Dr. Murray will review the book of this title, published March 10, by Howard Zinn, professor of government at Boston University.

Inner citians to discuss clerics' role

Three long time residents of Baltimore's inner city area, who are members of the Neighborhood Action Committee for that area, will examine the problems, needs and possible methods of solution for the inner city complex on The Good News on Sunday, March 12, at 10 a.m., on WBAL TV 11.

The program will feature the "rare television accomplishment" of bringing Sister Ann Paul and the Rev. Harry Brunette, both counselors for the inner city branch of the Community Action Agency, together with the three actual inner city residents so that the discussion will come to grips with the basic elements of that neighborhood's problems.

Mrs. Marlene Warren, Mrs. Dorothy Hutchinson and Walter Beverly will be the inner city residents who will discuss ways in which the clergy might better help "poverty."

Rummage sale

The Community Action Agency building at 1138 Pennsylvania Ave. will be the scene of a rummage sale today (Friday) until 4 p.m.

It will continue Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. each day.

On sale will be such things as dresses, suits, pants, shoes and jewelry.

Measure asks subsidies to attract young medics

ANNAPOLIS — Del. Aris T. Allen (R. Anne Arundel) has before the House of Delegates a resolution asking that Gov. Spiro T. Agnew appoint a study group to establish a subsidy program to attract more young medics to Maryland.

The subsidies would be for medical interns and resident physicians in those hospitals of the State having a residency program.

Dr. Allen, a veteran physician, sees such a program keeping more graduates of the medical schools of the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins University in the state for their internship and residency, as well as attracting those from other states.

* * *

AS ONE example in support of ther merit of his proposal, Dr. Allen cited this:

"At the end of the 1965-66 college year, the American Medical Association Directory of Approved Internships and Residencies showed the general hospitals in Baltimore, the Prince Georges Hospital, the Suburban Hospital and the Washington County offered 1,263 positions on their staffs.

"This number was made up of 364 positions for interns and 911 for residents.

"According to the same source, only 911 positions were filled, leaving a deficit of 352.

"In 1966, the University of Maryland graduated 109 doctors, of whom only 47 remained in the state to intern, and of the 83 graduates of Johns Hopkins Medical School only 27 remained to intern here.

"Out of the 8,482 beds in the 22 general hospitals referred to, many are laying idle because of the lack of medical and paramedical staffing."

* * *

THE SAME directory showed, Dr Allen noted, that Provident Hospital had an unfilled offering of six internships and nine resident physicians.

"A current evaluation of the need for twice as many doctor graduates in Maryland," he said, "and a substantial financial incentive for most of them to serve their internships in Maryland hospitals is a must if the citizens of Maryland are to receive the kind of medical care to which they are entitled."

Dr. Allen collaborated with Calvin E. Cohen, local attorney, for background material in support of his resolution—HJR 45.

Irish get set for big parade

A full week of activities by Baltimore Irish will mark the annual feast of St. Patrick on March 17.

The highlight of the week will be the annual St. Patrick's Day Parade sponsored by the Ancient Order of Hibernians on Sunday, March 12 at 2 p.m. in downtown Baltimore.

Over 5,000 marchers are expected to participate in this colorful event, and the line of march will include four bagpipe bands, ten drum and bugle corps and other marching units and over 50 organizations.

The Grand Marshall of the 1967 St. Patrick's Day Parade is Dep. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Sweeney.

Ballet company performances set at the Lyric

The second act of Giselle will highlight one of two ballet performances the Baltimore City Ballet Company will present April 22, at the Lyric Theatre.

Slated also for the evening performance at 8:30 is Mozart's An Evening Diversion, Three Conversations by Varese, Bach and Bartok, and a Jazz Suite.

At 2:30 in the afternoon, a children oriented matinee will feature Ballet School, Din Din and selected short subjects.

The performances marks the first occasion that the ballet company will perform at the Lyric Theatre. For ticket information, phone Mrs. Eli Ginny Paul, 764-0172.
