Baked Beans

You don't have to be a Bostonian to like Boston baked beans. The old-time favorite has its adherents everywhere, which accounts for the many different bean recipes in use.

Make sure you have plenty of beans for frequent bean dishes in the weeks ahead. You'll find good buys at the markets on the protein-rich legume now, because of abundant supplies available. Leading types now on hand are pea beans, pintos, Great Northerns and red kidney, which together accounted for 78 percent of the 1966 crop.

• • •

PEA BEANS are the fairly small, white beans measuring about 5/16 of an inch in length — a good bean for baking and many other dishes.

Pinto beans are pinkish cream in color, with flecks of brown. Medium-sized, they run about 3/8 inch in length.

The white and rather flat Great Northerns are a bit larger than the pea bean — about ½ inch long. And red kidney beans are the medium to large size mahogany-colored beans, about 5/8 inch long, that are great favorites in the East and Middle West.

• • •

IT'S EASY enough to vary your bean dishes —even the most simple plain cooked beans. One good way is to drain at serving time and then add finely sliced celery or chopped green pepper or pimiento. Then season further with butter, margarine, or meat drippings.

Another good way is to combine beans with a spicy sauce. For a tasty quick sauce, thin catsup or chili sauce with an equal quantity of water on the bean liquid finely chopped onion. Pour the drained beans into the Add style.

IF YOU'VE never tried Boston Baked Beans, give your family this treat: Add sauce, heat until it bubbles, and you have beans Western Use 2 cups dry beans or Great Northern, beans 1½ qts. water, 1 tsp. salt, ¼ lb. salt pork, 4 tblsps. molasses, and ½ tsp. mustard.

Soak beans about 1-½ hours in the water. Add salt and boil gently 45 minutes. Make cuts through the rind of the pork about ½ inch apart. Put half the pork in a bean pot or deep baking dish. Add beans and rest of pork, exposing only the scored rind.

Mix molasses and mustard with the cooking liquid from the beans. Pour over the beans. Cover baking dish. Bake at 250 degrees F. (very slow oven) 6 or 7 hours; add a little hot water from time to time, if beans seem dry.

During the last hour of baking remove the lid to let the beans brown on top. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

FOR SHORTER baking: Boil pork 45 minutes along with beans. Add molasses and mustard and bake at 300 degrees F. (slow oven) 3 hours. Remove the lid the last 30 minutes to let the beans brown on top.

For a different flavor: Put peeled onion in the bottom of pot or add ½ cup chopped onion.

Helen Baker had courage

Helen E. Baker, was the kind of courageous good neighbor who spent so much time thinking about and working for others she did not have time to feel sorry for herself.

But she could have. By the time she was 27 years old, she had undergone five cancer operations.

Yet, when you met her, you had no idea she was in pain. Her very cheerful manner, her inquiries about you and your work occupied her thoughts.

She earned her degree at Va. State College, taught psychology, did graduate work at Rhode Island College, reared three children and of her own and adopted others.

She was active in her church (Society of Friends), in demand as a public speaker and advisor to many groups.

In 1958, at the age of 51, she went back to college — enrolled in the University of Maryland Law School.

Last April, with two fellow students (James Anderson and Leonard Briscoe), she formed a partnership. In December, they opened downtown offices.

• • •

But, Helen Baker was not able to see them.

The pain in her back and legs had confined her to a wheelchair and, to the hospital for extended periods during the past year.

Plucky, determined, cheerful in spite of personal discomfort, Helen Baker will be remembered by many for her outstanding examples of courage and service beyond the call of duty.

This writer is glad the AFRO awarded her a place on its Honor Roll in 1960, while she was still mobile and able to appreciate the kind words.

• • •

Cuff note: Helen's husband, Dr. Percy Baker, the Morgan State College biology professor, sent this unusual announcement of her death to friends:

"March 10 1967 — HELEN BETES BAKER died today after a brave fight against ill health that extended over half the years of her life.

"Friends and family might mourn their loss, but they should not grieve for her sake; she had seen many of her dreams come to fruition, and by now her days had become so filled with pain that death was a kindness.

"In accordance with her wishes, her body has been donated to medical study and research.

"Memorial services in her honor will be held at Stony Run Friends Meeting, Baltimore, at 2:30 o' clock Tuesday, March 16, and at First Baptist Church, Mahan Street, Suffolk, Virginia at 2:00 o' clock, Sunday, March 19.

"Friends are requested not to send flowers. Those who are so minded might instead make a contribution in her name to the Provident Hospital Development Program or to their preferred philanthropy. 5217 Kenilworth Ave., Baltimore, Md.

People, places and things

People moving about: Mrs. Lillian B. Reid, Baltimore city schools art supervisor is getting to San Francisco on March 18th to attend the National Art Education Association Conference.

From there she will fly to Hawaii to spend the Easter holiday. En route home she will visit with her sister, Mrs. Ruth Campbell, in Pasadena, Calif.

Isn't it good to hear this news about Mrs. Reid! She had been ill for a while, remember?

The Gerald Davises (Anne), have left our shores, are now in Cleveland. He's the special FBI agent.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl M. Adair are back from Petersburg, Va. They were on Va. State College campus the same weekend we were. Both are Va. State grads.

He is chairman of the Steering Committee for the Alfred Sloan Matching Grant Foundation.

Mr. Adair, by the way, is president of the Baltimore Alumni chapter which has a dinner meeting tonight (Friday) at Wilson's Restaurant. If you're a Va. State grad, there will be a seat there with your name on it. You're expected.

On Cloud 9 is Mrs. Pauline (Dee Dee) Pullen, whom many know as the friendly crossing guard at Wabash and Liberty Heights Aves.

She is readying for that jet trip abroad next month.

Her prize riddle won her the trip sponsored by U.S. Aluminum Corp. Also a winner, Mrs. Sybil Plansky of the Merritt Building Supply firm. They'll travel together.

Cuff note: The Francis Pullens (Madeline), honor Mrs. Pullen at a bon voyage party on Saturday.

• • •

People being kind to other people: Mr. and Mrs. James Percy of Calverton Heights Ave., hosted that teenage party which honored their young cousin, Joey Mills Jr. of Portsmouth, Va.

He's the Hampton Institute junior who has won a scholarship to study abroad.

Beauticians' note: — The Md. State Artists' Guild has scheduled a workshop on Monday (10:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.), at Parker's Salon, 1320 Pennsylvania Ave.

Miss Mattie Hawkins, chairman, advises all licensed beauticians are invited. Harry Bradford, George Rawlings and John Parker are the workshop artists.

Mrs. Janie Sanders is co-chairman of the event. Mrs. Rose Davis Smith is Guild president.

A prayer for the week

Watch over thy child, O Lord, as his days increase; bless and guide him wherever he may be, keeping him unspotted from the world.

Strengthen him when discouraged or sorrowful; raise him up if he falls;

And in his heart may thy peace which passeth understanding abide all the days of his life; through Jesus Christ our Lord. — AMEN.

In 1906 five men — Rev. William M. Alexander, Alfred Nixon, Cornelius H. Jones, Lewis H. Davenport and Delaware Williams conceived the idea of establishing an institution for the dual purpose of affording a means of employment to our racial group and economic security to our race through the medium of life insurance. That conception was continued by the late Willard W. Allen and chose associate including the late Emerson Brown and still serves as the cornerstone of Company philosophy. Proof of this concept can be attested by the hundreds of persons who have raised families, bought homes, educated children while in our employment. We point with pride to many outstanding men and women who received their early training with Southern Life and who have gone on to greater heights after leaving the Company. Further proof can be found in the thousands of dollars paid to policyholders and beneficiaries as shown by the many cancelled checks stored in our basement. We need not travel far in any direction in our City before we pass some home or building Southern Life helped some individual or business to purchase. For many years we granted scholarships to worthy students at Morgan State College in an effort to ease their financial burden. Yes, we feel the goals of our founders have been and will continue to be uppermost in the minds and hearts of those of us who are a part of Southern Life.

Indeed, it is our concern for policyholders and friends that prompts this message — Recent publicity in regard to our attempt to have HB 854 passed by the House of Delegates may have caused some anxiety to our many friends and policyholders. This bill is designed to permit Southern Life to continue operations currently as in the past. A few years ago the state set stiffer capital requirements for new companies just starting business.

We feel that it is in the public interest to require higher capitalization for new companies but to make such a law applicable to Southern Life and other established companies is destructive unfair and unnecessary especially when these companies have demonstrated unblemished records of financial stability. Proof of such stability is required by periodic examination by the Insurance Department of Maryland.

We may be a "small" company but we are a "strong" company. A company should be judged by its record of performance and the service it renders. Size is no criterion of value. We can and do give personal attention to all claims and savings to our policyholders, throughout the state of Maryland. Southern Life is a 100% Maryland Company and has been from its very beginning.

We have every reason to believe that you, our policyholders and friends, will continue to cooperate with the Company both by paying premiums on insurance now in force and in the purchase of new protection as the need arises.

Our pledge to you is that Southern Life has no intentions of betraying the trust you placed in the Company for these many years and that we shall be doing business at the "same old stand for many years to come.
