known newsman and AFRO United Nations correspondent, is home.

On Thursday he stated he had no comment on recent Supreme Bench action on his return to former status on the staff of States Attorney Charles E. Moylan Jr.

Mr. Howard told the AFRO: "I am concerned first of all with the health of Dad. I cast all else aside until that is resolved."

He added his father has been confined to a veteran's hospital in New York for two weeks.

On Thursday Mr. Howard was awaiting advice to physicians as to whether they would perform an operation this weekend or next week.

Mr. Howard also stated he has been at his father's bedside off and on most of the winter since he and his brother, Eric, are Mary Charles Howard Jr. are the only two to look after "Dad."

Fellowship sing-along at Sharp St.

Seven hundred or more persons gathered at Sharp Street Memorial Church on Sunday afternoon to "Sing Along" with a 100 voice festival choir from many churches on the Baltimore Northwest District.

The new Methodist Hymnal was featured and chief among the numbers was "All Hail the Power of Jesus."

Other well-known hymns were sung by a quartette from Emmorts Methodist Church.

The choir box was occupied alternately by three different choirs as they rendered Hymn-anthems. They were Ames Memorial, St. John's Church of Hampstead and Sharp Street Memorial.

The Rev. Kelly Jackson, pastor of Sharp Street, gave words of welcome. The Rev. Richard Korpal the chairman, led in worship and the Rev. William Gwynn, the district superintendent, gave the closing words and benediction.

The Rev. M. F. Bishop stressed that the purpose of the festival was fellowship because the churches of his newly merged district do not know each other.

Joseph Spriggses to mark 59th annniversary March 3

By ELIZABETH M. OLIVER

Hundreds of Marylanders and persons on the East Coast will be extending congratulations next week to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Spriggs, 1357 Woodyear St.

The well-known couple will have ben married 59 years come March 3.

Among those arriving will be the Spriggses four daughters and two sons who are among some 200 close relatives residing in Baltimore, Washington, Virginia, Pennsylvania and New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Spriggs, a lively couple, also have other "longtime" facts of their lives together.

They have resided in the same house 59 years, since March 3, 1907. Mr. Spriggs brought his wife at the Woodyear St. home where she has resided 66 years.

Born in Charles County July 23, 1885, Mrs. Spriggs, the former Miss Mamie Reeves, went to live with relatives on Woodyear St. when she was 16. She will mark her 81st birthday this year.

Mr. Spriggs was born Jan. 26, 1887 in Mt. Zion, Anne Arundel County. He will have passed his 80th birthday.

* * *

ALSO FOR 59 years, Mr. and Mrs. Spriggs have been members of Metropolitan Methodist Church in Baltimore.

Never separated during their united life, both the Spriggses accent sharing joys and sorrows with patience and love "in spite of everything" as a motto for young married people.

In addition to 12 children they reared nine of their grandchildren and therefore "know what they're talking about" when they state, "It's best to give them a little spanking early in life to get across your point."

True believers in strict obeyance of their elders as far as youngsters are concerned. Mr. and Mrs. Spriggs count good manners and cleanliness as equally important.

All the children were started off in Sunday School at Metropolitan and, according to their parents, "remember their Christian up-bringing" no matter where they now reside.

Their children and their children's children are also brought up "the way Mom and Pop taught us," the many descendants state.

* * *

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Spriggs, their March 3 celebration will be a quiet one "at home" with the usual family dropping in, the ones that pop in every Sunday, birthday, Christmas, Easter and all the rest of the holidays.

The spriggses four daughters are Mrs. Lillian Moulden, Mrs. Elena Mills, Miss Mary E. Spriggs, Baltimore; Mrs. Naomi S. Jenkins, New Rochelle, N.Y., and two sons, Thomas W. Spriggs, Baltimore, Harry L. Spriggs, Long Island, N.Y.

There are 24 grandchildren; 44 great grandchildren and 135 nieces and nephews. One of Mr. Spriggs relatives was she late George "Kingfish" Stevens of stage, screen, radio and TV fame.

Sole in Sherry

Sherry adds richness to baked sole, as you'll find when you try this delicious dish. Just marinate the filets in California Dry Sherry while you prepare a simple mushroom sauce. Then, drain off the wine and stir it into the sauce during the last stages of cooking.

In making Sole in Sherry Cream, the filets may be arranged flat in the baking dish or they may be rolled before covering them with the sauce. A brief baking is all it takes to transform the delicate flavor of sole and the wine-mushroom sauce into one subtle blend.

* * *

TO ADD a new look to a fish supper, separate each serving of fish with a slice of tomato and serve along with the main entree small dishes of toasted sesame seeds, sliced almonds and chopped green onion for garnishing.

* * *

A delicate California dry white dinner wine Chablis, for instance—will be a good flavor companion for Sole in Sherry Cream.

* * *

SOLE IN SHERRY CREAM is made with 4 sole filets (fresh or frozen), ½ teaspoon seasoned salt, 1/3 cup California Dry Sherry, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons chopped green onion, ¼ cup finely chopped celery, 1/16 teaspoon nutmeg, also 1/3 cup sifted flour, 1½ teaspoons seasoned salt, 1¼ cups thin cream, 1 (2-oz.) can mushrooms, undrained. Small slices fresh tomato, Toasted sesame seeds, sliced almonds and chopped green onion for garnish.

* * *

SPRINKLE filets with ½ teaspoon seasoned salt and add the Sherry. Let stand while preparing sauce. Melt butter or margarine; add onion, celery and nutmeg. Cook gently until vegetables are soft, but not browned.

Blend in flour and remaining salt. Slowly stir in cream. Cook, stirring, until mixture begins to thicken. Add mushrooms and wine drained from fish. Roll up each filet like a jelly roll (or lay flat) and arrange in baking dish. Pour sauce over fish.

Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) just until fish is tender, about 20-25 minutes. Garnish with slice of tomato between each serving.

BEST BUYS:

Pork one of best over-all meat buys

By VIRGINIA McLUCKIE, food economist,

There are easy ways to get variety into meals if some planning is done before shopping. Do take an inventory of the stock of food you have on hand and purchase items to add to these for tasty meals.

It is not news that both beef and pork are in liberal supply. Beef prices are expected to hold stable on into spring. If you plan to use some freezer space for storing values appearing in the market now, remember that boneless and semi-boneless yield more meat for the amount of space when freezing.

PORK IS one of the best overall meat buys. Pork marketings are up about ten percent above a year earlier and there will be ample supplies through March. Beef can be held frozen up to one year with the exception of ground beef and variety meats.

Storage life for fresh pork is about six months with the sausage and organ meats only two months. If you have purchased ahead on meats, it may be well to wrap and freeze cuts for later use. Watch for the various cuts to be specialed and use them for the best buy for a main course.

FOR MEATLESS meals, the fishing industry has much to offer. Very often the seafood counter will be filled with shellfish at attractive prices. Oysters have been in liberal supply. When buying shucked oyster, the raw oysters should be a pale gray color with clear liquid surrounding them.

The standard oysters are a good buy for stews, casseroles, or scalloped dishes and fritters. If you buy shrimp, chances are it has been defrosted before displaying in the show case. Be sure to cook the defrosted shrimp within one or two days. Do not refreeze it except after it has been cooked. Refreezing after defrosting will remove moisture and make a dry, tough shrimp when cooked and also increase cooking shrinkage.

THERE ARE good buys in canned salmon. Packers stocks are about thirty-five percent larger than a year ago. The pack of pink salmon was up sharply in 1966 while the carryover of red salmon from the previous year's pack was also up. Pink salmon can be served in many ways and when you buy a pound can, you get a pound of edible salmon or enough for about six servings of many dishes.

Egg prices continue at a cost advantage to consumers. Compare prices between sizes and when the difference is seven or eight cents, select the smaller size. Grade A quality is recommended.

AS YOU SHOP for vegetables and fruits, the stocks of canned and frozen vegetables will enable you to purchase variety at economical prices. Fresh vegetables on the best buy list are carrots, lettuce, celery, cabbage, turnips, and white potatoes. The Florida pole beans are attractive in price and good in quality.

Best buys in fruit are Temple oranges, Naval oranges, grapefruit, and bananas. Canned peaches and fruit cocktail are in generous supply.

SALMON TETRAZZINI is made with 1 pound can salmon, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, Dash Pepper, Dash Nutmeg.

Also 2 cups salmon liquid and milk, 2 cups cooked spaghetti, 1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained. 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese, 2 tablespoons dry bread crumbs, and Watercress.

DRAIN SALMON reserving liquid. Break salmon into large pieces. Melt butter. Blend in flour and seasonings. Add salmon liquid gradually and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Mix half of the sauce with the spaghetti and mushrooms. Place in a well-greased, 2-quart casserole.

Mix remaining sauce with salmon. Place in center of spaghetti. Combine cheese and crumbs; sprinkle over top of salmon mixture. Bake in a moderate over, 350 degrees F. for 25 to 30 minutes.

Food prices in Baltimore

The retail food price index for the Baltimore metropolitan area declined 0.6 percent from December 1966 to January 1967 to a level of 115.3 percent of the average of 1957-59 food prices, it was announced by Herbert Bienstock, regional director of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Since January 1966, retail food prices have risen 2.3 percent. Purchasing power of the food dollar in the Baltimore area in January stood at 86.7 cents in terms of 1957-59 dollars.

In the Food at Home index, average prices were lower for cereals and bakery products, down 0.5 percent; meats, poultry, and fish, down 1.3 percent; dairy products, down 0.3 percent; and other foods at home, down 1.5 percent.

Prices were higher for fruits and vegetables, up 0.4 percent. Food away from home, representing restaurant meals, rose 0.2 percent over the month, 3.9 percent over the year.

Lower average prices were reported for flour, cookies, rib and chuck roast, pork chops and roasts, bacon, chicken, milk, butter, oranges, frozen orange juice, tomatoes, margarine, eggs and instant coffee. Higher were round and sirloin steak, rump roast, hamburger, whole and canned ham, cucumbers, lettuce, green peppers, and salad oil.

That 'Chick' took Omegas' top prize

By LULA MACKAY

She came as an Easter Chick . . . a fluff of pink feathers, and took first prize at the annual Mardi Gras of Psi Omega Chapter of Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Friday night.

Placing first was Mrs. Mary Buster, whose costumed was judged the most original.

* * *

TWELVE HUNDRED guests plowed through the snow to attend the gala affair which was held in Eastwind, many of them driving from nearby cities.

The Mardi Gras was the most colorful held by the Frater in recent years.

Sherwood Lewis provided music for the long evening of dancing and cocktails, and which was broken at midnight for the buffet and the judging.

PRIZE FOR the second most original costume went to James Kinder, who staged a take-off on Congressman Adam Powell. His bag, tagged for Bimini, his fishing rod, bills oozing from his clothes and a huge record "Keep The Faith, Baby," snagged the plaque for him.

The "Tiger for your Tank" costume, donned by svelte Miss Colles Corprew, won first place for best female; and second place in this category went to Miss Antoinette Vance, who came as Robin Hood.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE (EDITH) HARRISON in magnificent Indian garb won the best couple prize, and second place went to Mrs. Roland Henson and Nathan Harris. Mrs. Henson wore a white satin jump suit, decorated with high colored glass prisms, which she brought from Trinidad, when she attended the carnival there recently. Mr. Harris was also in carnival garb.

Adjudged best groups were the six dwarfs of Snow White fame, their princess being Mrs. Yodora Harris. The dwarfs were Mrs. James Thomas, Mrs. Frenzela Crosby, Mrs. Benjie Parker, Edwin Holden, Milton Credit, Hugh Thomas and Linburgh Parker.

Second best group included Oliver Jackson, Joyce McNeill, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lewis as members of the Mafia.

Theodore Morton as Mark Anthony and Mel Lockleur as a clown, were also prize winners.

SCORES WHO didn't participate in the contest, won audience acclaim.

Cute Shirley Graham in a mini-skirt (the shirt dress a mere 12 inches from the waist) was an eye catcher.

One of the most authentic costumes worn was that by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph (Lydia) James.

Her caftan dress was of the beautiful African cotton and his attire of real skins from Africa . . . as was the hand-carved necklace he wore.

Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Burnett came as French Apache dancers, and Dr. and Mrs. Roland McConnell were in authentic Hawaiian dress. Her mu-mu was of brilliant blue flowered material, and his shirt matched. Mrs. Mattie Gardner wore a dress which aped the Omegas' traditional gold and purple Mardi Gras costumes.

* * *

MANY WORE formal dress. Miss Joseph Howard selected a gold coin dotted cage dress over a black sheath. Mrs. Ruth Croxton was chic in white crepe tent frock, sparked with rhinestone buttons. Mrs. Charles Jones wore a blue satin, crystal trimmed. They had attended an Embassy party in Washington earlier in the evening.

Mrs. Mattie Connor was in pink, and Mrs. Chalispin Dungee danced in a tent frock of deep rose chiffon.

A group that braved the weather to drive from Arundel-on-the-Bay included Mr. and Mrs. Steve Isaacs, Mr. and Mrs. Willie McPherson, Mr. and Mrs. Tyler and Mr. and Mrs. James Webb.

* * *

JAMES E. GRANT is baliseus of the chapter, this year. The dance committee was headed by Earl Hagan, C o-chairman was George Ball, Robert L. Johnson, Dr. Edward McDaniels and Benjamin Whitten.

Other committee members were:

Charles Alston, Kenneth Ervin, Robert Holt, Randolph Thompson, Elmer Patterson, Joseph Perchea, Powell Sheffey and Lloyd White.

Hosts also included: William M. Gardner, vice - baalisus; James A. Spencer, Alexander Gates, Lease Bell, William Henderson, Thomas E. Hicks, Earl Koger, Sr., Benjamin Harrington, Samuel McNeill, Hilbert Stanley, John J. Hurt, Kenneth Ervin, Jerry Pile, James Mack.

Donald Patterson, Alphonse Parks, Clarence Fields, Henderson Neal, Martin Roberts, Dr. J. Preston Grant, Christo Waller, Willie T. Dawkins, Jr., Leroy Y. Barber, Jr., E. H. Holt, James Grant, S. G. Mansfield, and Roscoe Ward.

Their costumes won prizes at Omega Psi Phi Fraternity's Mardi Gras
